HOUSE CONTROL IS AT STAKE IN TODAY'S VOTING

Ohio and Michigan Ballot Likely to Determine Makeup of Body.

RESULTS MAY PROVE GAUGE FOR '32 RACE

Party Fights to Be Decided in Several States; Rum Issue in Jersey.

(Associated Press.)

The nation is awaiting today's "off-year" elections to gauge the drift of the 1932 presidential campaign and to learn whether the new House will be Democratic or Republican.

Democrats are making serious threats for two of three vacant Republican seats in the House. If they win these the 12-year-old Republican rule of that branch of Congress would be ended.

Of course, the national Republican administration has been a target of the Democratic attack. Today results will inevitably be interpreted as an expression of the public attitude toward the President.

Democracy has her worries in the dispute up in New York between two of her most outstanding leaders—Alfred E. Smith and Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt. They are at odds over a forestation amendment to the State constitution to be voted upon today.

Pondering Effect of Vote.

National Democratic leaders are seriously pondering the effect of this vote on the Democratic presidential race of next year. Gov. Roosevelt is riding a Democratic presidential boom. As the 1928 nominee, Mr. Smith is retaining his titular leadership of the party.

Ohio and Michigan are the battlegrounds which may determine the control of the House convening next month. Reports received at national headquarters of the parties indicate close contests.

The First Ohio District, comprising Cincinnati, was represented for years by the late Speaker Longworth. Democrats have concentrated their attack on this seat and the one left vacant in Michigan by the late Representative Vincent.

A ding-dong battle has been staged in the Eighth Michigan District, where a prohibition modificationist, Michael J. Hart, is the Democratic candidate against the dry-supported Republican, Foss O. Eldred.

Prohibition Is Issue.

Prohibition has popped up as an issue in the New Jersey gubernatorial contest, together with the economic situation. Both Harry Moore, the Democratic candidate, and David Baird, Republican nominee, have declared for repeal of the prohibition amendment, but a third candidate, Edmund B. Halsey, with Antisaloon League support, has intervened.

Five vacant seats in the House will be filled today. Three of these were held by Republicans. The election of one Republican and of two Democrats is conceded by party leaders.

Kentucky also votes, selecting a governor and State officers.

Delaney Expected to Win.

Joseph Delaney, Democrat, is expected to win with ease over his Republican opponent, William L. Padgett, in the Seventh New York congressional district voting.

Edward L. Stokes, the Republican candidate, likewise is considered a certain victor in his race against Charles S. Hill, Democrat, in the Second Pennsylvania District, normally a Republican stronghold.

A tie in House strength, however, is the most the Republicans can hope for if they win in the usual party

Three Nicaraguan Rebels Die in Fight

Men Slain in Last Two Days in Encounter With Guardia Patrols.

(Associated Press.)

Three Nicaraguan insurgents have been killed in encounters with native guardia patrols in the last two days.

A radio report to the Navy Department yesterday said a patrol under Nicaraguan officers engaged a small insurgent band Saturday near San Benido, in the north central section, killing two and wounding one.

Sunday a patrol under Corporal C. A. Brown, of Appleton, Minn., had a brush with a band headed by Felicido Prado, near Latun, much farther south, resulting in the death of Prado. No guardia casualties resulted from either encounter.

Clothing Union Manager Shot Down in His Office

Philadelphia, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Charles Weinstein, manager of the Philadelphia local of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, was shot and seriously wounded in his office in the Labor Institute Building today by a man believed by police a disgruntled member of the union.

The assailant disappeared among pedestrians after a chase of three blocks. About 75 men seeking employment were in front of the building at the time and took up the chase, several of them throwing bricks at the fleeing man. Weinstein was shot in the neck.

Japanese Isles Quake Toll Placed at 1,000

Reports From Area State 200 Houses Leveled by Three Temblors Felt in Several Regions; Communication Lines Destroyed.

Tokyo (Tuesday), Nov. 3 (A.P.).—Reports today of the earthquake which rocked Kyushiu Island Monday were extremely conflicting, the newspaper Jiji Hochi reporting 1,000 casualties and 200 houses collapsed, while the Asahi said there were few casualties and only a dozen houses were toppled.

Three successive earthquakes on the southern Japan islands of Kyushiu and Shikoku knocked down houses and killed and injured an undetermined number of persons today.

Communication with interior districts had not been reestablished late tonight and it was in those areas the greatest damage was feared. The meteorological observatory here said the epicenter of the quakes was in the sea off Miyazaki prefecture on Kyushiu.

The quakes were several hours apart.

The first occurred in the morning, the second about 4 p. m. and the third at 7:08 p. m.

While dispatches indicated the number of casualties was greatest in Miyazaki prefecture, other parts of the islands also were shaken.

Electric light wires were broken or torn from poles in Kumamoto, important town on the Shira River, which was left in darkness several hours. Roadways were cracked and a number of houses collapsed.

Also affected was the town of Fukuoka, which was chosen by Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh as starting point for their recent flight across the Yellow Sea to Nanking, Chinese capital.

Ayushiu, most southerly of the three principal islands of Japan, has a population of more than 6,000,000. It is separated from Korea by the Strait of Korea and from Honshiu Island by the Strait of Shikoku. Shikoku Island is south of Honshiu Island and has a population of 4,000,000.

New York, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Seismograph instruments of Fordham University today recorded an earthquake approximately 6,000 miles from New York City.

The first shock was registered at 5:16 a. m. and the second at 5:27. Direction of the earthquake was not ascertained. It followed another disturbance recorded by the university seismograph last night, when an initial shock was registered at 7:38 p. m. and a second at 7:43.

Yesterday's quake was 2,200 miles south of New York.

(Associated Press.)

A rather severe earthquake was recorded yesterday on Georgetown University seismograph, beginning at 5:17:10 a. m., with maximum intensity at 6:21:39 a. m., and estimated at 7,500 miles from Washington.

Another disturbance, beginning at 7:27:50 p. m., Sunday, with maximum intensity at 7:53:30 p. m., and estimated at about 2,900 miles from Washington, also was recorded. The latter may have been the one reported in Mexico.

CHINA DROPS STEPS, PENDING EVACUATION

Informs League She Thinks Japan Is Violating Two Agreements.

Geneva, Nov. 2 (U.P.).—In a vigorous reply to Japan's "five points," China today informed the League of Nations that she can not consider further negotiations regarding Manchuria until Japanese troops have been removed from Chinese soil.

China declared that the continued possession of Chinese territory by Japanese was in violation both of the Kellogg pact and the nine-power agreement made after the Washington conference.

The note was presented to the council today by Sir Eric Drummond, secretary-general of the League of Nations.

"As long as Japanese troops remain in illegal possession of Chinese soil," the document read, "contrary to the request of the council of the League of Nations, and in violation of the Kellogg pact and the nine-power treaty, neither good relations nor negotiations are possible.

The note says that the only means of peace in the Far East lay through the Permanent Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, but that complete withdrawal of Japanese troops before November 16 was necessary before recourse to that body could be permitted.

Drummond also distributed to the council the reply of Aristide Briand, foreign minister of France. Briand insisted that the five Japanese points were amply covered in the council's resolution of October 24, while the fifth was covered by China's offer of arbitration for the purpose of establishing the validity of existing treaties.

It is understood in league circles that the meeting of the council scheduled for November 16 to discuss the Manchurian situation probably

CANNON OPENS FIGHT ON INDICTMENT LAW

Bishop's Attorneys Charge Act Is Unconstitutional; Nine Sign Bond.

(Associated Press.)

Flanked by five attorneys, Bishop James Cannon, jr., sat grasping a crutch in Criminal Court yesterday, and challenged the constitutionality of the Federal law he is charged with violating in the 1928 presidential campaign.

The churchman listened attentively from the front row of the courtroom as Justice James Proctor set Friday, November 20—a week after the bishop's sixty-seventh birthday—for argument on his demurrer to a District of Columbia Supreme Court indictment alleging failure to report campaign contributions.

A few minutes earlier, the Southern Methodist prelate, surrounded by parishioners, signed a $1,000 bond for his appearance, and saw Miss Ada L. Burroughs, of Richmond, Va., treasurer of his anti-Smith Democrats committee, do likewise.

His bond was immediately indorsed by nine bondsmen, led by Dr. William A. Shelton, pastor of the Mount Vernon Methodist Episcopal Church South, who was recently acquitted in a church trial on charges brought by a former secretary. The bondsmen followed the bishop into

Don Moyle Starts Term For Drunken Driving

Los Angeles, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Don Moyle, of Riverside, who with Cecil Allen was forced down in the North Pacific on a projected flight from Tokyo to Takoma, Washington, began serving a long delayed 30-day jail sentence today on a charge of driving an automobile while he was intoxicated last spring.

Akron Is Back at Lakehurst After First Trip to Capital

Returns and Leaves Again on Night Cruise; Will Go to West Coast Early in 1932 and May Make Flight to Honolulu.

Aboard U. S. Akron, Nov. 2 (U.P.).—America's newest aerial warship, the $5,300,000 airship Akron, arrived back at its Lakehurst, N. J., air dock tonight after a ten-hour voyage over five States, and left again soon afterward on a night cruise.

Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, whose two-starred flag the Akron flew today, was pleased with the vessel's performance. He said she would be sent to California in January or February for duty with the Pacific fleet and intimated that she might make a flight to Honolulu soon afterward.

The Akron weighed off from Lakehurst at daybreak and followed the Los Angeles, which left a half hour earlier, to Washington, where the two ships met and continued their flight in fleet formation, for the first time in this country, to New York City.

Crossing the States of New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania and New York, they headed out to sea over Ambrose Lightship, turned south along the New Jersey coast and headed in again at Barnegat Bay, covering roughly some 650 miles with an average speed of 65 miles an hour.

The Los Angeles continued on an all-night training cruise, the route for which was not made public, and was joined by the Akron after the latter had unloaded her passengers.

Today's flight was without untoward incident save for a spell of "bumpy" weather between Washington and New York. Admiral Moffett described it as the worst he had experienced, but the Akron took the air swells in a gentle manner compared to the way an ocean liner pitches in a heavy sea.

The departure from Lakehurst this morning was an excellent example of Navy efficiency.

As the ship, larger than the Woolworth Building and more powerful than any other air cruiser, slid easily through the air the early morning clouds cleared away and bright sunshine cast the Akron's shadow ahead of her as she dove into the southwest.

On the outskirts of Annapolis two fighting airplanes came up to pay their respects and to convoy the flagship for half an hour. As the airship passed over the United States Naval

U. S. HAS PLAN TO END BOOMS AND DECLINES

Commerce Officials Will Offer Idea to Parley Here Next Week.

PROPOSAL TO SEEK INDUSTRIAL PLANNING

Budgeting of Production on Long-Time Basis Is Stabilization Step.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Convinced by months of study that the major fluctuations of the business cycle can be eliminated by industrial planning, officials of the Department of Commerce have perfected a broad-gauge program calculated to stimulate adoption of stabilizing methods in every important line of trade and in every section of the country.

Details of the plan, which is to be worked out through some 400 trade associations representing every phase of American economic activity, will be presented here next week at a meeting of the National Association of Trade Executives.

In many respects the plan parallels closely the project outlined six weeks ago by Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric Co., but it does not contemplate establishment of additional governmental machinery. Instead, it calls for each industry's putting its own house in order, with the national government assisting through research and coordination and facilitating interindustry relations.

Fulfillment of Pledge.

In official circles the Commerce Department's program is regarded as the fulfillment of the pledge given by President Hoover before the convention of the American Bankers Association at Cleveland in October, 1930 "Our problem today," the President said on that occasion, "is to complete the restoration of order in our ranks and to intensify our efforts to prevent such interruptions in the future."

Methods to assure continuous employment were one of the major objectives of the exhaustive studies which led to the department's plan. A clear definition of helpful activities which do not involve the risk of antitrust actions against the sponsoring trade associations was another phase of the undertaking. Administration of the plan is to rest with the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, which already maintains direct contact with all the dominant trade groups in both production and marketing.

To Insure Future Stability.

"The forward-looking individual or group will act now to insure future stability, and will take advantage of the means which business itself has set up in the Department of Commerce to determine its needs and measures," said Frederick M. Feiker, director of the bureau, in outlining the project.

"The time has come for definite action by American business, through its organized groups, in the direction of effective economic planning. We have all been indulging in a plethora of discussion as to what should be done. The need now is for a modicum of action, in order that business may never again confront the disastrous toboggan of the business cycle without actual effective means of applying the brakes."

Since preliminary announcement of the new national stabilization scheme was made before a group of trade executives two weeks ago, representatives of seven different industries

Fess Calls G. O. P. Commanders Here

National Committee Will Meet December 15 to Pick Convention City.

(Associated Press.)

Chairman Fess yesterday called the Republican national committee to meet here December 15 to select a city for the 1932 party convention.

In a brief statement, he said: "As matters of great importance will come up for consideration, it is hoped that the entire membership may be present in person or represented by proxy."

The Ohio senator recently was prevailed upon to remain as chairman of the national organization until after the nominating convention.

Cleveland and Chicago have been the most prominently mentioned for the convention. Philadelphia and Atlantic City also have made bids for the meeting.

Georgia Policeman Held For Killing in Rum Raid

Conyers, Ga., Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Walter Carroll, Decatur, Ga., policeman, was charged with manslaughter today in connection with the shooting of Richard L. Shirling during a prohibition raid. He was held on $5,000 bail. The case probably will be tried during the January term of court.

Shirling, first identified as Shirley Smith, was shot by Carroll during a raid on a still when, according to Carroll, he resisted arrest. On the day of the shooting Carroll was held on a technical charge pending investigation. This charge was changed to murder when he was arraigned for hearing today.

LABOR GROUPS SEEK MEETING ON RAIL WAGES

21 Organizations Join in Resolution Directed to Executives.

RELIEF OF JOBLESS IS INCLUDED AS AIM

Request of Conference Here Repeats Step Ignored Last Summer.

(Associated Press.)

Conference with railway executives to seek ways of stabilizing employment and wages was sought yesterday by representatives of 21 national railroad labor organizations.

This action was taken after an all-day meeting of the labor leaders, who represent 1,250,000 employes. A resolution proposing the conference was transmitted immediately to R. H. Aishton, chairman of the Association of Railway Executives, whose headquarters are here.

What position the executives will take on the proposal was not made known. Some of the labor leaders said, however, a similar suggestion they advanced last summer proved fruitless.

Job Aid Leads 28 Subjects.

Unemployment was described as the most important of 28 subjects listed for discussion by the labor leaders as they began a three-day meeting yesterday. A total of 350,000 railway employes were said to be out of work.

Labor representatives at a meeting here last July warned that they would oppose to the utmost any efforts to reduce wages.

While yesterday's conference was in progress Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, proposed to a Senate manufacturers subcommittee that the transportation act be amended to permit railroads to retain high earnings in prosperous years to tide them over lean years.

Pool to Lend Stability.

Willard said creation of such a pool would aid the railroads in playing an important part in stabilizing industry. The law now prescribes that half of all earnings above 5¾ per cent must be turned over to the Government for aiding weaker roads and the other half used to build up reserves.

Under the resolution adopted by the labor group the conference would consider "any proposals affecting railway operation which railway managements desire to advance and any proposals, including present and future relief of unemployment and stabilization of employment, which this association desires to advance."

It also pledged the organization to "carry on cooperative action * * * in aid of each and every organization of employes affiliated with this association to protect and to promote their common interest in meeting the needs of the present situation."

Change in Year Cited.

"The economic conditions affecting the operations of and employment on the railroads have changed materially in the current year," the resolution read, "and the earnings of railroad employes and the amount of available employment have been reduced severely.

"Proposals affecting railway wages have been made public by several of the railroads and are known to be under consideration by others.

"The employes of all the railroads face the urgent need for the adoption of measures which may provide, not only temporary relief, but assurances of future stabilization of employment and relief from continuing reductions of employment and cyclical periods of grave unemployment.

Public Responsibility Recognized

"Both the managements of the railroad systems and their employes are organized so that they are able to deal nationally with problems and emergencies affecting the entire transportation industry and these organizations have a responsibility not only to their memberships, but to the public, to act in concert to work out prompt and adequate solutions of their conflicting interests in order to promote the general welfare

Lindbergh to Pilot 'American Clipper'

Will Take 50-Passenger Plane on Maiden Trip to Caribbean.

New York, Nov. 2 (U.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will pilot the 50-passenger flying boat, "American Clipper," in its maiden flight over the transcaribbean system of the Pan-American Airways system this month.

Lindbergh will fly from Miami to Jamaica, Colombia and Panama to study the big ship under actual transport operation and to make a survey of operating facilities in the Caribbean area. He is technical advisor of the Pan-American system. The start of the flight has been scheduled for November 17.

Juan T. Trippe, president of the company, said that Lindbergh's study in the Caribbean area will be made with a view to use of more large air liners of the American Clipper type. The plane was recently christened by Mrs. Herbert Hoover, as the flagship of the Pan-American fleet, which consists of 102 planes.

PRESIDENT PICKS JURY TO SIFT NAVY DISPUTE STIRRED BY PAMPHLET

LEAGUE ACTION HIT BY NAVY SECRETARY

Rumors Fly That President Will Receive Apology Before 'Trial.'

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

President Hoover late yesterday appointed a committee of five to act as a jury in his fight with William H. Gardiner, president of the Navy League.

The five men are Admiral Hugh Rodman, U. S. N., retired; John Hays Hammond, retired mining engineer; Eliot Wadsworth, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury; William R. Castle, jr., Undersecretary of State, and Ernest Lee Jahncke, Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

Just before the White House statement was issued, Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams issued one in which he expressed his "unqualified disapproval" of the "personal attack upon the Commander in Chief of the Navy, the President."

Adams Refers to Pamphlet.

Secretary Adams was referring to the pamphlet Mr. Gardiner issued last Wednesday, a pamphlet in which the Navy League leader said that President Hoover not only had tried to "starve" the Navy but had shown "abysmal ignorance" with regard to naval matters.

Meantime there were reports that Mr. Gardiner might make an apology to the President in advance of the investigation by the vindication committee.

These reports probably were based on the statement Sunday night by Henry Breckinridge, former president of the Navy League, to the effect that he wished to "dissociate" himself from all portions of Gardiner's statement that were disrespectful to the President of the United States.

The President has said that he expects Gardiner to make an apology for his vehement remarks.

Friends of Gardiner looked upon the investigating body as a "stacked" committee, and were confident that the committee would return a verdict in favor of the President.

League Directors to Meet.

The executive committee of the Navy League will meet here tomorrow, and it is expected that at least some of the members will advise Gardiner to make a qualified apology.

President Hoover, who last Thursday announced that he was going to appoint a committee before which agencies of the Government would demonstrate the "untruths and distortions of fact" in Gardiner's pamphlet, had been waiting for a roster of the Navy League's membership before announcing the make-up of his committee.

Yesterday afternoon a messenger from the Navy League arrived at the White House bearing the roster of 4,000 names.

Along about the dinner hour, Theodore Joslin called in reporters and gave them the President's statement. It said:

"The President today appointed a committee comprised of Admiral Hugh

TOURIST GAS VICTIM DIES; SON YET ALIVE

Monoxide Poisoning Is Fatal Despite Transfusions Offered by 50.

Efforts to save the life of Homer Huigill, of Asheville, N. C., who, with his son, Hugh, was found unconscious in a Tourist Camp cabin Saturday afternoon, were brought to nought yesterday when blood transfusions failed to bring about the hoped-for response.

The elder Huigill died late yesterday, and the son was not expected to live through the night. Coroner Joseph D. Rogers was investigating the death, undecided whether he would hold an inquest.

The two men, both tourists, were discovered sleeping in a closed cabin, a portable gas heater burning nearby. The theory was advanced carbon monoxide created by the burning stove overcame the two, but pending the coroner's decision no cause for death was given.

The Fire Department Rescue Squad, first summoned to the camp, worked over the men an hour before they were removed to the hospital. Neither has ever recovered consciousness. The Rescue Squad last night filed a report of the incident with the coroner.

Efforts of hospital physicians to communicate with relatives of the two men have been futile, although it is known that the father was employed as a general repair man in Asheville before he lost his job a short time ago. The men were believed to have come here in search of work. Two transfusions were given to each of the men Saturday. It was said last night another may be attempted to save the younger.

British Conservatives Win Municipal Elections

London, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—The avalanche of conservative votes that swamped the Labor party in the general election last Tuesday was evident again today in municipal elections throughout England and Wales.

7 ASYLUM INMATES LOST IN FIRE PANIC

Lunatics Fight Doctors and Nurses Attempting to Rescue Them.

Penetang, Ontario, Nov. 2 (U.P.).—Fire broke out today in the cottage unit of the Ontario Home for Mentally Defective, causing a panic among 42 of the institution's most violently insane patients, who resisted the efforts of doctors and nurses to rescue them.

After the cottage had burned to the ground, seven bodies were taken from the ashes. Other inmates were rescued only because doctors and nurses risked their lives repeatedly to drive into the open lunatics who, in panic, fought to remain inside, where they, too, would have perished in the flames. Two were seriously injured.

A bedlam of shrieks, screams, and moans attracted attendants. Insane men were racing around the room, turning over beds, wrestling with one another, screaming at the top of their lungs. Others were huddled in corners. Above, the ceiling cracked in flames.

The doors were unlocked, and doctors and nurses ran in, shouting orders and trying to still the panic. They were seized and clawed. Doctors brought their fists into action. Nurses were organized into groups strong enough in collective strength to overpower the patients and carry them kicking, biting, and screaming from the burning ward.

Many clung desperately to beds, refusing to submit to rescue. Grabbing handfuls of hair, using their arms to choke inmates into submission, the doctors and nurses pried them loose and dragged them outside.

In a few minutes the entire ceiling was in flames and the roof sagged in imminent danger of collapse. Still the doctors and nurses returned to drag a few more to safety. Finally the room was so hot that no person could breast the flames. A second later the roof collapsed, with five in-

Richly Clad Baby Found Abandoned in Gas Station

Two-Month-Old Girl, Believed Left by Man and Woman Who Stopped Few Minutes for Auto Needs; Child Placed in Children's Hospital.

An infant, only two months old, attired in "what the well-dressed baby will wear," was received as a foundling last night at Children's Hospital after she had been abandoned for more than two hours on a cold concrete floor of a filling station at Sixth street and New York avenue.

Nurses and internes at the hospital said the baby was dressed in apparel as good or better than any child ever received there. Police believe she was abandoned by a man and a woman, both well dressed, who were riding in a well-kept sedan.

The baby girl tried her best to call attention to her plight about an hour before she was found, but Charles C. Martin, proprietor of the station, of 601 New York avenue northwest, believed his ears were playing tricks on him.

He was busy at his work about 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon when he heard the faint cries of the infant. At first he believed some child had

Gandhi Protests Plans For India's Legislature

London, Nov. 2 (U.P.).—Mahatma Gandhi's day of silence and meditation did not extend to nonparticipation in a discussion at the round table conference today, for the Indian leader became sufficiently aroused to address a note to the presiding officer.

Gandhi protested, in a hastily scribbled note to Lord Sankey, to some of the main provisions of the committee's draft of a report recommending the two-chamber legislature for India, to the method of elections and to the provisions for special representation in the legislature of European landlords.

LEADERS OF FINANCE IN CONGRESS GATHER

Moratorium and Tax Plans Subjects for Series of Meetings Planned.

(Associated Press.)

An important series of conferences on the Hoover moratorium, Federal revenue and tax proposals is scheduled to begin soon between members of Congress and administration officials.

Republicans and Democrats of the powerful House ways and means committee, which initiates all revenue raising legislation, are gathering here in preparation for the discussions.

Representative Hawley, of Oregon, chairman of the last committee, is due here November 16. Representative Garner, of Texas, the ranking Democrat of the group, is expected next week.

Already several of the committee, including Representatives Ramseyer, of Iowa; Hadley, of Washington; Crowther, of New York; Frear, of Wisconsin; Aldrich, of Rhode Island, Republicans; Hill, of Washington, and Rainey, of Illinois, Democrats, have returned to Washington. The others of the group are expected by November 15.

The Treasury Department's study of methods of increasing revenues to meet the growing Treasury deficit will be one of the subjects of the conferances. The Hoover debt moratorium, its possible extension, the money question, a tariff on petroleum and copper and the administration-suggested select sales tax and revision of taxes also are to be discussed.

Hawley is expected to sponsor the sales tax regardless of whether the Republicans or Democrats organize the House. He will confer with President Hoover, Secretary Mellon and Undersecretary Mills of the Treasury shortly after his arrival. It is not known whether they will discuss these questions together. In the past Hawley has undertaken the sponsorship of administration proposals after conferences with these three.

Garner, who has conducted a quiet study into the Government's financial problems, is understood to have formulated a program for strengthening the revenue-raising laws.

His inquiry has been directed toward increasing the income tax in the higher brackets, the levying of a gift tax and stopping of loopholes in the income tax by which big income tax payers might evade the law. He also will confer with Secretary Mellon and Undersecretary Mills.

Representatives Bacharach, of New Jersey, and Ramseyer, of Iowa, important Republican members of the committee, also have inheritance, income and estate tax programs mapped out.

Ramseyer has a proposal for stabilization of the purchasing power of money arrived at after an exhaustive study of the subject.

Returning yesterday, Ramseyer said "the money issue will be one of the most important the coming Congress will have before it." He added that he would make an announcement on this and other matters within a few days.

Election Judge Freed Of Vote Fraud Charge

Winchester, Va., Nov. 2 (A.P.).—John W. Headley, county election judge, charged with attempted bribery during the Democratic primary in August, today was exonerated by the Frederick electoral board which immediately ordered him to act as a precinct judge in the general election tomorrow.

Headley was charged by H. E. Shull with having attempted to bribe his daughter, Louise Shull, to vote for Lee Whitacre against Isiah Roe, incumbent, for commissioner of the revenue candidate in the primary. The charges were dismissed after the evidence was heard in a secret session of the board today.

fallen into the deep grease pit, and rushed over to investigate, but found nothing. He went back to his work and again thought he heard a baby cry, but decided he must have been mistaken.

However, the child's insistance on rescue became compelling and her wails at last led to a thorough investigation. Mr. Martin found her lying in the middle of the draughty concrete floor of the women's rest room. She was protected only by her clothing and a blanket of excellent texture.

He immediately called police, who transferred the baby first to the Second Precinct Station and later sent her to Children's Hospital.

Mr. Martin told police he had reason to believe the infant was left by a man and a woman who appeared at the filling station in a well-kept sedan about 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The man, who was driving the car, asked the station helper, Charles Carpenter, of 14 Fourteenth place northeast, to check the oil and gas. In the meantime the woman had gotten out of the car and disappeared for a few minutes. The car needed no attention, Mr. Carpenter said, and when the woman returned the pair drove away.

Neither Mr. Martin nor Mr. Carpenter saw the baby at the time, but explained they were very busy with their work and paid no particular attention to the occupants of the car.

Bartle Bull to Wed Miss Rosemary Baul

Chicago, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—A marriage license was issued today to Bartle Bull, 29, and Miss Rosemary Baul, 20-year-old society girl.

Miss Baul made her debut last season. Bull is the son of W. Perkins Bull, millionaire Canadian and British attorney. Federal narcotic agents raided the elder Bull's apartment on Lake Shore Drive last February and dismissed the affair later with a terse, "It was all a mistake."

ECONOMICS PRESSED ON CUBA'S CONGRESS

President Machado Seeking Consolidation of Peace; U. S. Is Defended.

Havana, Cuba, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—President Machado directed the attention of the Cuban Congress to economic problems when it reconvened today and said he expected a "definite consolidation of peace."

Cuba's economic condition has been the subject of several statements recently in which the United States has been variously blamed on account of its tariffs and defended as a friend.

Senator Celso Cuellar del Rio, Matanzas delegate to the Cuban Congress, said today he disagreed with Senator Viriato Gutierrez's recent statement that Cuba's economic crisis is due to the Platt amendment, the treaty of reciprocity with the United States and the high tariffs of that nation."

"Our economic difficulties derive," the Matanzas man said in a formal statement, "from the * * * fact that our potential riches are absorbed by foreign capital in the stupendous proportion of 57 per cent, and, in riches already developed, even more, since the proportion is close to 80 per cent."

This, he said, "has brought about, in the 29 years of our republican existence, an unfavorable balance in our finances of $630,587,571, and a monetary supply of less than $60,000,000."

The Hoover administration, like that of Roosevelt, has "helped us to conquer and strengthen our independence and has always aided us in moments of economic difficulties," he said.

Neither is the United States to blame, he asserted, for the fact that "strangers have taken over the greater, and the better, part of the national territory; made themselves lords of almost all Cuban commerce; absorbed the greater volume of the sugar and tobacco industries; dominated the more important developments of public services; nor for our lack of a banking system and our own money."

Change in Paraguay Aids Non-Aggression Parley

(Associated Press.)

Washington participants in the coming Bolivian-Paraguayan nonaggression negotiations yesterday breathed easier since the change in Paraguay's government had passed without interfering with plans for the November 11 meeting.

Prior to President Guggiari's handing over his powers to the vice president last week his residence had been stoned by student demonstrators opposed to the government's policy on the Chaco boundary question and the succeeding events were watched with some apprehension here by representatives of the five neutral countries working to bring the disputants together.

Pan-American Envoys Finish Industrial Tour

(Associated Press.)

Dr. William Manger, chief of the Pan-American division of the Pan-American Union; Dr. Reid, foreign trade adviser of the Union; Dr. B. J. Lloyd, director of the Pan-American sanitary bureau, and members of the Pan-American Union staff, returned yesterday from an industrial tour with delegates to the fourth Pan-American Commercial Conference.

Among other staff members who made the two weeks' trip were Jose Tercero, of Mexico, conference interpreter; Guillermo Suro, of Porto Rico, an interpreter.

Feminist Leader Jailed.

Havana, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Dr. Ofelia Dominguez, feminist leader twice jailed for alleged subversive activities against President Machado's government, was arrested again today, charged with shooting Pelicia Gonzalez, 22.

Nicaraguan Liberals Gain.

Managua, Nicaragua, Nov. 2 (A.P.). Liberals were overwhelmingly victorious in yesterday's municipal elections in Nicaragua, except in Granada, where the Conservatives won, incomplete returns indicated today. The voting was peaceful and orderly.

HOOVER GETS PLAN OF HOME FINANCING

Building and Loan League Gives Details for Aid to Householders.

(Associated Press.)

A detailed proposal to ease home financing was laid before President Hoover yesterday by the United States Building and Loan League. Neither Secretary Lamont, who was present at the conversation, nor officials of the organization would discuss the plan. All said the President probably would make a statement later.

Those who conferred with him were M. E. Best, of Pittsburgh, president of the league; H. F. Cellarius, of Cincinnati, secretary-treasurer; H. Martin Dodfish, of Chicago, executive manager; I. Friedlander, of Houston, Tex., legal adviser; L. P. McCullough, of Columbus, Ohio, a director; Charles Hennessy, of New York City, and C. A. Sterling, of Topeka, Kans., chairman of the league's reserve credit committee.

Best said his group opposes a central rediscount mortgage bank, but favors abolition of second mortgages wherever possible and seeks the type of "mortgage that does not come due." He explained the group favored carrying debtors who could not keep up constant payments, allowing them more time when in difficulty.

HOUSE CONTROL SEEN IN TODAY'S ELECTIONS

bailiwicks, as their present total of 213 would be increased to 216, while the Democrats would pull from 214 to the same 216 total by victories in normally Democratic districts.

There is one Farmer-Labor representative.

Pennsylvania to Elect One Member of House

Philadelphia, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Pennsylvania will elect one representative tomorrow. A special election in the heavily Republican Second Pennsylvania District in Philadelphia is being held to fill a vacancy. Edward Lowber Stokes is the Republican candidate and his Democratic opponent is Charles S. Hill. In the regular congressional election last fall, Representative George S. Graham, who died last July, defeated Hill, 34,367 to 6,084. Neither Stokes nor Hill has done any campaigning.

One State-wide office is to be voted for—that for justice of the Supreme Court—and also to fill a vacancy. Justice James B. Drew, of Pittsburgh, incumbent by appointment of the governor, captured both the Republican and Democratic nominations. His election is generally conceded, since no independent fight was made against him.

In Philadelphia, J. Hampton Moore, former mayor and former representative, is the Republican candidate for mayor against Michael Donohoe, Democrat, and also a former representative. Neither candidate did much campaigning and the Republicans say they expect to elect Moore and the remainder of the city ticket by the usual Republican majority.

Bitter Fight for Governor Concludes in New Jersey

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 2 (A.P.).—New Jersey tonight closed a bitter gubernatorial campaign and looked for tomorrow's votes to indicate political winds in the East.

Upward of 800,000 electors are expected to cast ballots. Preelection claims were a plurality of 100,000 by the managers for David Baird, jr., Republican candidate, and 75,000 by the managers for A. Harry Moore, Democratic candidate.

Moore is a former governor of the State. Both candidates are avowedly wet, though Moore has repeatedly questioned the sincerity of Baird on the question.

Democratic optimism was based partly on Moore's personal popularity and a bolstered party organization. Baird has criticized Moore because of the latter's friendship with Mayor Frank Hague, Jersey City Democratic leader.

LEWIS HOLDS FOOD, NOT DRINK, IS ISSUE

Senator's Comment Results From 1932 Boom for Him Started by Cermak.

Chicago, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Senator James Hamilton Lewis, replying to suggestions that he run for President as "an out-and-out wet," said today many Americans were more concerned over "the source of their next meal than what they shall have to drink."

"I appreciate the constantly expressed indorsement of me by Mayor Cermak," said Senator Lewis, "but I am sure the mayor realizes the prohibition question is one to go along with food, clothes and homes for the needy millions of our Nation and aiding the returning progress and prosperity that is now on the way.

"It is more urgent, at once to consider for the people, places of shelter for their families this winter than for a place to enjoy a beverage."

New York, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—After conferences with three kingpins of Eastern Democracy, Anton J. Cermak, Chicago's Democratic mayor, said today he "can't see anything in this talk about a Smith-Roosevelt disagreement."

Suspects "Theatering."

His reference to former Gov. Alfred E. Smith and Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt followed an hour's talk with Mayor Walker and Mayor Frank Hague, Jersey City Democratic leader, and nearly two hours in conference with Hague and John F. Curry, leader of Tammany Hall.

"It's only on a State question of reforestation and after talking with political leaders here I find there are many with one view on that question and many with the other," Cermak said. Earlier in the day he had said:

"Who here can assure us that Smith and Roosevelt are not just theatering? Who knows but that they may yet get together before the actual convention?"

"If Smith and Roosevelt are in perfect accord next year and if Roosevelt's prohibition stand is wet enough to suit you, will the Illinois Democrats support the New York Governor in the 1932 Democratic convention?" the Chicago mayor was asked.

Backs Lewis for Nomination.

"Senator J. Hamilton Lewis is our candidate," replied the short, stocky man who swept William Hale Thompson out of office in one of the greatest landslides Chicago has ever known.

"If we can't nominate the senator, and if Roosevelt's wet views satisfy us, the Illinois delegation probably will support him. Whoever the Democratic candidate (for President) may be, we hope he'll have the support of former Gov. Smith. We also hope the Democratic party will adopt the same platform on which Smith was a candidate."

When Cermak was asked if he would confer with John J. Raskob, former Gov. Smith or Gov. Roosevelt, he replied:

"This is a purely personal visit. We paid our respects to Mr. Hague, Mayor Walker and Mr. Curry. We probably will not have the opportunity of visiting Gov. Smith or any one else. This isn't a political tour. It's too early for anything like that."

Many Stock Exchanges To Close for Elections

New York, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Many of the Nation's markets will be silent during tomorrow's scattered elections. The Wall street district, in New York, will be closed, as will stock exchanges in St. Louis, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Boston, Cleveland, Detroit, and Louisville, Ky.

Exchanges in Chicago, Baltimore, Kansas City and cities west of there will remain open. Commodity markets in some cities where exchanges are closing will continue to do business.

White House Corrects Cotton Increase Error

(Associated Press.)

An error in President Hoover's statement of last Friday that the price of cotton had increased by $15 to $20 a bale was corrected yesterday at the White House. The figures, it was said, should have been "$5 to $10."

The President yesterday received a telegram from A. D. Jones, director of the Georgia State bureau of markets, calling attention to the error and requesting that it be corrected.

Electric Saw Latest Fad of Former Kaiser

Doorn, Holland, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—William Hohenzollern, long the "imperial woodchopper of Doorn," has dropped his ax for an electric saw and almost worked himself out of a job.

The former kaiser made the change partly because of his advancing age—he is nearly 73—but mostly because he has chopped down every superfluous tree on the estate. He now busies himself in reducing to stove size with the mechanical saw lumber imported to Doorn Manor from elsewhere.

SMITH-ROOSEVELT TEST SEEN IN VOTE

Democrat Drive to Control Lower New York House Is Second Feature.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 2 (A.P.).—A Democratic drive to control the assembly and a political dispute between Gov. Roosevelt and former Gov. Smith have featured the campaign for tomorrow's election in New York State. A congressman will be elected in Brooklyn; 150 assemblymen, 2 State senators, 20 justices of the supreme court, mayors in 56 cities and county and district officials in every county.

Six amendments also will be submitted to the people. One deals with the reforestation of abandoned farm lands. Gov. Roosevelt favors it. Former Gov. Smith opposes it.

On this disagreement between the present governor and possible Democratic presidential nominee and the former governor, the party's candidate of three years ago, the attention of the Nation centers.

Vote to Settle Strength.

The comparatively insignificant nature of the amendment to the State constitution has been lost in a popular belief that the ballot on the amendment will be an indicator of the power of the Smith Democrats in the State, as distinguished from that of the Roosevelt following.

A total of 4,167,143 persons registered for this year's voting, an increase of 129,000 over the gubernatorial election last year and a record for an off year.

Not since 1910 have the Democrats made such a thorough and persistent campaign for votes. The last assembly had 70 Democrats and 80 Republicans. The minority feels it has a good chance in ten districts. One of these is in Broome County, where Edmund B. Jenks, oldest member of the Assembly is seeking reelection. Jenks, a Republican, in the lower house since 1917, is a dry leader.

The Democrats have not controlled the lower house since 1913.

Tammany Seeks Defeat of Two.

Tammany has made a strong bid in New York to repudiate the Hofstadter investigating committee by defeating Abbott Low Moffat, Republican member of the committee.

Kings County Democrats also are gunning for Robert K. Story, jr., Republican, who introduced the resolution creating the Hofstadter body, which is investigating the city administration. Moffat and Story are the only two Republican assemblymen in Greater New York.

Huge Crowd Hears Opera in New York

Standing Room Is Sold for "La Traviata," Sung at Metropolitan.

New York, Nov. 2. (A.P.)—The fashionable world and his wife, together with other opera lovers from laborer to magnate, turned out tonight to make the 47th opening of the Metropolitan Opera Company the most impressive in history.

More than 4,000 persons—an even larger crowd than last year—packed into the old Metropolitan to hear Rosa Ponselle and a great cast sing the florid arias of Verdi's "La Traviata."

Standees, who had waited for tickets in a queue that stretched half way around the huge structure, stood six deep applauding vigorously and enjoying the spectacle.

Clangor of Prosperity Cymbals Soon to Rise

By JOHN J. DALY

ALL the Southwest section of the country is thrown into a state of ecstasy by a rapid rise in the prices of oil and wheat.

Scenes reminiscent of Armistice Day in 1918 were enacted on the streets of Kansas City and Tulsa, Okla., but wait till the Sidewalks of New York get active over news that the stock market has swung into high.

Then will the bands play, "A Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight."

Every city, town, village and hamlet in the Nation will feel the reverberation, detonation, cataclysm, amounting almost to the Crack of Doom that will rock old Wall street to its foundations the moment the stock market begins to soar—and keeps on soaring.

* * * *

FOR two long, lean years the Nation has been in a state bordering on catalepsy. Everybody had that hang-dog look. Famine gripped the Land of Plenty. Depression was written on everything, even the mountain-tops.

Things looked black. They were black; but now the first flush of light breaks through the darkness, and people in Tulsa and Kansas City are first to dance the Dance of Joy. If this marks the death of Depression other places soon will launch gargantuan orgies—the like of which the world has never seen from Dan to Beersheba.

Old King Cotton is climbing back on his throne, down in the Southland, and in the fields of snowy white you'll soon hear the darkies singing, instead of moanin' low.

The hardware manufacturing business in New England bounds into sudden life, supplying bolts and nuts and locks for the vaults where the money will be stored—the millions now in the making.

The sheep ranches of Wyoming, the potato patches of Idaho, the vineyards of California—even the peanut fields of the Carolinas—are all in the throes of an awakening. The blight is leaving the land and going back to Blighty.

* * * *

COMES the dawn of a new era. In a little while the Nation will have forgotten the sad and sorrowful days, the black nights of despair, the mournful moments that gnawed at human happiness like mice at a cheese.

Wait till the full consciousness of it hits the people—right between the eyes. What a howl that will be; 124,846,371 thoraxes singing and shouting paeans of praise for the wanderer, Prosperity, returned. People who are now wondering where their next meal is coming from will be buying silk shirts and high hats.

On with the dance, as the new spirit sweeps the land; the supreme joy of abundancy. Hurrah for riches!

When the full dinner pail is in every workman's hand, when every garage has a car and every pot a chicken, whoop-de-doodle-do! Yankee-doodle-do! Or, as the old maid says, Any-old-doodle-do! Bring on the dividends!

SEAT OF LONGWORTH IS HOTLY CONTESTED

Hollister and Lorbach, Both Wets, Based Campaigns on Personalities.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Nov. 2—Tomorrow the voters of the first congressional district of Ohio will elect a successor to the late Nicholas Longworth, Speaker of the National House of Representatives.

John B. Hollister, Republican candidate to serve Mr. Longworth's unexpired term, has been before the voters of Hamilton country on two occasions. He was elected to two four-year terms on the Cincinnati board of education and both times led his ticket. His father was Judge Howard Hollister, of the United States District Court; Judge Hollister was an ardent disciple of the late Theodore Roosevelt.

Mr. Hollister was nominated after a close contest in the regular Republican organization. His campaign has been directed from Republican headquarters where effort is being made to elect regular Republican councilmen, but leading members of the charter organization have pledged him their support.

Lorbach Democratic Candidate.

David Lorbach, the Democratic candidate, is an attorney who was elected for the first time to public office in 1930 when he became a member of the Ohio Senate by virtue of the votes of the people of this county.

Serving in one session of the Ohio General Assembly, he led a number of investigations, notably that of the State highway department. This investigation failed to produce as much evidence as was expected, and a story of a $250,000 bribe, which Lorbach claims to have been offered but which has only resulted in the men he named filing a law suit against him, has figured prominently in the campaign.

However, during the last week of the campaign the Democrats have scented victory and it is likely that he will be ardently supported by fellow members of his party at the polls tomorrow.

Both candidates are known wets.

One of Personalities.

The campaign has been one of personality against personality rather than Republican against Democrat despite the fact that the contest may decide the complexion of the next National House of Representatives. But Lorbach has denounced Hoover and Hollister has praised the Hoover measures to combat the depression. Democrats hope for victory because of the small margin of Mr. Longworth's victory in 1930. At this election a majority of 39,000 was cut to 3,900.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Ohio's political pot came to a boil tonight in one of the hottest "off year" elections on record.

Aside from a proposed $7,500,000 State welfare bond issue and congressional fights in the First and Twelfth Ohio Districts, this year's election ingredients are almost wholly local in character.

Heavy voting is forecast tomorrow in almost every locality.

The proposed State bond issue, to rehabilitate Ohio's various welfare institutions, was recommended by Gov. George White, a Democrat, and submitted to the voters by a Republican Legislature.

Democrats Given Best Chance

The two congressional contests are in the First (Cincinnati) and the Twentieth (Cleveland) Districts, and are to choose successors respectively to former Speaker Nicholas Longworth (Republican) and Charles A. Mooney (Democrat). Both parties have conceded the election of Martin L. Sweeney (Democrat), over D. Hadyn Parry (Depublican), the Twentieth District being a Democratic stronghold.

Probably the hottest mayoralty fights are to be found in the five large cities of Akron, Columbus, Canton, Youngstown and Toledo. In each of these cities spirited contests are on for other municipal offices, also, thereby adding to the intensity of the campaigns.

A charter fight in Cleveland, calling for abolition of the city manager and restoration of the mayor with chief authority, has added to interest there. The same proposition has failed at seven elections in the last ten years.

The Cleveland campaign also has been intensified by the fight between former City Manager William R. Hopkins and Maurice Maschke, Republican national committeeman. Hopkins is seeking a council seat and has waged his campaign against Maschke.

At Massillon, "General" Jacob S. Coxey, who 37 years ago led his famous "army" to Washington, has returned to the wars. He seeks the office of mayor on a platform calling for noninterest-bearing bonds to be issued by the city to the unemployed.

Arkansas State Funds Gone, Salaries Stopped

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 2 (A.P.). State Treasurer Roy V. Leonard said today the State's general revenue fund, from which most State officials and employes receive their salaries and of which many departments are maintained, is depleted and that he had ordered payment of warrants against the fund stopped.

Leonard said the fund would remain at low ebb until March 1. The matter of paying salaries between now and December 15 is giving officials much concern.

Scene: in a noted club in New York

High up above the noise and traffic of New York's busiest midtown streets, the Empire State Club, in the world's tallest building, presents a dramatic contrast, in its noiseless, soundproof rooms, decorated in subdued hues that rest the eye and relax overstrained nerves. It is characteristic of this distinguished club, whose roster includes many famous men, that in the sparkling modern glassware of its dining rooms the drinking water is always served sparklingly cool and appetizing—with crystal-clear cracked American ice in every glass.

BOTH PARTIES CLAIM VICTORY IN MICHIGAN

Democrats Seek House Seat Filled by Republicans for Thirty Years.

Saginaw, Mich., Nov. 2 (A.P.).—A congressional campaign marked by more than ordinary activity by both Republican and Democratic forces in the Eighth Michigan District, closed tonight with both Foss O. Eldred, (Republican) of Ionia, and Michael J. Hart, (Democrat) of Saginaw, professing to see victory ahead in tomorrow's special balloting.

The election is to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Representative Bird J. Vincent, of Saginaw, Republican.

With a record of three decades rule in what for years was known as Joe Fordney's district, Republicans heretofore have been content to make a rather perfunctory campaign, while Democrats usually have admitted little chance to overthrow the Republican control.

Drys Back Republican.

In the campaign just ended, however, the Republicans have called upon their big guns in the State, Gov. Wilber M. Brucker, former Gov. Fred W. Green and other party leaders, who, while expressing confidence in the outcome, have not considered the contest sufficiently one-sided to remain on the sidelines.

Besides the active support of the Republican organization in the State, Eldred also has had the indorsement of prohibition organizations.

Hart is backed by modificationists. In the election of 1930 he was defeated by Representative Vincent by a vote of 19,953 to 13,636.

Shouse Anticipates Victory.

Eldred concluded his campaign at a mass meeting in his home city tonight, while Hart made his final speeches in Saginaw.

Gov. Brucker today issued a statement calling on the Eighth District to return another Republican representative. Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national committee, sent a congratulatory telegram to Hart today in which he predicted his party's victory.

An interesting point in the history of the Eighth District is that the last Democrat to represent it was Ferdinand Brucker, father of the present Republican governor. He was elected in 1896. In 1898 Joseph W. Fordney, of Saginaw, of Fordney-McCumber tariff fame, won his first term in Congress and the unbroken Republican record was started.

Ritchie Kin Would Also Be Governor

Cousin in Omaha Will Seek Nomination of Democrats.

Omaha, Nebr., Nov. 2 (A.P.).—One governor is not enough for his family as William Ritchie, jr., Omaha attorney, sees it.

Governor No. 1 is the present chief executive of Maryland, Albert C. Ritchie.

The Omaha attorney, like his cousin, the Maryland Governor, a Democrat, hopes to be the family's No. 2. He announced his candidacy today for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Nebraska. He will oppose Gov. Charles Bryan in the party's primary.

Ritchie's platform includes recommendations for the abolition of the State Railway Commission and the State Receivership Bureau and a plan for a ten-year program of the proper development of State institutions.

H. M. Hubbard, Jr., Kills Self; Reverses Blamed

Lyme, Conn., Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Herman Milton Hubbard, jr., of Lyme and Newport, R. I., widely known traveler, adventurer, and horse breeder and son of a prominent Columbus (Ohio) family, late today committed suicide by shooting himself through the body.

Serious financial losses were blamed for his act. He is survived by his parents and by a brother, Clark Hubbard, well-known artist.

New Mystery Seen In Koehring Death

Children Tell of Hearing Cries and of Seeing 2 Automobiles.

Maustin, Wis., Nov. 2 (A.P.).—From three farm childen, authorities late today heard a story which once more shrouded with mystery the shooting of Phillip A. Koehring, 55, Miwaukee manufacturer, whose body was found Saturday in his automobile in a field near here.

The children, within a quarter of a mile of the automobile, but hidden from it by a hill, said they heard a man shouting as from a distance for help, and saw two automobiles.

District Attorney Vinopal, whose original inquiry has been based on the presumption that Koehring was slain, said the story of the children now strengthens that belief.

Fish Asks Farm Board Wheat for Red Cross

Middletown, N. Y., Nov. 2 (A.P.). Representative Hamilton Fish, jr., wants the Federal Farm Board to turn over to the Red Cross the 200,000,000 bushels of wheat it holds, to be used for relief purposes.

He said here today he would introduce a bill the day Congress convenes. To effect this he would have the Red Cross mill the wheat and distribute the flour to the needy.

Divorce Rehearing Denied.

Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 1 (A.P.). Denial for a motion for a new trial in the divorce suit between Cliff (Ukelele Ike) Edwards, of stage and screen, and Irene L. Edwards, former chorus girl, was entered today by the Superior Court. Edwards was awarded the divorce decree, but the trial court refused to void a property settlement of $100,000, on the actor's plea that Mrs. Edwards had been guilty of misconduct.

Convict Declared Insane.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Jack Showalter, colored, serving a term of life imprisonment in the State penitentiary for first degree murder committed in Lynchburg, today was declared insane by a jury in the Richmond City Circuit Court. Judge Julien Gunn committed him to the Central State Hospital at Petersburg.

ARMS HOLIDAY GAINS SIX MORE COUNTRIES

Nations' Reservations Cause League to Wonder If Plan Is Effective.

Geneva, Switzerland, Nov. 2. (A.P.)—Six more governments accepted today the invitation of the League of Nations to take part in a one-year armament holiday beginning yesterday, but the league remained uncertain whether the holiday was in effect.

Reservations by almost all the larger states were the basis for the uncertainty. But in league quarters it was said the primary purpose of the suggested "gentlemen's agreement" had been to create a proper "psychology"—to show that the nations of the world were seriously inclined toward disarmament. This, it was asserted, has been acomplished.

Observers averred this psychological effect had resulted from the favorable responses by thirty-six of the sixty-four nations invited to the impending disarmament conference. There were increasing expressions that the one-year truce might be realized.

The nations answering yesterday were Great Britain, France, Poland, Portugal, Lithuania and Estonia. The United States already had accepted.

(Associated Press.)

Acting Secretary Castle, of the State Department, said yesterday he considered the League of Nations armaments holiday project to be morally in effect.

Speaking in the absence of Secretary Stimson, Castle said the final effectiveness of the plan would depend of reservations and conditions attached by other powers in accepting.

HOOVER PICKS JURY IN ROW

Rodman, John Hayes Hammond, Eliot Wadsworth, Undersecretary of State William R. Castle, jr., Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ernest Lee Jahnck, to examine the accuracy of such statements of President Gardiner of the Navy League as may be readily determined from Departmental records. This inquiry is solely into the assertion of facts made by President Gardiner in his statement of October 28, not into his opinions or conclusions nor into budgetary or general policies of the Navy."

3 Navy League Members.

Three of the five members of the committee are members of the Navy League—Mr. Hammond, Mr. Wadsworth, and Assistant Secretary of the Navy Jahncke.

What the White House statement means is this: The vindication committee will consider only such of Mr. Gardiner's statements as, for example, the one that President Hoover is trying to "restrict, to reduce and to starve the United States Navy—under the present plea of budget limitation. * * *"

This statement was exploded yesterday by Secretary of the Navy Adams, and will be exploded by him again if he is called as a witness.

The committee also will "examine" the charge by Mr. Gardiner that President Hoover and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, in their famous conference at the Rapidan camp, "reached agreements that had never been officially divulged in their entirety.

"This suggests," the Gardiner statement went on to say, "why the administration refused to allow even an executive session of the Senate committee on foreign relations to see the full record of its negotiations and possible commitments preparatory to the London naval conference of 1930."

Secretary Stimson's Denial.

Secretary Stimson in a statement last Friday declared that Mr. Gardiner's charge with regard to the Rapidan conference was "entirely false and has been publicly refuted many times."

The State Department head will make the same statement if he is called as a witness before the vindication committee. Or perhaps Undersecretary of State Castle, who is a member of the committee, will take care of this part of Mr. Gardiner's pamphlet.

That part of the White House statement which said that the committee's inquiry would not go into Mr. Gardiner's "opinions or conclusions, nor into budgetary or general policies of the Navy," means this:

The committee will not consider Mr. Gardiner's charge that President Hoover showed "abysmal ignorance" with regard to naval affairs when he suggested that food ships be made immune from attack or seizure in time of war.

While it may be true that it was this—the phrase "abysmal ignorance"—that aroused President Hoover and led him to nominate Mr. Gardiner for membership in the Ananias Club, the President is determined to convict the Navy League leader on various other of his assertions.

Secretary Adams got out his statement late yesterday after he had talked to President Hoover at the White House. Both the President and Secretary Adams evidently felt that something should be said, in view of the interpretation that was placed on the statement that Secretary Adams released to the press Sunday morning.

In this, Secretary Adams charged that the World Peace Foundation had issued a statement "insidiously inimical to the United States."

Inasmuch as Frederick J. Libby, executive secretary of the National Council for the Prevention of War, had rushed to the support of President Hoover the day before, some observers saw in Secretary Adams' blast against another pacifist organization a split between him and the President.

Statement Antedated Row.

The fact of the matter is that Secretary Adams' statement against the World Peace Foundation had been prepared even before the Hoover-Gardiner row broke.

Secretary Adams' statement of last night follows:

"As Secretary of the Navy I wish to take this opportunity to express my unqualified disapproval of the methods used by the Navy League in the pamphlet issued by it dated October 28, 1931. In the pamphlet, the Navy League has descended from the high plane of dignified discussion to that of personal attack upon the Commander in Chief of the Navy, the President; a procedure which I deeply resent. In this opinion, I am supported by all leading naval officers with whom I have talked, all of whom take exception to this method of conducting affairs.

"Without going into detail, I take the liberty of saying that the pamphlet is full of misleading statements.

"In particular, I would like to state that the last paragraph of the last page is false. The budget limitations for 1933, which have effected a saving of over 50 millions of dollars, have not caused a single combatent ship of the fleet to be decommissioned, nor have the limitations imposed stopped the construction work on any of the new ships now building or on the modernization work being carried on on three battleships.

"Finally, as a friend of the service of which I am the Secretary, I regret that such a pamphlet should be put out by an organization which pretends to be a friend of the Navy, for statements like those published can only do the Navy harm and may serve to alienate the friendship of many men who truly regard the Navy as the first line of the Nation's defense."

Gardiner's Disputed Words.

Secretary Adams in his statement said that the last paragraph in the statement issued by Mr. Gardiner on Wednesday particularly was "false." That particular statement in Mr. Gardiner's pamphlet follows:

"It would be difficult to express too much regret that the most humanitarian of pacific intentions had led President Hoover into exhibiting the abysmal ignorance of why navies are maintained and of how they are used to accomplish their major missions that his proposal to immunize sea-borne food supplies displayed to those, here and abroad, who are intimately conversant with maritime matters.

"For acceptance of his suggestion would have worked not only diametrically counter to the interest and weight of the United States in world affairs, but, in effect, would have made for bigger and bloodier wars.

"And yet, such is the psychology that is not only controlling our internal naval policy, but dictating its external subordination to those of foreign naval powers.

"It has been necessary, however, to say that what has been said above if we are to have a real appreciation of the impelling motives back of President Hoover's efforts, at every turn, to restrict, to reduce, and to starve the United States Navy—under the present plea of budget limitation on which we may have further cause to comment."

Meetings Likely to Be Secret.

Since President Hoover on Thursday announced that he was going to appoint a committee and was going to force Mr. Gardiner to apologize to him, there has been considerable speculation as to just how the President's vindication committee would function. These are some of the questions that have been asked: Would the sessions of the committee be open or closed? Would the committee permit Gardiner to testify or would it be a one-sided affair? Would the committee permit cross-examination or would it limit testimony to friends of the President?

As the White House statement was interpreted last night, President Hoover is planning to confine his committee solely to a study of Navy Department and State Department records. The President is convinced that he can trip up Mr. Gardiner on at least two matters—first, Mr. Gardiner's charge that President Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain entered into a secret accord at the Rapidan two years ago, and, second, that members of the Senate foreign relations committee were denied access to the records of the negotiations leading up to the London Naval Conference.

Peace Foundation Silent On Charges by Adams

Boston, Nov. 2. (A.P.)—Officers of the World Peace Foundation today declined immediate comment in reply to the attack yesterday of Secretary of the Navy Adams upon naval construction statistics issued recently by the foundation.

The statement issued by the foundation early in September was criticized by the secretary as interpreting national defense statistics "in a manner insidiously inimical to the United States."

The statement included figures indicating the United States Navy had credits last year of $553,378,505 against appropriations of $242,850,711 for the British navy.

At the headquarters here of the league it was indicated a reply might be forthcoming after a conference of the trustees, governing body of the organization. The foundation is an endowed corporation, organized under Massachusetts laws and is headed by George H. Blakeslee, professor of history and international relations at Clark University, Worcester, Mass., as president of the board. Its work is carried on by an office staff headed by Denys P. Myers, as director of research.

The foundation gathers information and data on international relations from various sources and distributes this information. The purpose, acording to Mr. Myers is to present facts and "not to engage in what is regarded as active propaganda."

Jury Selected by Hoover In Navy League Dispute

(Associated Press.)

Here is a brief picture of the five-man court named yesterday by President Hoover to examine the accuracy of statements by William H. Gardiner, president of the Navy League.

William R. Castle, Undersecretary of State, a close adviser of President Hoover on international affairs. The 53-year-old statesman graduated from Harvard, and later was an assistant dean there. Entering the State Department in 1919, he advanced steadily to his present post. He was appointed by President Hoover as special Ambassador to Japan during the London naval conference.

Ernest Lee Jahncke, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and likewise a friend and adviser of President Hoover, active in the affairs of the Republican party. He is one of the three members chosen from the Navy League. Now 51 years old, Jahncke was a graduate of Tulane University in Louisiana and later helped direct its policies. He still retains the rank of lieutenant commander in the Naval Reserve, and formerly was vice president of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

Admiral Hugh Rodman retired since 1923 after 43 years' service in the Navy. The 72-year-old sailor wears medals of gallantry gained in both the Spanish and World Wars. He obtained an intimacy with inner affairs of the Navy, while a member of the general board before the war, and later as commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet.

John Hays Hammond, mining engineer and a member of the Navy League. Now in his seventy-sixth year, Hammond has long been an intimate of presidents and dignitaries of many nations. In 1911 he was named special ambassador of the President to the coronation of King George V. His name once was offered as Republican Vice Presidential nominee, and now often is seen upon the lists of various public organizations.

Eliot Wadsworth, an official of President Hoover's Emergency Unemployment Relief Organization, a member of the Navy League and a former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. A graduate of Harvard, and long active in the affairs of that college. Wadsworth, now 55 years old, has served in many public posts. He helped settle the cost of the American Army of Occupation in Germany and served for a while in the Massachusetts Legislature.

LOS ANGELES WATER MENACED BY BLAST

Vandals Attempt to Blow Up Aqueduct Supplying California City.

Los Angeles, Nov. 2 (A.P.)—A terrific blast today wrecked a short section of the 250-mile aqueduct which supplies Los Angeles with water from the Owens river, and tonight officers sought a discharged employe of the city water and power department, suspected of being implicated in the act.

The explosion, which tore apart a huge steel pipe whose sides are a half inch thick, occurred about 150 miles northeast of Los Angeles. Joe Miley, a rancher living in the lonely canyon where the blast occurred, said his house was rocked by the heavy charge, after he heard an automobile on a road, ten miles away.

A preliminary report estimated that the monetary loss was small, but this was of small concern to city officials, who bore in mind the history of violence that came with the building of the aqueduct. They believed the crime was not an outbreak of the campaign of revenge which ended four years ago after the aqueduct had been dynamited nine times by residents of Owens Valley, water dead of the pipe line.

Instead of an outburst of angry feelings on the part of valley residents, who once protested against drainage of water from the Owens River which irrigated their lands, officials believed the work was that of vandals. Police launched a search through the desert country, but no report of any clue had been received here.

The siphon is situated in a remote, desolate section some distance from the main highway which leads from Los Angeles to the Mojave Desert and Owens Valley.

Fortunately, the explosion was at a point where little water had been carried lately and it was estimated that repair crews could mend the damage in four or five days. Even had the main line been destroyed, emergency reservoirs could meet water demands for a period of 40 days.

Fascism Attacked In New Outbreaks

Three More Demonstrations Reported in France; Total Now Eight.

Paris, Nov. 2. (A.P.)—Demonstrations against Fascism occurred today in Toulouse, Dijon and Lyons, bringing to eight the number of such outbreaks on French soil within two days.

At the conclusion of a mass for Italian war dead at Toulouse fifty anti-Fascists greeted Italian consuls and vice-consuls with shouts of "down with Mussolini" and "long live the Republic." Police quelled the disturbance and arrested five persons.

Two anti-Fascists, one Italian and one Frenchman, were slightly wounded in a shooting affair at the "Dopolavoro" institute at Dijon. Two more were injured by blackjacks in the course of a fight between Fascists and their opponents at Lyons on the occasion of the visit of vice-president Paolucci of the Italian chamber.

Parliament to Meet And Quit for Week

Speech From Throne Next Tuesday Will Mark Start of Work.

London, Nov. 2 (A.P.)—The pointing finger of the bewigged chief clerk of the House of Commons will be the signal tomorrow that will set in motion the enormous national government machine constructed by the British electors October 27. Only formalities will occupy the members during the first sitting, and the house will be adjourned to November 10.

Final results from the general election show that 554 members will be lined up with the government and the opposition will total 61.

In the election of the universities' members, Sir William Jowitt, National-Labor attorney general, who has been held in high esteem in government circles, was defeated.

Woman and Child Killed In Italian Church Panic

Palermo, Italy, Nov. 2 (U.P.)—A woman and child were crushed to death and more than 100 persons injured seriously tonight in a sudden panic near the close of a ceremony in the historic Church of St. Dominico. Many of those injured were not expected to survive.

Authorities were attempting to discover a cause for the panic. The church was packed to the utmost when the trouble began.

Two Must Die in Chair For Attacks on Girl

Macon, Ga., Nov. 2 (A.P.)—Attacks on a girl who was kidnaped from her escort near here last August 25, have brought death sentences to two Macon youths.

Ross Hatcher, jr., 23, was convicted in Superior Court here today and was sentenced to die in the electric chair December 11. Charles Haden, 23, was convicted last week and was sentenced to execution the same date. Both gave notices of an appeal for new trials.

SYMPHONY'S DEBUT IS ARTISTIC TRIUMPH

Mrs. Hoover Leads Society in Warm Welcome to Capital Orchestra.

Before an audience which practically filled Constitution Hall the National Symphony Orchestra made its bow to Washington yesterday in a concert ranking in merit and achievement with those presented here by outside organizations of much longer existence and prestige.

Hans Kindler, the indefatigable conductor; Mrs. Wilson-Greene, the manager, and Walter Bruce Howe, chairman of the executive committee, were showered with congratulations at the close of the performance for its success and the very evident interest Washington is taking in its new musical organization.

From the presidential box which she occupied with a party of friends, Mrs. Herbert Hoover led the applause which followed the appearance of Hans Kindler on the conductor's rostrum ready to raise his baton for the orchestra to begin the classic strains of Weber's overture to "Der Freischutz" with which the first concert of the National Symphony Orchestra was to start.

Also Social Success.

Throughout the concert Mrs. Hoover continued her fervent applause and interest and remained at its conclusion for some minutes to lead the series of ovations to which Hans Kindler and his men responded again and again.

Not only the seats but practically every box was filled at the concert. From a social point of view as well as a musical one the concert got off with a flying start and the ensemble was as brilliant socially as a Metropolitan Opera performance.

Generally speaking, the musical portion of the concert went over well. Of course, there were weaknesses here and there (what orchestra can boast of never having them?), but all things considered, it was a concert of which any conductor, and Hans Kindler is a very particular one, might be proud.

Representatives of local organizations were present in force, showing that Washington intends to support its new orchestra from a civic as well as a musical standpoint.

All Capital Musicians.

Seventy-five men, all Washington musicians, neighbors and friends of the citizens of this town, were in their seats when Kindler entered. They had been greeted with applause as they filed in and one could see that a happy excitement prevailed with the men. To them it meant more than a mere concert; it meant, in many instances, a chance to make their livelihood at their beloved profession. This orchestra gives them opportunity which has been lacking heretofore to develop an orchestra to represent the National Capital.

Mr. Kindler proved as much a virtuoso with the baton as he is with the bow. He has a fine sense of the musical essentials, the gift of accurate reading of the score and a genius for putting just the proper interpretation to the various movements of the compositions which he is conducting. It was easy to see that his men felt confidence in his leadership, for while it was dynamic and effective, there was a smoothness about the production which could only come from a thorough understanding between leader and men. When it is remembered that the ensemble of the orchestra only has had seven rehearsals together, the results were most praiseworthy, and promise even better things to come.

Beethoven's Symphony.

The symphony of the afternoon was Beethoven's ever lovely and difficult "Symphony No. 5 in C Minor." Even for those who had memories of the magnificent performance of this symphony during the Beethoven Festival of the Boston Symphony Orchestra last year it was most creditably done. The several movements were given proper emphasis and reading and the ensemble tone was one of real beauty.

The audience was greatly pleased also with the playing of "Three Dutch Tunes of the Sixteenth Century," arranged for and dedicated to the National Symphony Orchestra by Mr. Kindler. The ovation which followed their playing was overwhelming and the composer-leader was obliged to bow his thanks again and again.

With real discrimination the program was not made overlong and was concluded by the masterly playing of Moussorgsky's "Chant Russe" and Tschaikowsky's "Marche Slav."

Otto Ortman, director of the Peabody Conservatory of Music, Baltimore, commented: "Really a splendid concert for the first one of any orchestra."

Other prominent musicians in the audience included Charles Lautrup, Danish conductor, who has led the Royal Symphony Orchestra of Tokyo, Japan; George Siemonn, director of the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra, and his wife, Mabel Garrison, former Metropolitan Opera star.

The next concert in the series of 24 to be given by the National Symphony Orchestra will be the first of the children's concerts at the Central High School auditorium on November 12. The first of the Sunday popular concerts in Constitution Hall will take place on Sunday, November 15, at 4 p. m.

Hans Kindler and his musical men and the hard-working committees have provided Washington with a symphony orchestra. There is no doubt of that. What it needs now is the earnest support of the citizens. It should get this in full measure.

NAN BRITTON ATTACK LIBEL, JUDGE HOLDS

Informal Ruling Leaves Only Extent of Publication to Be Proved.

Toledo, Ohio, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Miss Nan Britton, who claims the late President Warren G. Harding was the father of her daughter, was libeled by attacks on her character in the book, "The Answer to the President's Daughter," Federal Judge John M. Killits ruled today.

Although the judge did not give a formal verdict in Miss Britton's suit for $50,000 damages against C. A. Klunk, Marion (Ohio) hotel keeper, he said statements in the book which attacked Miss Britton were libelous per se, and added: "There is nothing left for the plaintiff to show except the extent of the publication."

Court recessed late this afternoon after all-day closed sessions. It became known, however, that Miss Britton did not go on the witness stand as her attorneys previously indicated she would.

Nothing of the nature of today's proceedings was known officially, but in view of an earlier announcement by attorneys that they yet had almost two score pages to read from the plainitff's book, "The President's Daughter," it was assumed the reading occupied the day.

Judge Killits' ruling was given shortly after he issued an order barring newspaper reporters and all other spectators from the trial because he had heard many persons were attending solely in the hope of hearing testimony of lasciviousness. Miss Britton's daughter, Elibzaeth Ann, 12, was barred several days ago.

Degeneracy Charges Cited.

Miss Britton's own book, "The President's Daughter," claimed she had clandestine meetings with President Harding in the White House. The other book, written by Joseph Debarthe, now dead, said such meetings would have been impossible, and accused Miss Britton of degeneracy.

Judge Killits said degeneracy does not necessarily mean perversion, but that nevertheless the accusation was libelous. Klunk was sued on the ground that he helped circulate the volume.

Because President Harding had been dead four years before Miss Britton's own book was published, her volume was not libelous, the judge ruled. "One can't libel a dead man," he explained.

Hotel Deposition in Record.

Concluding his statement, Judge Killits mentioned the number of witnesses from Marion, Ohio, former home of Miss Britton as well as President Harding, and said he believed all except one of them who testified concerning Miss Britton's character had indicated they knew nothing about her character and had not heard anything about it until after her book appeared.

With the trial rapidly drawing to a close, Judge Killits continued to hold secret the contents and the nature of a deposition from a New York hotel, introduced as evidence in Miss Britton's behalf.

There was some doubt of the competency of the hotel deposition as evidence, the judge explained as his reason for withholding it from the jurors and the public. He said, however, it would be preserved in the records of the case for use in event of an appeal to a higher court.

CHINA DROPS STEPS, PENDING EVACUATION

will be held in Paris instead of Geneva, owing to the necessity of Briand's remaining in close contact with his own government and the French Parliament.

Tokyo, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Recurring rumors of Russian military activity about North Manchuria were balanced today with official Russian denials as Chinese government troops in southwestern Manchuria put down another rebellion.

While officials sought to extract some grain of fact from a shifting pile of rumors of agreement between Russia and China to cooperate in North Manchuria, dispatches told of victory for troops of Chang Hsueh-Liang, whom Japan deposed as governor of Manchuria, over those of Gen. Ling Yin-Ching, near Panshanhsien.

This was the second military separist movement in Manchuria that Chinese Nationalists have overcome since Japan occupied South Manchuria on the grounds that a clash between her soldiers and Chinese near Mukden demonstrated the Chinese administration was not giving Japanese lives and property proper protection.

Soundly Defeated.

The first such movement put down was led by Chang Hai-Peng of Taonan, western Manchuria, who sought to throw down the Nationalist administration in Tsitsihar and was soundly defeated by loyal troops of the absent governor, Wan Fu-Lin. During the fighting the Nationalists damaged three railroad bridges on the line between Taonan and Tsitsihar which Japanese railway engineers plan to repair.

Fearing bandit attacks in the wild country around Tsitsihar, the Japanese engineers, employes of the Japanese-owned South Manchurian Railroad, planned to take along a military escort, but Russia protested. This led to diplomatic conversations at Moscow between the acting foreign commissar, L. M. Karakhan, former Ambassador to China, and the Japanese Ambassador, Koki Hirota.

Report Is Denied.

So far M. Karakhan has denied to Hirota all intention of sending Russian troops into Manchuria, but simultaneously has asked the Japanese not to extend further north their line of military occupation, which extends roughly from Kirin to Chang Chun to Taonan.

(Associated Press.)

George Hanson, American consul general at Harbin, in the Manchurian area, was described by the State Department yesterday as engaged in "a secret mission on behalf of Secretary Stimson."

Hanson was said to have made a tour of inspection on instructions of the Secretary and had reported his findings to the department. Details of the report were not disclosed.

The consul general had not informed the department of his latest departure from Harbin, but department officials said he was fully authorized to make any investigations he saw fit.

AKRON FLYING OVER CAPITAL

AKRON IS BACK AT LAKEHURST AFTER FIRST TRIP TO CAPITAL

Academy a thirteen-gun salute was accorded Admiral Moffett, the first time in American naval history that such honors have been paid an admiral on his aerial flagship.

The Akron sped on to Washington, where the Los Angeles fell into single file formation behind the Akron, according the courtesy due a flagship. The two vessels maneuvered over the Capital for 20 minutes while President Hoover and Mrs. Hoover watched from the White House lawn.

On they went over Wilmington, Philadelphia, Trenton, Staten Island and up the Hudson River beyond the new George Washington Bridge. Then they circled and swung down Manhattan Island. Great crowds could be seen gathering on street corners, in parks and at the Battery to watch the craft.

It was Admiral Moffett's day. At the age of 62, just two years away from retirement, he wore his sobriquet of "the father of American naval aviation" proudly. It was his persistence, his belief in lighter-than-air craft that has given America its tremendous start on the rest of the world in the matter of scouting dirigible cruisers.

(Associated Press.)

The Navy's huge airship Akron made her first call on Washington yesterday, bringing along the Los Angeles just to show off her own great size.

Cruising in wide circles over the Capital, the airship dipped low over the Unknown Soldier's tomb at Arlington, and repeated the courtesy at the White House for her sponsor, Mrs. Hoover. The First Lady watched from the roof of the Executive Mansion while the President left his office a moment for a glance from the lawn.

A mile astern the Los Angeles matched each maneuver. Like a swarm of bees, airplanes buzzed around and under the two silvery hulls which glistened brightly in the morning sun. Commander Rosendahl swung the Akron again in a last circle to satisfy the crowds which piled on tops and jammed sidewalks to see the great ship. Then he turned north to give other cities a similar treat.

Just to make the ceremony complete, Assistant Secretary Jahncke, of the Navy, broadcast a greeting to the ship's officers and crew on behalf of the President and Mrs. Hoover.

Gliding majestically over the historic points dotting the Capital streets, lined with hundreds of office workers, the Navy's biggest addition to its air fleet dipped respectfully as it passed over the White House.

Hundreds of feet below, from the lawn, Mr. Hoover watched the maneuvers of the airship, as Mrs. Hoover looked up from the roof of the White House.

The Navy's new lighter-than-air ship arrived over the city at 9:50 a. m., accompanied by the smaller Los Angeles.

Led by the Akron, the two ships glided lazily toward the Capitol building and cruised over Pennsylvania avenue to the White House.

The Akron proceeded straight across the Potomac to Arlington Cemetery, where she made a sweeping dip in salute to the Unknown Soldier's Tomb.

In a broad circle she then returned over the White House, executing another dip in salute. The Los Angeles followed through every maneuver.

The Akron then swung over the Navy Department Building, where officers and civilian employes were clustered by hundreds on the roof and on the street.

HAWAIIAN GOVERNOR ARRIVES IN CAPITAL

Judd and Officials to Confer With Departments; Island Roads on Program.

(Associated Press.)

Gov. Lawrence M. Judd, of Hawaii, arrived yesterday for his annual conferences with Washington officials. He was accompanied by Mrs. Judd, L. H. Bigelow, superintendent of public works, chairman of the board of harbor commissioners, and territorial highway engineer of Hawaii, and by J. W. Lloyd, budget director.

The governor immediately paid a formal call upon Secretary Wilbur of the Interior Department. The call lasted only a few minutes, and no business was transacted, he said. Today he will see officials of the Bureau of Public Roads.

Many Conferences Planned.

Mr. Judd had no engagements scheduled yesterday, but said that during his stay he would confer with officials in many departments. Short trips to Philadelphia and New York are on his program.

While declining to discuss details of the projects which he will take up, he said he came with a definite proposal for the expenditure of $880,000 authorized by the last Congress for the Federal road system.

The money was authorized from the fund already appropriated, and not to be matched by Hawaii to compensate for Federal aid lacking during the period from 1917 to 1925. The governor said he and Mr. Bigelow would propose definite routes for roads to be built with this money, but details as to materials, width of roads, &c., would be left to engineers.

Announcement Waits Conferences.

Mr. Judd said he had many other propositions to discuss, but declined to make them public until he had taken them up with the proper officials.

The governor was expected in Washington a week ago, but was detained by illness in San Francisco. He was accompanied from Hawaii by Mr. Lloyd, but Mr. Bigelow had come earlier to attend a meeting of State highway officials in the west.

The governor's annual island report is in the hands of Interor Department officials, he said, and will probably be released by them within a few weeks. Judd expects to leave for Honolulu about December 9, he said, while the stay of Lloyd and Bigelow is indefinite.

ANNAPOLIS VISITED BY 'OLD IRONSIDES'

Famous Warship Returns to Former Home Port for Public Inspection.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 2.—Returning to the port that was her home station three-quarters of a century ago, when she was used as a training ship for "naval cadets" at the Naval Academy, the rehabilitated Constitution, "Old Ironsides," is tonight riding at anchor in the Chesapeake Bay-Severn River channel, 4 miles east of Annapolis, for a stay of several days.

Convoyed by the minesweeper Grebe, the historic craft, which had been on display in the Harbor of Baltimore for the last ten days, was brought down the bay and she cast her anchor in the channel about a mile and a half out from Greenberry Point lighthouse.

The ship will be open to inspection by visitors daily from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m., until Friday, when she will again be taken in tow for the trip to the Washington Navy Yard. Authorities of the Naval Academy placed a fleet of submarine chasers in commission to convey visitors to the old sea fighter, and these craft were kept busy throughout the afternoon. Large detachments of midshipmen were among hundreds of others who visited the historic craft, which is destined for preservation and which may eventually be given a permanent berth at Annapolis. At least United States Senator Millard E. Tydings, of Maryland, is leading a fight with that object in view.

By coincidence the arrival of the Navy's oldest fighting craft was marked by passage over the city of the most modern weapons of naval warfare, the giant airships Akron, latest addition to the air force, and the Los Angeles, which were out on a cruise from the Lakehurst, N. J., air station. An autogiro also soared about the naval reservation and city during the afternoon. It was being given a series of experimental tests by Lieut. Ralph Oftsie, of the Navy, and Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, superintendent of the Naval Academy, donned aviator's raiment and took a flight in this ship.

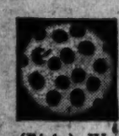
Why you should be interested in your Blood Count



(Left) Microscopic view of healthy red-blood-cells. The blood stream should contain about 5,000,000 of these cells to the cubic millimeter. They carry nourishment and oxygen to every part of the body—they also remove impurities from the tissues.

(Right) Weak red-blood-cells—only 60 per cent of normal strength—they lack the power to resist infection and disease or to rebuild flesh and to carry away the impurities. Such a condition is often responsible for body weakness, paleness, sallow complexion, pimples and boils.

ANTITRUST STAUTE CALLED ANTIQUATED

Textile and Coal Spokesmen Witnesses Before Senate Committee.

(Associated Press.)

Two of the industries which were first hit by overproduction, textiles and coal, contributed yesterday to the mass of testimony being collected by a Senate manufacturers' subcommittee in favor of modifying the antitrust laws.

Henry P. Kendall, Boston textile manufacturer, and George J. Anderson, president of the Consolidated Coal Co. of New York, supported the views expressed by previous witnesses before the committee that the laws are antiquated. They also commended the movement to establish a national council to study business conditions and keep the Nation informed of economic developments and trends.

A third witness, Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio, said he was opposed to any attempt to make economic planning compulsory, but felt it might be desirable to have facts available.

Estimate of Sherman Act.

Kendall said the Sherman antitrust act had become "to some extent outworn" and had contributed to poorer business. He added it had been used as an "alibi" by some textile manufacturers to prevent the adoption of an agreement to eliminate night work by women.

Kendall, president of the Taylor Society for the Promotion of Scientific Management, said some form of economic planning was badly needed, but much could be done along that line by industry itself. He warned, however, that unless industry took the steps itself some plan might be forced on it which was not so well thought out.

The establishment of a governmental group to collaborate the findings of other Government agencies and discover trends was advocated by the witness as "highly desirable."

Calls Laws Outworn.

Anderson testified that the antitrust laws were "outworn and antiquated" and added it was "high time" for legislation more representative of present-day needs. He added, however, that while industry might have been blamed for the slump of 1921, the present economic unsettlement was largely the result of a "breakdown of banking leadership," which resulted in the dislocation of credit.

Anderson said the problem of providing stability was the most important facing industry at the present time and that an economic council might present the needed leadership.

Describing conditions in the coal idustry as "chaotic," he said he saw no solution until some way was found to bring production into a safe relationship with market needs.

President Proclaims Armistice Observance

(Associated Press.)

A proclamation calling upon citizens of the United States to observe November 11 as Armistice Day with ceremonies pledging an effort "to perpetuate the peace of the world" was issued yesterday by President Hoover.

The proclamation said:

"Whereas the eleventh day of November, 1918, marked the termination of the World War and the cessation of its destruction and suffering; and

"Whereas it is appropriate that recurring anniversaries of this day should be commemorated by exercises honoring those who gave their lives in the service of their country and dedicating ourselves to the attainment of the ideals of justice, freedom and peace for which they made a supreme sacrifice; and

"Whereas by concurrent resolution of the Senate and the House of Representatives, in 1926, the President was requested to issue a proclamation for the observance or Armistice Day:

"Now, therefore, I, Herbert Hoover, President of the United States of America, pursuant to said resolution, do hereby order that the flag of the United States be displayed on all Government buildings on November 11, 1931, and do invite the people of the United States to observe the day in their churches and schools and other suitable places, with appropriate ceremonies, giving expression to our gratitude that peace exists and pledging ourselves to the effort to perpetuate the peace of the world and to cultivate relations of friendship and amity with all nations.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the seal of the United States.

"Done at the City of Washington this second day of November, in the year of our Lord, 1931, and of the Independence of the United States of America the 156th.

"(Signed) HERBERT HOOVER."

the court room, and were grouped in the rear during the brief proceeding.

Robert H. McNeill, chief defense counsel, presented the demurrer, contending the indictment was "bad in substance," because the act on which it is based attempts to regulate the election of presidential electors. These electors, it said, are State officers and not subject to Federal regulaiton.

Mr. McNeill presented to the court two young lawyers from his office, and Harry W. Nice, Maryland attorney and former Republican gubernatorial candidate. Nice also had an assistant with him.

Bishop Cannon reached the courtroom shortly before Justice Proctor, and took a seat directly in front of the bench between McNeill and Nice. He sat resting his chin on his crutch, holding a large bundle of newspapers and talking to his counsel.

Wilson Represents Government.

Assistant District Attorney John Wilson represented the Government. Mr. Wilson conducted the grand jury investigation that brought the ten-count indictment against the bishop and Miss Burroughs. Mr. McNeill asked the court for 20 days of preparation and a full day to argue the demurrer. He said Mr. Nice had entered the case only recently, and would be depended on heavily in its presentation.

In less than 10 minutes after his entrance, the clergyman was leaving the courtroom. He met a battery of photographers. At first he tried to hide his face from the cameras.

In addition to Dr. Shelton, Bishop Cannon's bond bore the following signatures: C. E. Breuninger, Jesse O. Jolliff, S. W. Cockrell, L. A. Coffman, J. C. Copenhaver, R. D. Webb, R. T. Buckingham and E. F. Sianner. Miss Burroughs' bond was signed by Breuninger, Cockrell and Jolliff.

Power Company Plea Is Set for Argument

People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech and William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, tomorrow will argue in District Supreme Court in behalf of the motion of the Public Utilities Commission to dismiss the suit of the Potomac Electric Power Co. in the sliding scale order.

The time for argument was set yesterday by the Supreme Court. The power company is seeking to set aside the new sliding scale for use in fixing rates on the ground that the commission is bound by the six-year-old consent decree.

FOUR BILLS OFFERED FOR BANK CREDIT AID

Vandenberg Gives Proposals to Senate Committee; Would Amend Act.

(Associated Press.)

Four ways of adding braces to the country's banking framework were proposed yesterday by Senator Vandenberg, Michigan Republican.

He presented that number of legislative proposals to the Senate's special banking committee, headed by Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, and said they had the approval of Governor Young, of the Boston Federal Reserve Bank.

Senator Vandenberg hopes to link permanently to the Federal Reserve system the emergency credit corporation established recently at President Hoover's request. Two of his bills would amend the Federal Reserve act so as to place emergency rediscounting power in the hands of the Reserve Board and allow rediscounting of State, county and municipal short-term bonds.

The half billion dollars of postal savings would be made more available to the national banks under another measure to make debentures of the emergency credit corporation eligible to secure postal savings deposits in the banks.

Vandenberg, in his fourth bill, would make the credit corporation debentures eligible for rediscount at Federal Reserve banks.

Senator Glass, a former Secretary of the Treasury, while indorsing the general principles of the Hoover emergency economic program, has indicated opposition to any proposal that new forms of paper be made eligible for rediscount by the reserve system."

RAIL LABOR GROUPS ASK WAGE MEETING

and to do all in their power to aid in the restoration of prosperity."

Willard expressed the opinion that the greatest problem facing American industry is to provide for the man without a job. He said this was a permanent problem growing out of improved methods of production.

Discussing railway earnings he said the carriers as a whole had never made the 5 and 3-4 per cent fixed as a fair return under the transporation act. He said during prosperous times the roads should be encouraged to earn even more than the fair return allowed to provide for times when business is not good.

Two Per Cent Earnings Seen

Instead of earning 16 per cent profit as it did a few years ago, Willard said the Baltimore & Ohio probably would not make more than 2 per cent this year. He said it had been necessary to postpone all maintenance work possible, reduce purchases and cut employment 20,000 in the last two years.

It has been necessary, he added, for all railroads to make every possible saving to maintain their financial status.

Mr. Willard said that, in his opinion, the greatest problem facing American industry and statesmanship today is to provide for the man without a job. He said it is a permanent problem growing out of improved methods of production.

"It devolves upon our system of capitalism to interest itself in its own preservation," he said.

As for proposals before the committee for an economic council, he said: "I don't know that it would do any harm, but I don't know that it would do any good."

POLICEMAN SEIZES WOUNDED BROTHER

Arrests Alleged Robber Who Falls at Feet Without Knowing Identity.

Macon, Ga., Nov. 2. (U.P.)—George Meredith, alias George Miller lies at the point of death from a pistol wound in Macon General Hospital, where he was taken after his own brother, Louis Meredith, member of the Macon police force, turned him over to Chief Ben T. Watkins.

Shortly before, George, who fled from Maryland House of Corection, on October 9, had held up C. A. Chaffin, manager of the Macon Retail Credit Bureau, trussed him to a tree and escaped in Chafin's car.

While Chaffin reported to Chief Watkins, George was attempting a similar automobile-holdup of R. A. McCord, but McCord, waiting his time as the car swerved around a corner, shot a swift right smash to the rober's jaw, staggering him. McCord then wrested Meredith's gun from him and began shooting.

For more than a mile, the badly wounded man staggered to a house he knew about, down on Macon's water-front. It was the home of Louis, but George didn't reveal his identity before he collapsed at his brother's feet.

The brother, without knowing of the two hold-ups and the shooting, naturally reported to Watkins. The chief found that the hunted man had literally fallen into the hands of police through his own brother.

Then George told Louis who he was. He had been doing twenty years in the Maryland Penitentiary for burglary, he said, but had been transferred to the house of correction in fear that rival convicts might put an end to his life for welching on the gang.

EXPERTS COMPLETE PLAN TO AID TRADE

have sought the assistance of the department in a project to apply its general principles.

Nation-Wide Pattern.

"Economic planning is not new to American business," Mr. Feiker emphasized. "What we now propose is the correlation, coordination and extension of the work now being done in a scattered way by many trades, to fit into a complete, Nation-wide pattern.

"This program must conform to the fundamental American principle of individual initiative and individual achievement for individual reward. It can not be imposed by fiat or decree."

The first step toward general stability, the new program sets forth, is the budgeting of production in every line on the long-time basis, instead of by seasonal or cyclical fluctuations in demand.

Wild Boom Elimination.

Correlated with an investment and expansion program mapped out three to five years in advance, and with a ten-year plan applicable to equipment replacements, long-time production schedules alone would go far toward eliminating the wild booms which always have been the certain forerunners of depression, the Government survey concluded.

These practices also would strike directly at the roots of violent fluctuations in employment, but in addition material has been assembled to assist the trade organizations in formulating policies on unemployment insurance, pensions, and related emergency measures.

In no case, however, will the Government undertake to impose any predetermined scheme upon an industry. The whole plan is based upon the fundamental conviction that leadership toward effective stabilization can come only from business itself.

"Government is ready to cooperate with all the machinery at its command," Mr. Feiker explained. "It is now up to American business to act. It faces a large task."

Fearing that the fire might spread to neighboring cottages where 300 other inmates of the institution were confined, attendants had herded them into the yard where they were closely guarded to prevent escape.

Once the flames burned out they were returned to their quarters and the 36 rescued lunatics were transferred to the Orilla Hospital, 30 miles distant.

Dr. George C. Kitts, superintendent of the hospital, cited Miss Frances Davies, matron, Miss Margaret Hewitt and Miss Jean Jones, nurses, and A. Proulx, J. Kennedy, and K. Livingston, attendants, for extraordinary courage in the rescue. He did not name the doctors who also took part.

SOAP IN POLITICS.

Senator Borah coyly declines to admit or deny that a powerful group of business men has offered to underwrite his campaign if he will consent to be a candidate for President. No one except Mr. Borah knows exactly how this rumor gained currency, but now that it is afoot it may make all the mischief it pleases, so far as he is concerned. Neither law nor custom denies to any politician the right to enjoy the delicious thrill that accompanies a powerful call from the people, intensified by proof of financial resources and a willingness to devote them to his cause.

Presumably one of the conditions imposed by this powerful group of business men is that Senator Borah shall run as a Republican. This might be regarded as a violent assumption in off years, but in a presidential year it is supported by Senator Borah's record of stalwart party regularity. It is also made plausible by the incidental rumor that one if not all of this "powerful group" is none other than the famous producer of a still more famous brand of soap in Ohio. Notwithstanding the heavy inroads upon the soap surplus resulting from the underwriting of another candidate in 1920, the soap magnate appears to be willing to make another gamble in the greatest of all games, but only in a Republican convention.

The stubbornness of the Republican party in increasing the duty upon vegetable oils, as an aid to farmers, was calculated to provoke reprisals from soapmakers and others who would like to import vegetable oils free of duty. Whether the soapmaker took this matter personally to heart or not is an unanswered question, but he would not differ from other importers if he held President Hoover individually responsible for helping the farmers to produce domestic vegetable oils. Senator Borah would have been responsible, also, if he had voted for the tariff law; but the soapmaker can easily forgive Mr. Borah for demanding exclusive tariff favors for farmers in view of the senator's final vote against protection for the farmers or anybody else.

Rumor has not yet revealed that powerful groups of business men are offering to underwrite the candidacies of Senators Johnson, La Follette and Norris as rivals of Mr. Hoover for the Republican nomination, but the open season for rumors is at hand. As for Gov. Pinchot, no underwriting by a powerful group is necessary. He is his own group and can do his own underwriting. It should be clearly understood, however, that one Progressive has as good a right as any other to set himself up as a Republican in order to obtain the nomination for the Presidency. The underwriters will find that there is no monopoly or restraint of trade in this field.

One of the obvious problems that will confront any powerful group which underwrites any Progressive is the prevention of war among the prima donnas. Unless they can be brought into a pact for the renunciation of war as an instrument of politics they will surely disrupt the concert of progressivism by fighting among themselves over the empty honor of being beaten by Hoover in the convention. Here is a valuable hint for the soap magnate. While he is furnishing the cosmetics for Senator Borah's make-up he should soft-soap the other aspirants or otherwise induce them to remain in the wings, or they will spoil the show.

It is a slippery problem. But at least it is on the surface and is visible. It floats. And who is better qualified to solve it than Senator Borah's oleaginous friend? He is spurred by the ambition to make a President instead of merely making soap. And, after all, if he should fail, he can take consolation in the thought that life is but a bubble.

WHEAT LOOKS UP.

Almost overnight the outlook for wheat farmers of the United States has changed from gloom to optimism. A sudden shortage of wheat in Europe has stimulated a brisk demand upon the supplies in Argentina, Canada and Australia as well as this country. Farmers of the Middle West have reason to be jubilant.

The outstanding factor in the improved wheat market is the curtailment of wheat exports from Soviet Russia. The Soviet Ambassador to France is said to have announced that no wheat will be shipped out of Russia this year or next. Joseph Stalin, the Soviet czar, has been exporting large quantities of wheat along with other agricultural products to finance the five-year plan of industrialization. While the Russian people lived on short rations Russian wheat was dumped on a glutted world market. Quite probably the Soviet wheat crop was not as large as Moscow reported it to be.

The Soviet government's lack of wheat for export may furnish an important stimulus to recovery from the depression. While this news brings hope to the farmers, it will not fall lightly upon the ears of American firms that have extended an enormous amount of credit to the Soviet. If the Moscow government does not export wheat, where will it obtain money with which to pay its obligations?

It will be interesting to watch the reaction of American farmers to this stroke of good fortune. The depression should have taught them the disastrous effects of overproduction. Yet if the market is suddenly improved they will be tempted to plant another bumper crop in 1932. The manner in which farmers yield to this temptation or restrain their ambitions in accordance with sound economic policy may furnish a key to the immediate future of agriculture.

THE DEMOCRATIC CALDRON.

When the Democratic Mayor of Chicago visits the Democratic stronghold of Tammany Hall the political pot is certain to boil over. Since his election as mayor Anton J. Cermak has assumed the role of Democratic boss in Illinois. Even though much of his talk is political gossip, it nevertheless has an important bearing upon the selection of a Democratic presidential candidate.

Mayor Cermak visited New York in July and gave a boost to the presidential boom of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt. The governor, he thought, would be wet enough for Illinois Democrats. Since that time Mayor Cermak has had his ear to the ground. Apparently the purpose of his present visit is to let the country know that the Democratic machine of Illinois is not trailing the Roosevelt bandwagon. In the eyes of Mayor Cermak, Gov. Roosevelt is not a "formidable candidate" without the support of Al Smith. Former Gov. Smith took advantage of the occasion to demonstrate that he does not support Gov. Roosevelt's candidacy.

Al Smith's criticism of Gov. Roosevelt, together with Mayor Cermak's demand for a "dripping wet" candidate, has the effect of making the Democratic race of 1932 a free-for-all. The standard bearer of 1928 broadened his former attack upon the policies of the leading aspirant for the 1932 mandate. Heretofore, they had clashed only upon the proposed reforestation amendment to the New York State constitution. Now Mr. Smith challenges the wisdom of Gov. Roosevelt's plan for higher taxes in the midst of the depression. This appears to be a deliberate attempt to embarrass the governor and deflate his presidential boom.

Mayor Cermak's eulogies of Al Smith and Senator J. Hamilton Lewis are not so important in the forthcoming contest as is the uncompromising wetness of his views. He intends to cling to the slogan, "No Pussyfooting on Prohibition." Both the candidate and the platform must drip with vinous essence. Gov. Roosevelt is only a political wet. The new Western chieftain doubtless fears that the governor would compromise with the dry South. How could the home town of Al Capone tolerate such a course? Crush the drys, the mayor says, and solidify the Al Smith strength of the party.

The criss-cross schisms within the Democratic party begin to manifest themselves. The Democrats approach what they call their "great opportunity" with numerous conflicting aims and a multitude of antagonistic candidates. Mayor Cermak even talks of a third party unless the alcoholic content of the Democratic platform is satisfactory. Senator Robinson is just as determined that the party shall be dry. When a few economic and foreign policy issues are thrown into this caldron of Democratic convictions and candidacies the memory immediately reverts back to Madison Square Garden.

THE HOME MARKET.

In the future the American manufacturer will be forced more and more to concentrate upon the home market. A definite plan for development of this field to its fullest extent, with a corresponding balance of production and consumption, will go a long way toward solving the problem of idle factories. Plant capacity must be based, to a greater extent, upon domestic needs. The present surplus plant capacity is largely a carry-over from the war, which accentuated the demands of foreign markets. Until the American market is fully developed along systematic and intelligent lines the present facilities will be excessive and curtailment will be necessary.

During the boom years 1928 and 1929 it is estimated that most of the American industries were capable of producing from 25 to 75 per cent more goods than the market could absorb. These figures do not include the possibilities of overtime. The great waste of surplus capacity is striking. The depression has, moreover, reduced the demand for industrial products, making the excessive capacity still larger. The result will doubtless be elimination of weaker companies, but it is hoped that the survivors will face the changing future with a broader view born of this experience.

Few modern mills are able to shift from one line of production to another, due to the highly specialized nature of most machinery. Though some plants have profited by their adaptability, even changing the type of products does not help the economic situation as a whole. It is important that each industry gear its production more closely to actual demands.

When the radio was developed the phonograph business suffered. Today radio producers find their profits reduced by surplus capacity. The steel, automobile and textile industries are also forced to work on a comparatively small percentage of capacity. There is, however, in this country a large potential market for the products of these industries. If the home market is cultivated as intensely in the next few years as the foreign market was before the depression a new and permanent outlet for American industrial products will be established beyond the reach of any foreign tariff.

THE AKRON'S VISIT.

The giant airship Akron arrived yesterday to salute the Capital on its first flight, after having been officially dedicated to the Navy service on Navy Day. Accompanied by its older, slimmer sister, the Los Angeles, the Akron circled over the city, dipped in salute to the White House, and gave Washingtonians their first chance to see the world's largest and newest dirigible.

The speed and reliability that have been attained by these lighter-than-air carriers, their capacity for long-distance transportation of scores of passengers, or upon occasion tons of needed material or deadly missiles, make them powerful factors, in both peace and war. The repeated trips of the Graf Zeppelin over land and sea in all kinds of weather suggest what achievement may be expected from these giants of the air.

The Akron was given the severest tests of every kind before it was accepted. As an official member of the Navy family it is now ready for duty whenever called. Its graceful flight over the Capital bearing 108 men gave rise to many conjectures as to the possibilities of such a powerful craft for useful work in a busy world. The air forces of the United States, both of the Army and Navy, are being supplied with the best and fastest ships for all branches of the service. Defensive aircraft can not be slighted in this modern age. It is a matter of satisfaction that the construction of the sister ship of the Akron will go forward at once.

The Bureau of Prohibition is located in a section of Pennsylvania avenue where the starlings are thickest. The bureau may have thought they were swallows.

The proposed Federal tax on automobiles may not kill the goose that lays the golden eggs, but it is raising an awful squawk.

Those Johnsons! Walter gained fame by going into the big league, and Hiram now says leagues are the bunk.

We have not entirely lost our taste for the things our forefathers had. We ride in the same street cars.

They call it an economic Valley Forge because the army of the unemployed is living on frozen assets.

A PROGRESSIVE "ANGEL"

From the New York Times.

It is no news that dissatisfied Western Republicans would like to have somebody take the field against President Hoover for the party nomination next year. But it is decidedly news, piquant news, that, as reported in our Washington dispatches yesterday, plenty of money is being offered to finance a campaign in opposition to Mr. Hoover in the Republican primaries. One unnamed man of wealth, said to be from Ohio, is reported ready to pledge a large sum. Let us hope that it is not the same rich Ohio man who in 1920 spent so much money, with such disastrous consequences, in the endeavor to make Gen. Wood President. But there are others prepared to furnish an ample supply of the sinews of war, provided Senator Borah will agree to enter the contest against the President.

These prospective donors are identified as having backed the Roosevelt campaign in 1912. In that year the former President, after having bolted from his own party, was asked how he could possibly expect to raise a campaign fund. He flashed his teeth in a cynical smile and said he knew a lot of rich widows eager and anxious to give him money. This could not have referred to George Perkins and Frank Munsey, who contributed generously. But if some former friends of the original Progressive party are willing to endow financially the Progressives of today, it is enough to make the solicitors and treasurers of the Republican and Democratic parties sigh with envy, for their own job of raising money is at this time too much like trying to extract sunbeams from cucumbers.

As for Mr. Borah consenting to lead this forlorn hope of the Progressives, he is said to be much "interested" by their offer, but doubtful whether he can accept it. He doubts, that is, that he or any other Republican could defeat the President for renomination. If he is doubtful what the Progressives could do for him or with him, they might well be highly dubious about what he could do for them. During several presidential campaigns he has been Progressive, radical, rebellious, or what you please, up to the moment when his party had made a nomination, whereupon he became regular of the regulars, and his roaring was as gentle as that of a sucking dove. This variegated record confirms the opinion of a blunt Westerner, that Senator Borah can never be depended upon to "go through." His reputation in such matters, and the hesitancy with which even his friends speak of the tenacity of his political convictions, recall a recent saying about Sir John Simon, attributed to Lloyd George himself. It was: "Sir John has sat on the fence so long that the iron has entered his soul." Senator Borah has vaulted over the political fence so many times that it is hardly possible he can stay long on one side of it, even if a Progressive "angel" waves a large check invitingly.

POST HASTE.

We are going to have an exhibition of that good old farm team, wheat and cotton, pulling the big business auto out of the depression mudhole.

The daily radio audience now comprises nearly half the population of the United States. The mike will yet be mightier than both the pen and sword.

After his experience at the league council meetings, Consul Gilbert must have felt capable of posing for a new statuette of the simian triplets sans eyes, ears and tongues.

Whatever his ideas were coming over, we believe M. Laval did not carry home any illusions about tying the United States to a French financial kite.

Even Washington's beautiful elms have adopted the gold leaf standard.

This is not a world without sympathy when 50 men so promptly offer to donate blood for transfusion to unknown sufferers at the Emergency Hospital.

Mayor Cermak of Chicago told New York that the Democrats must nominate a "dripping wet of the Al Smith type, and that means James Hamilton Lewis." How would our Chesterfieldian senator look in a plain waistcoat, a brown derby and a 45-degree-angle cigar?

American Consul Hanson, who speaks both Chinese and Russian, has gone to northern Manchuria to investigate conditions. He will see signs of Japanese that he can read.

The rational effort of railway officials and employes to find the fairest means of making temporary reductions in operating expenses reminds one of the old strike days—it's so different.

Two senators have recently referred to the "danger" that the silver standard would result in the industrial development of China. Do they really advocate measures to retard the welfare of those hapless people in order to protect a small fraction of American export trade?

The big boys see improvement in the situation, but they all tie strings to their optimism so they will not be considered Pollyanas.

The Mayor of Chicago began smoothing the way for a loan from New York with a lot of soft-soap for Al Smith.

Shanghai is forming a Salvation Army to oppose the Japanese. Chinese music by a Salvation Army band should rout any foe.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

AUTUMN.

The falling leaves seem pitiful to see,
Cold, old, brown things that quit life's rugged stem.
They've clung so gladly to their mother tree
And now the frozen earth is taking them.

I watch them fluttering 'neath a somber sky,
Too frail to battle with the wind today.
And wonder if, like men, they fear to die
And longer on the branch would like to stay.

I watched them come to bud in early spring,
And through the summer knew their friendly shade.
Among them I have heard the song birds sing,
Ours was a friendship brief, but gladly made.

But now, too old and tired to carry on,
A last farewell they seem to wave at me,
Drift past my window swiftly and are gone

Player Too Anxious to Make Good Is the One Who Drops the Ball.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

CIVILIZATION has overcome most of the superstitions and physical dangers that once caused men to live in constant dread, but the capacity for fear remains and countless people never know contentment because they are afraid.

Physical fear is natural and necessary. Among normal people it is a mere want of experience or a sane discretion. In either case it is infrequent and as brief as the circumstance that caused it.

The fear that blights the lives of men and women is a fixed state of mind—a gnawing anxiety that fastens on them like a curse, robs them of peace and strength and at last breaks their spirits.

It is a fear of losing something—a fear of losing money, or a job, or a dearly-bought reputation, or a hard-won place in the world.

It may be fear of losing loved ones, but in any case it is a fear of losing the one thing held most dear—the thing without which life once was hard and profitless and now would be unbearable.

It is, in short, a self-made fear; and the cause of it suggests the remedy.

People fear too much because they love too much.

The Chinese custom of calling children hard names to fool the jealous gods that might take them away if they were loved too much is a superstition obviously based on experience. The coddled child is made a weakling, easy prey for countless enemies.

It is proverbial among gamblers that anxiety destroys good fortune. The man in desperate need of winning will lose the little that he has, while the one who seems to invite loss will win at every turn.

He who would save his life shall lose it. A too great eagerness to win defeats its own purpose, whether the reward is happiness, advancement, social recognition or love.

You live in fear of losing your treasure because you prize it too much. You destroy happiness by your miser's hoarding of the thing that could make you happy.

Why live in instant dread of loss when you must lose all things—even life itself—soon or late? Possession is only temporary. Does it make the final loss any less to endure a thousand losses in dreadful anticipation?

If the bad penny comes back, the way to keep any penny is to think it none too good.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Of Course Not.
Boston Herald.

There is the usual criticism because the national committee boys are out collecting a sizable campaign fund, but, after all, you can't expect to sweep the country without raising a little dust.

Babes in the Woods?
Boston Transcript.

If Al Smith and Gov. Roosevelt stick to their forestation row, it is easy to see that their party will never be able to get either one of them out of the woods.

Simeon's Surprise.
Atlanta Constitution.

Chairman Fess has called the Republican national committee to meet on December 15, but gives no intimation that his resignation will be his Christmas gift to the party.

Reduction of Congressmen.
Los Angeles Times.

Somebody has figured out that we should save about $3,000,000 by dropping every other Congressman. The suggestion seems to be to extend the idea of "drop a crop" to Congress. Then if we were to omit every other Congressman, we should only have half as many laws and only half as much gab. There would only be half as many costly fences to fix up over the country also.

British Tariff Aims.
New York Herald Tribune.

The main purpose of any British tariff now adopted would not be to strike the United States, but to redress the trade balance and restart British industry. Such a tariff might tread on our toes here and there, but if it succeeded in reviving prosperity in Great Britain we would almost certainly be the gainer in the long run. Thus, though we are supposed to represent an extreme of tariff isolation, foreigners in 1929 were able not only to sell us nearly $3,000,000,000 worth of free-list goods, but to send in $1,500,000,000 more over our tariff.

Pinchot's Happy Scheme.
Minneapolis Journal.

Gov. Pinchot is advocating that splendid and popular taxation plan of increasing the other fellow's taxes.

Bare Facts.
Louisville Courier-Journal.

A French journalist writes of Borah's "short-sleeve" diplomacy, evidently meaning that the Idaho senator didn't keep his shirt on.

Object Lesson.
Detroit Free Press.

The ease with which the best political minds of Great Britain can get together and submerge partisanship in face of a crisis ought not to pass unnoticed in Washington next December.

High Cost of Democracy.
Minneapolis Journal.

With each major party afraid that the other will have the larger war chest in 1932 (a year in which the gathering of campaign contributions obviously is going to be more difficult than in normal years) there is every likelihood that the new Congress will make the first serious attempt in history to limit outlays by and for presidential nominees.

But inasmuch as citizens do not vote for President, but for presidential electors, and the United States Supreme Court has held that presidential electors are State rather than Federal officials, just what can Congress do?

In 1928 the national and State organizations of the two parties raised and spent something like $17,000,000, a record total. They won't be able to get that much money next year. But each will doubtless try to spend as much money as it can possibly raise.

And this lavish expenditure for the "education" of the voters seems to be part of the price that must be paid for the blessings of democracy. The price is a huge one, including, as it does, demagoguery, corruption and the necessity of listening to a dizzying volume of broadcast blah. But probably free government is worth all it costs.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The President of the United States Should Not Be Subjected to Abuse. Correspondent Rebukes Those Who Maliciously Criticize President Hoover.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Why criticize President Hoover so severely and in such abusive terms? Heaven knows the job of being President is hard enough without malicious criticism, and out of respect for the office we should at least be respectful to the man.

The American Legion won the regard of the Nation by its respectful attitude toward the President in Detroit and thereby proved that it was a patriotic organization.

If we can not always agree with the President, let us at least accord him the honor that is his due as President of the United States.

MRS. ROSE DAVIS.

Tall Woman Protests Against Reduction in Length of Stockings—Many Women Can Not Wear Stockings That Are Only 30 Inches Long.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I would like to inquire just what, if any, provisions have been made for the women, like myself, who wear hosiery from 33 inches to 35 inches in length?

It would be absolutely impossible for me to wear hose of less than 33 inches in length—and certainly I am not the only tall woman in the United States. I dare say it will be an "economical catastrophe" if the women of my family are forced to buy 30-inch hosiery which they could not possibly wear!

I can name at least 100 women in the office building in which I work, and likewise at least 50 of my acquaintance, who feel the same about this situation as I do, because I have already broached the subject to them—and their answers on the point are sometimes made in strong language. I might add that we quiver at the thought of what would happen were other personal garments of milady to be "standardized!" A. H.

Democrats Are Again Warned Not to Have a Wet Platform or a Wet Candidate in 1932.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: "Virginia Democrat" comments cheerfully, if not arrogantly, on the letter of Mr. Beauchamp, of Dallas, Tex.

Mr. Beauchamp manifests fairness, at least, and this fairness ought to cover a multitude of other shortcomings if such should be found in him. He, presumably, voted for Mr. Hoover in 1928 without otherwise severing his relationship with the Democratic party, or failing to support the State nominees. But, however he may have voted, he knows that enough Democrats did vote to defeat Smith.

His letter indicates that he earnestly desires to see a Democrat elected in 1932 and makes suggestions helpful toward that end, and, in fairness, warns of conditions that must be met if the end is to be attained. He warns the Democrats not to put out a wet platform or a wet candidate.

In 1927 and 1928 both parties were warned to the same purpose. The Republicans accepted the advice. The Democrats ignored it. Everybody knows what happened.

Some Democrats may have sustained political loss for their action in their so-called bolting, but they saved their self-respect, which is far better. It's an honor to "stick through thick and thin." It's an equal honor to "bolt for a principle."

The wets have a legal right to work in proper ways for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, but the Nation is constitutionally dry, and no party can expect to put out a wet candidate on a wet platform in 1932 and get by with it. The drys would prove themselves "saps" if they consented to such a program.

W. B. WITHERSPOON.

Put a Tax on Machines and Maintain Wages, Says Reader.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: America is the finest country in the world and our system of government is best, but, like a good car, our system needs adjusting. We are a free people, we work, make goods and receive wages for our work. With our wages we buy the goods and keep our factories going by what we spend. Through the profits made off our labor and through highly specialized labor, incomes are created large enough to pay income taxes. These taxes help run the Government. When the people enjoy good wages, factories and farms are prosperous. When factories and farms are prosperous there is plenty of work at good wages. What has broken up the circle? The answer is, the people are not getting the good wages. Some are, but hundreds are walking the streets, idle while machines are doing the work.

Industry is losing its market; the Government is going behind because there are few income taxes, and the workers are starving. Give the wages back and no one will be hurt. How can we give wages back when there are no jobs for the workers? Tax the machines! NEWELL B. DAVIS.

Government Clerk Would Oust Relatives of Legislators.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In connection with an article in The Post signed "Just a Government Clerk" and the report in The Post on the following day of the recommendation of President Hoover's Emergency Organization on Unemployment Relief, why not make a survey of the number of relatives of representatives and senators who are on the Government pay rolls and, in most cases, are performing little or no labor for the salaries they are paid? ANOTHER CLERK.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"SCORPIO."

IF November 3 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:10 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 4:30 p. m. to 6 p. m., and from 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from noon to 2 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10:30 p. m.

It is indicated that November 3 is a safe time for expansion and the entering into partnerships—beneficial changes are in store for you. Some trials and disappointments within the home and possible domestic trouble confronts you, as well as nerve strain.

The children born on this November 3 will be highstrung, temperamental beings, and will not be gifted with any too much energy. They will have striking personalities, and will always be able to make new friends. They will always fight shy of responsibilities, although they will be gifted with unusual abilities.

Born on November 3, you have a very decided character; there is nothing vacillating or feeble about it. Your personality is dynamic, but a trying one. You are essentially a leader, but you will never become a popular one, as you are an exciting being, and your vindictiveness and fault-finding tendencies are often carried to an extreme. You are not happy with those whom you can not dominate. You probably desire power more than either the possession of wealth, fame or position. The tyrannical part of your nature makes you rule with an iron hand.

Your manner is naturally dignified, and although you are often most affable and courteous, you are ready at any moment to stand upon your dignity. You are fitted for any employment where both nerve and pluck are essentials. You have a great deal of self-confidence, and you are not afraid to push yourself to the front. There is not a lazy bone in your body, and you are always a busy person. You work intelligently and with system, and you know how to conserve your energy. You have a keen sense of economic values and are not afraid to bargain.

Within the home you will make a fond parent and a most loyal and devoted husband or wife. Children bring out the softer side of your nature, and they are able to make you unbend.

Successful people born November 3:

Stephen F. Austin, Texas patriot.
James Renwick, architect.
Francis D. Millet, artist.
Walter Wellman, author and Arctic explorer.
Isabelle McDonald Alden "Pansy," author.
Pearl M. Craigie, author.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me how to mix the lime-sulphur mentioned in a recent article for spraying purposes. KATHERINE R. L.

It is better to purchase this material ready mixed. Lime-sulphur is not a proprietary preparation and can be purchased in any seed store or hardware store listing garden supplies. Being free from sediment, the commercial lime-sulphur only needs to be mixed with water to be ready for use. To determine the dilutions, follow the directions of your dealer, remembering that lime-sulphur should be used about one-fifth as strong in summer for leaf and fruit diseases as when used in winter for scale insects.

Last spring my lilies seemed to blight. I dug them up, expecting to get other bulbs, but found they were in perfect condition, so I immediately replanted them. They are now growing. Do you suppose lifting them has in any way permanently injured them? How deep should I have set them? Will soft-wood ashes harm them? Also, should bleeding heart be cut back before frost?

MRS. GEORGE McK.

The lily bulbs are not injured, but as they do not take kindly to having their roots disturbed, they may not bloom for a season or so. It all depends on the varieties you have, how deep you plant them. Wood ashes furnish a common source of potash. When allowed to stand in the rain they are leached of their potash and their value rapidly decreased. Do not add more than a peck of wood ashes to a ton of soil. Wood ashes will in no way injure lilies. As a rule, it is unnecessary to cut the tops of bleeding heart, as it usually died down of its own accord. This fact makes it difficult to keep track of the various sorts you have in a garden unless they are marked.

---

We have a beautiful rambler in our garden which has been attacked with mildew. In front of the rambler is a row of hollyhocks. This year the hollyhocks were covered with rust. If conditions continue another year, is there any spray which I could use which would answer for both varieties?

MRS. PAULINE T.

You could use Bordeaux mixture on both varieties, but it would be better to use Massey dust on the roses, as Bordeaux mixture always leaves a gray deposit on the foliage. Some growers object to this even on the foliage of their hollyhocks, in which case lime-sulphur can be blown up through the foliage.

---

During the Easter period of 1930 I received an azalea, which was a healthy plant, in full bloom. Now the leaves have become undersized. The plant is still in a pot and in a place where it gets little sunshine. What can I do to make it bloom again?

MRS. E. A. J. H.

Better plant your azalea in some sunny place in your garden. Give it some winter protection and keep it well watered until the first frost. Or, if you want to keep it as a house plant, keep it in a cool but very sunny place until the first of the year. During this period it must be watered only twice a week. After January 1, remove the plant to the warmest place available and give it water every day. When the buds show color, give it an application of well rotted manure.

Jane Interprets the Mode

November 2.

AMONG the very amusing stunts that are being played with our stockings this winter, I found a very real idea, and one that's going to do a lot for those of us whose nether extremities leave something to be desired. This idea is the knowing use of clocks, lace or lattice insets of dropped stitches to flatter the leg and give it an appearance of symmetry that it really doesn't own.

For instance, for the woman whose leg is large and out of proportion to the rest of her body, stockings with dropped stitches forming dainty, vertical stripes, would be a veritable godsend. And for the woman whose ankle is large in proportion to the rest of her leg, vertical, skyscraper clocks do have a distinctly slimming effect. There are, of course, as many women with pipestem legs as with stout legs! They, too, are well taken care of. Clocked hose they must have, BUT the clocks are wider than they are long, with a distinctly horizontal and broadening appearance.

All stockings get darker and darker as winter waxes cold and blustery and it's a good thing! Think of the havoc wrought on our pale beige and flesh-tinted sheer hose by splashes of dirty snow or muddy and sooty rain that fall from November's dismal skies. Yet, if you would be clever, and choose the perfect stockings for an ocean voyage, I recently saw a pair of light gunmetal ones, with an amusing patented top to prevent garter runs. At the very top was a row of anchors in lacy effect, and below are three rows of wavy lines about an inch apart. The idea is to "anchor the garter between the waves!"

* * * *

A new way to use fur and a new way to widen shoulders and a new way to make a peplum three ways to a very definite chic, aren't they? And see how Mirande combines these features in the frock I illustrate today? The frock is of sage green wool crepe, and the little tied collar is of natural ermine. There's a deep V yoke on the dress bodice, and little ruffled capelet-epaulets. And there are two scalloped ruffles incrusted right to the hipline of the frock in a flattering and original peplum. There are tabs of the green wool crepe on the belt and at the cuff of the long, plain sleeves.

So that, my deahs, is how they're using fur beneath coats right now! Discreetly, of course, and in distinct contrast to the frock itself.

* * * *

And a bag and shoe ensemble of dark-brown suede, with incrustations of bronze kid, like the set I have sketched today, wouldn't be so bad either, would it?

* * * *

Two and a half yards of material, a half an hour of thread pulling, a trip to the hemstitchers, another trip a day later, an ironing, and another half hour of hemstitch cutting to make picot edges, and what have you? You have a simply ravishing nightgown, honest to goodness! And, here's something even more intriguing than the simplicity of making it, it is by far the most flattering nightie I have ever seen, or anyone else either. Better send that stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Post for the illustrated leaflet telling you how to make this nightgown, and see for yourself!

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

HE HAS PROVED HIS LOVE.

DEAR Frances McDonald:

I read your letters every day and think you give wonderful advice. I wonder if you could help me with my problem? Here it is. Three years ago I started going with a man ten years my senior. I thought a lot of him and he has shown me he loved me many times. He was very good to me when I was sick and without work, paying my doctor's bill, board bill and everything. He is from the West and wants to go there again and farm. He has asked me to marry him to go along. But six months ago I met a young man of 20 years who says he fell in love with me from the first. I like him, too, but he just can't take the place of the first one—that I will call Jim.

I stopped seeing Jim, but he told me he would come back any time I asked him to. He still writes to me and asks to see me, but I do not see him. Now, I think I love him and want him again. What shall I do? I am almost 21, and I think I know what I want. I have a very good job and make good wages, but I think I would give it up and go West with him. I have met his father, but not his mother. My parents are both dead, so I have no one to turn to.

There is one person who does not want me to go back to him again, and has told me several things about him which I know are not true.

I have waited six months, and now I love him more than ever. Please advise me what to do. Sorry for taking up your time. Will look for a reply real soon.

"ONE WHO CARES."

The man has shown you that he is a true friend and a constant one, and in addition you love him. What more could you ask? Tell him that you are ready to settle down, marry him here, and leave with him. I take it that you found his father all that you hoped, although, even if you had not, that would mean little since the son himself had shown the characteristics every woman hopes her man may possess. If you are worrying about the fact that you know nothing of him, he will be glad to give you the name of the clergyman back home whose church the family attended. But the thing that really counts is the man. And he has certainly measured up. He stood by when you were ill and friendless. He stood by again when you forsook him to see something of another man's love-making. He has been "regular" and sounds to our overworked ear like the real makings. So tell him that you will marry him, then go to your own minister or priest, and he will ask you both to the rectory for a little chat, during which he will ask the man for the name of his clergyman and any other information you want him to obtain. Young people alone in the world should not forget that the clergymen of their faith stand ready to be fathers to them in every crisis of their lives. It is amazing the lengths to which these kindly men will go in befriending young people who ask their advice. So call upon your minister or priest, and do just as he tells you—and may his blessing go with you out to the West and into the years that lie ahead—with all that they may bring. And here's my blessing, too.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

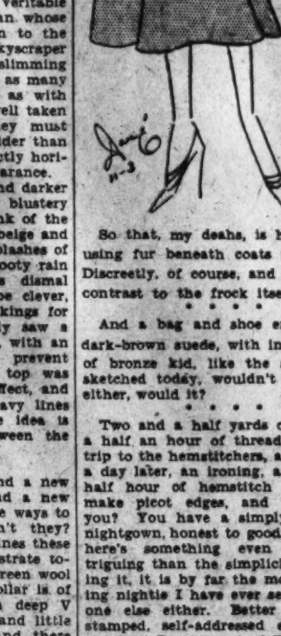
TIME'S POTENT POWER.

HOLDING three sure trump-tricks in tenace position over the Declarer and two full honor-tricks in the side suits, a player can not be blamed for feeling certain that he can defeat a contract to take ten tricks, particularly when neither Dummy nor the closed hand shows up with long suits already established. However, Mr. Vernard Cone, a New York Contract player, recently demonstrated, in a rubber game, the potent influence of the time factor in making an apparently unmakeable contract. His success, it is true, was in the first instance made possible by the unwise choice of an Opening lead by his senior opponent. Utilizing this initial error, Mr. Cone brilliantly played the hand below to a successful conclusion.

South—Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.
North and South not vulnerable.



The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1NT | Pass | Pass | Dbl. (1) |
| Pass | Pass (2) | 2◇ (3) | Pass |
| Pass | 2♠ (4) | Pass | 4♠ (5) |
| Dbl. (6) | Pass | Pass | Redbl. (7) |
| Pass | Pass | Pass | |

1. A sound Takeout Double. The hand contains four honor-tricks and is prepared for a major suit Takeout.

2. With nearly two honor-tricks and a strong playing hand, West is prepared to play the hand for penalties, even against a contract of one.

3. North fears disaster with his trickless hand and makes a bad rescue bid.

4. While West's spade suit is very weak, his partner's Takeout Double he knows is based on ability to play the hand at spades or, failing that, his partner has a sound bid of his own. Otherwise he would not have made a Takeout Double of an uncontested bid of one notrump.

5. East's jump to four spades is justified by his strong hand and his partner's show of strength through passing the bid of one notrump for penalties and his later bid of two spades.

6. Apparently a safe Penalty Double.

7. Perhaps questionable, although West's bid has been very strong.

The North player was a wooden follower of Whist traditions and opened, of all things, his fourth best diamond from a suit eight spot high and without the possibility of a single reentry. This routine and unreasoned lead gave West the opportunity he was seeking. The correct Opening lead—namely, the doubleton heart—would have defeated the contract, as it would have given his partner, with his strong hand, sea room in which to navigate and an opportunity to fight against the barrier of time. The heart lead, which is clearly dictated by the holding and the bidding, must result in the loss of a trick in that suit for East and West, which, through the workings of the time element, failed later to materialize. East's diamond King held the first trick, and West immediately proceeded to develop his brilliant plan of campaign.

North's first lead definitely indicated four diamonds in South's hand. North's bid of two diamonds, the cards shown in Dummy and South's Opening bid of one notrump clearly designated to the alert Declarer that South held all the outstanding honor cards. It was apparent to South as well that he was probably hopelessly caught between two strong hands.

The Declarer led from the Dummy the Ten of clubs. In an effort to free himself South played the King; West won with the Ace and eliminated diamonds from both hands by the second lead of that suit. A second lead of clubs was won by the Declarer with the Queen, and the suit continued. It seemed apparent that South had held originally four hearts, four diamonds, three spades and two clubs. If this were true, nothing could prevent the making of the contract, provided his heart holding included King and Knave.

On the third round of clubs South realized that the chances of defeating the contract were slim indeed. However, hoping against hope, he discarded a diamond. This confirmed West in his placing of the high cards, so a fourth round of clubs was led, which South now trumped with the Ten of trumps and hopelessly led a heart.

The one chance that South now saw to defeat the contract lay in North's possible possession of the heart Queen, as the Dummy was void of both clubs and diamonds. South therefore led a heart, and West's Ten held. West refused to permit South to escape from the trap and placed him in the lead again with the trump Queen, which, except for his Ace of trumps, was the only trick now remaining for the defending side, as South, after laying down the Ace, was forced to lead another heart or, in lieu of that, a diamond, giving West a trump and a discard. Through using the double throw-in of the strong South hand Mr. Cone had brilliantly outwitted his opponents.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Question—In what language do partners exchange information as to their respective holdings?

Answer—Valuation language, i. e., the trick-taking possibilities of each hand.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS.

When to Stop Bidding.

Question—After I take out partner's notrump in two of a suit and he bids two notrump, can I raise the notrump bid because my suit was a five-card one if the hand contains no extra honor values? I am not a bit clear on what the added length gives me the right to bid more.

Example:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1NT | Pass | 2♣ | Pass |
| 2NT | Pass | ? | |

What do I do here with Spades x x
Hearts x x x
Diamonds x x x
Clubs A K x x x

Do I go to three notrump because I have extra length in clubs?

Answer—Your Takeout of two clubs indicates the holding of a five-card suit. Since your hand is absolutely worthless otherwise, I recommend a pass over your partner's two notrump bid. Should you hold six clubs, a bid of three clubs or three notrump would be in order.

Question—When the bid is one heart, pass, one notrump (see example), can I raise the notrump because my heart suit is longer than my partner has a right to expect?

Example:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1♡ | Pass | 1NT | Pass |

What do I do here with Spades x x
Hearts A K x x x
Diamonds K x x
Clubs J x x

Do I raise the notrump to two notrump because I have extra length in hearts?

Answer—In your example it is evident that the partnership does not hold more than 4-½ honor tricks. Such holding is entirely insufficient for game and, although your added length in hearts gives you an optional Rebid such Rebids are always suppressed when the information already exchanged is to the effect that game is impossible.

Untimely "Psychic" Bid.

Question—We had a most unusual hand arrive at disastrous results last evening and quite an argument. The writer was playing the South hand and the North and South hands were as follows:

North
Spades 7 6 5 4 2
Hearts Q
Diamonds Q J 6 4 3 2
Clubs J

South
Spades —
Hearts A 10-9 6 5 3
Diamonds A 10 9
Clubs 10 9 7 6

East and West are vulnerable and 30; North and South are nothing. East deals and bids one club; South bids one spade; West pass; North bids two spades; East three clubs; South pass; West pass; North three spades; East pass; South four hearts; West Double; North four spades; East Double; South five hearts; West Double; North five spades; East Double; South pass; West pass; North pass.

Answer—South's bid of one spade is an extremely dangerous "psychic" bid, as it is made in the highest ranking suit, with no safe escape in case partner misunderstands. Furthermore, having a void in a suit, there is always the danger that partner may hold four or five and, therefore, have defense in his hand. I agree that had North been particularly alert he could have passed three clubs or subsequently bid his diamond suit. On the other hand, South might also have passed three spades to avoid more serious disaster, realizing that his partner was hopelessly misled and would doubtless continue the bidding in spades.

Contracting for a Slam Over Opponent's Opening Bid.

Question—Will you be so kind as to give the proper bidding and analysis of the following hands. South is Dealer and bids one diamond (North and South ultimately reach five diamonds):

West
Spades A Q 10 x x x x
Hearts A K x x x
Diamonds —
Clubs x

East
Spades K x x
Hearts Q J 10 x x x
Diamonds x
Clubs A K 10

Answer—It is easy for East-West to reach a contract of six or seven hearts on this hand regardless of adverse bidding. For example: South one diamond; West two spades; North three diamonds; East three hearts; West five hearts; East six hearts, or South one diamond; West two spades; North three diamonds; East three hearts; West four diamonds; East four spades; West six hearts; East seven hearts.

Mountaineers' Artcraft Shown in Exhibit Here

Examples of primitive artcraft produced by mountaineers of western North Carolina and Tenhessee, often working on looms which were in use in Revolutionary days, were viewed by several hundred spectators yesterday at the opening of the week's exhibition being conducted by the Southern Arts and Crafts Society.

The purpose of the display, in charge of Mrs. Beatrice E. Mutch, consulting director of the society, is to promote interest in the welfare work being done among the mountaineers, most of whom are illiterate and all of whom, practically, are still living in the primitive civilization which has been characteristic of the mountain sections of the South since the earliest pioneer days.

"I am always proud to be the first member to enroll," he said.

Judge Payne handed the President a little printed card regularly distributed to prospective members, asking for contribution of $1, $5, $10 or $25.

U. S. TROOP THREAT MADE IN SPAN WAR

Murray Defiant in Reply to Judge's Remark; Court Refuses to Act.

Kansas City, Kans., Nov. 2 (A.P.).—An implied threat that Federal troops might intercede in the Red River Bridge war in Oklahoma was made here today by Federal District Judge John C. Pollock.

Taking cognizance of the use of National Guardsmen by Gov. W. H. Murray, who challenges authority of what he terms "inferior Federal courts," Judge Pollock siad.

"The State militia is not bigger than the Regular Army."

"I know of a case in Oklahoma where the Regular Army was called out. It can be done again," the 74-year-old jurist declared with emphasis.

Court Interference Refused.

The judge refused to act at this time on the request of the Red River Bridge Co. for an injunction to close the Oklahoma-Texas free bridge across the river near Durant, Okla., and to prevent interference by the State with the company's toll span.

A detachment of troops sent to the martial law zone at the free bridge to keep it open was recalled by Gov. Murray late today, since no action was taken by Judge Pollock to interfere with traffic. The soldiers were placed on duty early today in advance of the court hearing.

Judge Pollock told attorneys for the bridge company and the States of Oklahoma and Texas to obtain a settlement in the State courts at Austin, Tex., of the company's $165,000 damage suit against Texas for alleged breach of contract, and then report back to him.

Murray Reply Defiant.

Gov. Murray, who opened the free bridge last summer under martial law, made a characteristic defiant reply to Judge Pollock's statement. He has contended throughout the bridge controversy that "inferior Federal courts" do not have authority to enforce orders when State martial law prevails.

"Yes," Murray said at Oklahoma City, "I admit the Oklahoma National Guard is but a part of the United States Army and a part is less than the whole, but until the President of the United States gives the command the National Guard is under the direct and sole command of the chief executive of the State.

"Luckily, we have a Congress with power to impeach for violating the plain provision of the United States Constitution."

Judge George R. Wales presented a petition that trees be planted on Norton place between Thirty-sixth street and Wisconsin avenue.

Du Pont Company Building Synthetic Rubber Factory

Akron, Ohio, Nov. 2 (U.P.).—Production of a new synthetic rubber, possessing several qualities not contained in natural rubber, was announced tonight by officials of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Co. at a meeting of the American Chemical Society's rubber division.

The primary raw material for the new rubber is acetylene, which requires for its production only coal and limestone, chemists explained. Commercial possibilities of the product have been established so definitely that the Du Pont company already has started building a plant at Deepwater Point, N. J., for its manufacture on a commercial scale.

The only other raw materials needed, in addition to coal and limestone, are salt and water, it was said, and all of these materials are available in unlimited quantities.

Announcement of the discovery was made in highly technical papers presented at the meeting by F. B. Downing, W. H. Carothers, and Iga Williams, each representing a group of chemists who participated in the experimental work.

These papers revealed that the new synthetic rubber is made by the controlled polymerization of chloroprene. Chloroprene is made by the catalytic polymerization of acetylene to mono-vinylacetylene, which is then treated with hydrogen chloride to produce chloroprene.

More than a score of chemists worked several years perfecting the rubber.

The new product has many commercially valuable qualities, according to the chemists, which will supplement the present uses of natural rubber.

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 2 (U.P.).—In a campus laboratory 25 years ago, the Rev. Julius Arthur Nieuwland, C. S. C., then a young scientist on the University of Notre Dame faculty, discovered the essential chemicals which were to be developed into synthetic rubber.

He came upon the component parts of synthetic rubber in 1906, by passing acetylene into a solution of copper and ammonium chlorides. The chemical change produced a gas.

Father Nieuwland worked fourteen years more, when, in 1920, he was able to alter the composition so as to form an oil besides the gas. A year later the oil was determined to be divinyl acetylene. Two years later Dr. R. R. Vogt, an assistant to Father Nieuwland, treated divinyl acetylene with a vulcanizing agent and produced a highly elastic material, somewhat resembling rubber. Engineers of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. offered their cooperation. They took the gas he had discovered, treated it with hydrochloric acid and, presto, they had synthetic rubber, the dream of scientists for decades.

When Father Nieuwland was ordained as a priest he took a vow of poverty. Whatever income may accrue from his discovery goes to the congregation of the Holy Cross, for the maintenance of all its members. He, however, is not interested in money.

Member of Supreme Court Is Recovered From Recent Illness.

(Associated Press.)

The grand old man of American jurisprudence was back on the Supreme Court bench for yesterday's meeting, after an absence from several sessions which caused apprehension among his admirers.

Not only was Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes on hand, but he handed down two opinions—first of the term. The 90-year-old jurist walked in to the courtroom with a firmer and lighter step than on any previous day this term, as though in refutation of reports that his long activities on the bench were to be halted by failing health.

After the court adjourned he had difficulty, as usual, in getting up from his chair. All of his associates had left the bench before he arose.

Market Shed Extension May Be Decided Today

The problem of providing additional space for commission merchants at the New Center Market will be considered today by the District Commissioners.

Advice of George M. Roberts, superintendent of weights, measures, and markets, was asked yesterday on whether the sheds should be extended on K street from Fifth to Sixth streets or should be confined between Fourth and Fifth streets in front of Convention Hall.

Justice Agent Gets Indian Confessing Killing of Coed

White River Indian Reservation, Ariz., Nov. 2 (A.P.).—A Department of Justice agent, filling a role that might have daunted a Sherlock Holmes, is credited with solution of the Henrietta Schmerler slaying, a puzzle that many believed had been carried to the grave.

The work of the agent, J. A. Street, described by his superiors as a job accomplished by "patience and perseverance during the most trying circumstances," resulted in the arrest of an Apache brave, Colney Seymour, said to have confessed attacking and killing Miss Schmerler, brilliant Columbia University student.

Seymour is held incommunicado in jail at Globe, Ariz. The arrest came as a distinct surprise to officials of the Apache Indian reservation here, who had regarded Seymour as one of the most orderly and quiet Indians of a once fearsome tribe.

The killing occurred last July. Miss Schmerler had come to the reservation a month before on a fellowship from her university to study Indian lore. Disregarding warnings of reservation officials, she had lived alone in a brush shack, mingling freely among the Apaches, and hoped to wrest from their secretive and clannish minds some of the unknown history of the race.

Miss Schmerler, 23 years old, was the daughter of Elias Schmerler, of New York. She was regarded as a brilliant student of Columbia in ethnology and anthropology.

Her body, bruised with rocks and bearing evidence of a criminal attack, was found in a gulley. She was dressed in the gay native costume of an Apache girl, made for her by one of the squaws. She was believed to have been en route to a tribal dance. Scores of Apaches were questioned.

Failing to unearth the slightest clew, reservation officials despaired that any trace of the killer could be gained from their wards. Street was brought into the case. He had distinguished himself in the Osage Indian murder cases of 1925 in Oklahoma; and his life as a Westerner, in which he had been a sheriff and mounted policeman in New Mexico, gave him a valuable background.

Almost as his superiors at El Paso, Tex., had begun to worry about his welfare—several weeks had passed with no word from him—he came in with a solution of the case. He also had a statement from an eyewitness, Robert Gatewood, who is held.

GIRL SAYS MADDUX CUT WIFE'S THROAT

Husband Attends Funeral in Custody of Policeman; Denies Killing.

St. Louis, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Charged with first-degree murder in the razor slaying of Mrs. Reba Maddux, Clara Fish, 18-year-old domestic, tonight clung to her story that she anesthetized Mrs. Maddux and that Walter Maddux, her husband, then killed her in order that he might be free to marry Miss Fish.

Mrs. Maddux's nearly decapitated body was found in a lonely woods on the outskirts of suburban Kirkwood last Friday, a day after she had been slain. Miss Fish was a roomer in the Maddux home in Webster Grove, another suburb, and had, she said, often "gone out" with Maddux.

Maddux was taken to the county jail at Clayton tonight, after attending the funeral of his wife, and booked as a "suspect of murder." He continued to insist Miss Fish was "lying" in implicating him.

Girl's Story Doubted.

Chief of Police George Schroeder of Kirkwood said he placed little credence in the girl's latest story, implicating Maddux.

A policeman accompanied Maddux to the funeral of his wife this afternoon. He retained his composure until he viewed the body, when he broke down and sobbed:

"Oh, darling, why did she do it?"

Chief of Police Andrew McDonnell, of Webster Groves, today turned over to Prosecuting Attorney Harry Castlen the report of Fred Smith, patrolman, who went to the Maddux home after Mrs. Maddux's body had been found. Without telling Maddux his wife was dead, the patrolman said, Maddux, after conferring with Miss Fish, asked:

"Did they find her? Is her throat cut bad?"

False Note Detected.

A false note in the story of Miss Fish that she had administered ether to Mrs. Maddux before 4 p. m. Thursday, after luring her to the lonely woods, and that Maddux had killed his wife with a razor after 7 p. m., was detected by Dr. C. E. Barnett, county health commissioner.

"It would have been physically impossible for Mrs. Maddux to have remained unconscious during the period claimed by Miss Fish after the administrations of ether," Dr. Barnett said. "The woman would not have remained unconscious for more than an hour."

Miss Fish is being held in the county jail without bond. She will have a preliminary hearing November 13.

Mrs. Judd to Face Jury in December

Death of Mrs. Le Roi Will Probably Be First of Cases for Trial.

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 2 (A.P.).—County Attorney Lloyd J. Andrews announced today he plans to bring Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, charged with the murders of Mrs. Agnes Anne Le Roi and Miss Hedvig Samuelson, to trial not later than the first week in December.

Andrews said he had not decided definitely which murder the woman will be tried upon first, but it probably would be that of Mrs. Le Roi. He added that no inquest would be held in Phoenix.

Jail officials said Mrs. Judd spent "a very good night last night." Today she was closeted for several minutes with Herman Lewkowitz, Phoenix attorney, who became associate counsel with Paul Schenck, of Los Angeles.

Makers of Vicks VapoRub Announce a New Plan for Home-Control of Colds

News Comes With Development of a New Product; A Unique Companion to the Famous Treatment, Based on a New Idea for Prevention of Colds.

Makes Possible a Further Reduction of the Family "Colds-Tax" This Winter In Time, Money, Health.

A quarter century ago, Vicks VapoRub introduced the modern external method of treating colds. Now, Vicks Nose & Throat Drops—latest development by the Vicks chemists—introduces a new idea in preventing colds. Together, these perfect allies make possible the new Vick Plan for better "Control of Colds" and reduction of the family "Colds-Tax" in time, money and health.

Here is the Vick Plan of Control:

1.—BEFORE a Cold Starts.

On exposure to colds or to any of the causes that ordinarily lead to colds—(crowded indoor places—stuffy, poorly ventilated rooms—sudden temperature changes—wet and cold, &c., &c.)—that slow down the normal functioning of the nose, Nature's marvelous "first line of defense against colds"—use Vicks Drops promptly. Or, if a cold actually threatens—at that first stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages—a few drops up each nostril, and many annoying colds will be avoided.

2.—AFTER a Cold Starts.

At night, rub Vicks VapoRub well over throat and chest and cover with warm flannel. Leave bed-clothing loose around the neck so the medicated vapors can be inhaled all night long. During the day—any time or place—use the convenient Vicks Drops as often as needed. This gives you full 24-hour treatment. (If there is a cough, you will like the new Vicks Cough Drops—medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub.)

Trial Offer to Vick Users.

The makers want every user of Vicks VapoRub to try Vicks Nose Drops. Free trial samples of the Nose Drops were sent every druggist in the United States—but if you failed to get yours, buy a bottle today and try out the Vick Plan for better Home-Control of Colds as directed. If you are not delighted with results, your druggist is authorized to refund your money without question.

U. S. ACCEPTS PARK LANDS IN CEREMONY

138,843 Acres Presented by Two States for Smoky Mountain Site.

(Associated Press.)

The States of North Carolina and Tennessee yesterday parted with their sovereignty over 138,843 acres so the land can become a portion of the Great Smoky Mountain National Park.

To date 297,400 acres have been given for the projected park area. The National Park Service has assumed administration of the donated land and will begin its development when 457,000 acres have been acquired.

In accepting the deeds from Mark Squires and David Chapman, chairmen of the North Carolina and Tennessee Park Commissions, Secretary Wilbur envisioned the park as "one of the finest in the world" and described the area as a "wonderful land."

The presentation of title took place in the handsome, paneled offices of the Secretary of the Interior. The ceremonies were broadcast to every State.

Range's Beauties Depicted.

Mr. Squires spoke with great emotion as he depicted the beauties of the Great Smoky range. In the room had gathered a number of the members of both State commissions and high-ranking officials in the Interior Department and the Park Service.

The offices were darkened by huge maps and blue-prints stretched across the windows showing graphically and in minute detail the area presented and acreage yet to be donated.

Mr. Chapman, who spoke more briefly than Mr. Squires, also was deeply moved by the nearness of the completion of the park, for which he has worked for years.

The park will be the first large area set aside for public enjoyment and education through gift from individuals and States. With the exception of the small Acadia National Park in Maine, all the national parks heretofore created have been carved out of the public domain through acts of Congress.

Secretary Wilbur, commenting on this fact in his acceptance speech, said it meant "that a new vision has come to many of our citizens."

He expressed hope "this generous gift will be followed by others and that within a few years the country will have a chain of national parks from Maine to Florida and Florida to Lake Superior which will attract hundreds of thousands of visitors."

Points Out Advantages.

The Secretary also called attention to the fact that in the creation of this national park there would result an economic advantage not only to the whole people through the use of the area, but a distinct local advantage in that it makes a steady producing unit adding wealth to the surrounding communities.

"The crop of visitors is easy to harvest," he said. "Recreation gives them health, happiness and satisfaction, and they in turn give prosperity to park neighborhoods."

In presenting the deeds, Mr. Squires recalled much of the land now being turned over to the Government had been sold to the people "for the sum of six shillings for every hundred acres" and had been regained by the expenditure of millions of money made available by the States, their people and the "regal contribution" of $5,000,000 from John D. Rockefeller, jr.

Secretary Wilbur paid tribute to Mr. Squires and Mr. Chapman for their long years of work in the interests of the park.

"They have kept it from falling at critical times," he said. "I am sure that to my gratitude is added the thanks of a whole nation. There has been quite a series of difficulties to overcome. It is comparatively simple to carve out an area from the public domain. It is a very complicated matter to displace established settlers and business organizations."

Compliments Mountain People.

The Department of the Interior head also complimented "the fine spirit of the mountain people," which he said had been shown "throughout the whole enterprise."

The park area lies along the State line between North Carolina and Tennessee. It includes a score or more peaks ranging over 6,000 feet in height, clothed to the very top with hardwood timber. Much of the area is covered by virgin forests and scientists have reported that its fauna and flora contain virtually every known type on the North American continent.

Mr. Chapman referred specifically to the work by Horace Kephart, writer, who did much to bring the Smoky Mountain section to the attention of conservation associations throughout the country.

Secretary Wilbur also took occasion to thank Dr. Hubert Work, former Secretary of the Interior, for his "far-seeing statesmanship in this important matter." Dr. Work was present at today's ceremonies.

Hyattsville to Plant 10,000 Tulip Bulbs

Ten thousand tulip bulbs, to be planted in Hyattsville, Md., as part of the town beautification scheme for the Bicentennial, have arrived in this country from Holland. They will be delivered to municipal authorities this week.

The bulbs were admitted duty free because they are to be used for public purposes. Daniel Cox Fahey, jr., and Dr. P. F. Brookens will decide where the plants shall be set out. Planting of bulbs by the town of Mount Rainier, for the same purpose, has already begun.

Taxi Driver Fined $30 In Hyattsville Crash

Arthur H. Hampton, Washington taxi driver, was convicted of reckless driving in Hyattsville police court yesterday and fined $25. An additional fine of $5 was imposed on a charge of driving without a registration card.

Hampton was arrested last week after his cab had collided with a Prince Georges County police car which contained Chief J. J. Crowley. Neither the chief, his driver, nor any of the three occupants of the cab were injured.

Thieves Get 100 in Jewelry.

FAIRFAX EXPECTING RECORD VOTE TODAY

All County Officials Except Clerk Will Be Chosen in General Election.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245. Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 166.

The polls in Fairfax County will open this morning at sunrise for the general election which will select all county officials for four years except the county clerk, who was elected four years ago for an eight-year term.

All Democratic candidates will have opposition except G. Wallace Carper, of McLean, for supervisor of Providence District. The Republicans have nominees for all offices, but the main fight appears to be for the county treasurership. The Democratic candidates for all major county offices are the incumbents.

County Treasurer F. W. Huddleson, who has served in that office for the past 15 years, will be opposed by Leon L. Freeman, of Vienna, Republican.

A movement has been under way for the past few weeks to have the voters write the name of Robert W. Stump, of Fairfax, on the ballot for the office of Commonwelth's attorney in opposition to the incumbent, Wilson M. Farr. An organization called the "Stump Club of Vienna" has mailed sample ballots throughout the county in behalf of Mr. Stump, instructing voters in marking the ballots. Mr. Stump opposed Farr in the Democratic primary four years ago and was defeated by more than 400 votes.

The two contests for the board of supervisors which have been attracting the most attention are in Mount Vernon and Lee Districts where both incumbents are opposed by independent Democrats. In Mount Vernon District W. F. P. Reid, chairman of the board, is opposed by J. P. Parnell, of Franconia. In Lee District Kyle Davis is opposed by W. H. Rice, of Burke.

Despite the fact that voters have taken very little interest in the various campaigns it is believed a record vote will be cast today before sunset, closing time of the polls.

The County Electorial Board has issued a warning that all political workers must stay at least 100 feet from the voting places and that to have the ballots counted the voters must draw a line at least three-fourths of the way through the names of all persons not voted for. Fairfax County usually polls approximately 3,500 votes in the general election.

Only One Fight Marks Election in Lynchburg

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Mrs. Elizabeth Otrey, Socialist, and R. H. T. Adams, jr., Democrat, candidates for the House of Delegates, furnish the only contest in Lynchburg in tomorrow's elections. Col. Frank B. Varney, candidate for the Senate to represent Lynchburg and Campbell County, Democratic nominee, is unopposed.

Democratic candidates for county offices in Campbell and Amherst counties are unopposed, except for supervisor in one district in the latter county. In Nelson there is a fight for all county offices, no Democratic primary having been held and the field being left open to candidates without regard to party lines.

$12,500 Fire Engine Is Delivered in Ballston

The new 12,500 triple compound American La France pumping fire engine was delivered to the Ballston Volunteer Fire Department yesterday. It is a 750-gallon capacity engine and is said to be the largest in the county. With the engine, Arlington County's fire fighting equipment equals that of any county within the State, county officials say.

The men who man the county's equipment are all volunteers and are worthy of all the praise given them and then some, but it is the view of the taxpayers that it is now time to begin putting some of the fire protection money out in the form of salaries.

Norman Fischer Named Woodmont Club's Head

Car Hits Pedestrians At Crossing in Laurel

Gordon Clair, of the Naval Hospital, was held in $500 bond yesterday on charges of reckless driving, failing to slow down at an intersection and failing to slow down while nearing a pedestrian, after his car is alleged to have struck two persons at Laurel, Md.

Injured persons were Miss Dorothy Kane, of Laurel, and Everett K. Van Deusen, bus driver, Washington. Van Deusen was brought to Garfield Hospital, where he was treated for cuts and bruises, but the woman was not greatly hurt and remained at home. According to Judge H. M. Scott, of Laurel, the two were walking across the boulevard with the traffic light when Van Deusen saw the car nearing them. He darted between the auto and the girl, but both were knocked down, Judge Scott said.

CHARITY FILM SHOW ON SUNDAY BLOCKED

Hyattsville Committee Will Suggest it Be Given Some Other Evening.

Finding a decided opposition to Sunday movies in Hyattsville, even for charity purposes, a special committee appointed to ascertain public sentiment will report that the special charity show should be given on a week night.

The committee of councilmen, headed by Dr. P. F. Brookens, listened to a number of charitable, fraternal and religious organizations at a hearing last night. While the opposition to a Sunday show was not unanimous, it appeared that one on a week night would have the support of the whole community.

The committee, which consists of Dr. Brookens, L. L. Powers and H. A. Harrison, was appointed after Sidney Lust, owner of the theater in Hyattsville, had offered to give the show house and films for charity. Employes of the theater will donate their services. While his original offer was for a Sunday show or a matinee on a week day, Mr. Lust changed it last night to make the theater receipts from any day available for charitable work.

Caesar L. Aiello, town attorney, explained to the committee that the Maryland law against Sunday amusements did not forbid shows given for charity.

Maryland Man Seized In Injury of Motorist

Edgar L. Starry, of Cabin John, Md., was arrested yesterday by Montgomery County police on charges of leaving an accident without stopping to render assistance and make known his identity. He was held for action of the county police court on bond of $500 by Justice of the Peace John Jones, of Rockville, Md.

Starry was arested by Corp. Oscar Gaither, of the Bethesda substation, and Policeman Ralph Howard, of Rockville headquarters. He is alleged to have been the driver of the car which struck Roy Stuart, of Great Falls, Md., Sunday night at Gaithersburg, Md., while the latter was repairing a tire, and failed to stop.

Washington's Teachings Called Today's Panacea

Modern-day ills could be solved if the modern statesman could go back to the teachings of George Washington, Representative Sol Bloom, of New York, associate director of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, told members of the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce last night in the Montgomery County Building in Bethesda, Md. Washington had foreseen most of the modern ills and had offered remedies, he said.

Representative Bloom advocated the reading of Washington's Farewell Address and said that President Hoover could issue Washington's Thanksgiving Proclamation without changing a word and it would apply to the present time.

78 CANDIDATES SEEK VOTES IN ARLINGTON

Polls Open at 6:36 A. M. and Close at 5:07 P. M.; Last Appeals Are Made.

With attention centered on the outcome of the fights for offices of Commonwealth's attorney, trial justice of the county court and the county board of five, Arlington County's most hectic off-year political campaign came to a close last night.

The campaign may have started off quietly and good naturedly enough, but it ended under a tension which robbed it of those qualities. Obviously 78 candidates can not be elected to fill 12 offices, but the candidates whose supporters would admit the possibility of defeat were few and far between.

The last week has seen scores on scores of new signs along the county roads, distribution of thousands of copies of folders, newspapers and other printed matter, publication of large political advertisements in the county newspapers, radio addresses, the dispatch of thousands of typewritten, personally addressed letters and the circulation of rumors of all kinds of deals and counter-deals, of the reappearance of the Ku Klux Klan in county politics and, in general, the welter which marks the close of a hard-fought political campaign.

Five in Determined Fight.

The fight over the office of Commonwealth attorney has been most determined, with five candidates seeking election. William C. Gloth, incumbent, has the advantage of that position and many observers give Mr. Gloth the edge over his opponents. But Mr. Gloth is running this time without the open support of Frank L. Ball, State senator and one of the political leaders of the county. Mr. Ball's law partner, Lawrence A. Douglas, a Democrat like Mr. Gloth, is running against Mr. Gloth. Even their opponents recognize the possibility of the election of one or the other, though they describe it as the danger, and they are centering their fire on the so-called silent vote of the county, which is the doubtful factor in the battle. Two-thirds of the 6,000 voters in the county probably can be allocated among the candidates, but if the remaining third awings to one or another candidate that candidate will be elected.

Each of the candidates is claiming most of that silent third. Clarence Ahalt, Republican nominee, has launched a last minute drive, with signboards all over the county, seeking to capitalize to himself all of the anti-Gloth sentiment in the county by proclaiming it will be either Ahalt or Gloth.

Mr. Douglas is deemed by county political leaders to be a most serious threat against the hopes of Mr. Gloth for reelection.

Emery Hosmer is another candidate for the office. Nothing detrimental to Mr. Hosmer has been said. He has attracted a group of war comrades, members of the American Legion, friends and admirers who are fighting desperately for the silent vote and who wax wroth when anyone suggests that Mr. Hosmer is likely to be a bad fourth or fifth when the votes are counted.

Crounse Also in Race.

Amos C. Crounse is the other candidate. He has made a sarcastic and bitter fight against Mr. Gloth's record, but he is ordinarily not conceded much chance of victory.

With the rising of the sun today at 6:36 a. m. the eleven voting precincts in Arlington County will open and remain open until the sun sets at 5:07 p. m., to receive the more than 6,000 voters who will wend their way to the polls.

With business practically at a standstill in the county yesterday the candidates and their workers were putting on the elevetnh hour touches to their campaign in the hopes of gaining some votes or to at least hold those they feel they already have in the bag.

With a number of the voting precincts being located in the vicinity of the county public schools, County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp yesterday afternoon announced that all public schools in the county will be closed today.

This action, Mr. Kemp explained, was taken following a meeting of the county school board as a safety measure.

There will, no doubt, as is the usual custom at county elections, be considerable traffic in the vicinity of the voting places and the school board feels that the closing of the schools, will add to the safety of the more than 5,000 children now attending the schools in the county, Mr. Kemp stated.

Mrs. Belle Wilmer Rites to Be Today

Sister of Former Justice Hoehling Will Lie in Arlington Grave.

Private interment in Arlington National Cemetery will be held today for Mrs. Belle Hoehling Wilmer, sister of former Justice A. A. Hoehling, who died Sunday at her home in Edgewater, Md. Funeral service will be held at her home and the body will be brought to Arlington for burial at 12:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Wilmer was a native of Philadelphia, but lived in Washington more than twenty years. She later moved to Annapolis, where she resided some time before moving to Edgewater.

She is survived by a son, Pere A. Wilmer, vice president of the Griffith Consumers Co.; three daughters, Anne and Natalie Wilmer and Mrs. Earle Ellsworth, Stamford, Conn.; her brother and a sister, Mrs. C. F. R. Ogilby.

She was the daughter of the late Rear Admiral A. A. Hoehling.

Policeman's Machine In Crash, Hurting Trio

John R. Shotzberger, 35 years old, a policeman attached to the Thirteenth Precinct, received lacerations to the face and hands yesterday afternoon when his automobile was struck by a truck operated by Joe Ripley, 27 years old, of Buchanan, Va., at Thirteenth and R streets northwest. Shotzberger was treated at Walter Reed Hospital.

The impact of the collision overturned Shotzberger's car and it was thrown partly on the sidewalk. Amelia Thomas, colored, 62 years old, of 1530 Fifteenth street northwest, and Alma Bell, colored, 8 years old, of the same address, were struck by his car.

WE sincerely thank you for your interest in the "Hidden Quart" Contest and for your entry. Almost all of you understood that the "hidden quart" of Conoco Germ Processed Oil stays up in the motor, where it clings to, penetrates and combines with metal surfaces—and never drains away. You appreciated the extra advantages of the "hidden quart" to the motorist. # WHEAT PRICES SOAR; TOP LOW 20 CENTS

Heavy Gains in 30 Days Expected to Carry Other Commodities Higher.

(Associated Press)

Wheat regained some of its old magic to conjure dreams of wealth yesterday as prices closed 20 cents above the season's low for a gain of almost 50 per cent in less than 30 days. In some quarters the golden grain was hailed as the "leader" that might carry commodities back to profitable levels.

The upturn is still too fresh to earmark its impelling force. It seems that professional traders suddenly stepped out on the bull side and found the public with them. Profit-taking was absorbed without a tremor and deferred futures sold 3 cents higher than the close on Saturday. They fell back 1 cent as trading stopped.

December wheat soared up to 63 1-4 compared with 44 5-8 on October 5, while May changed hands at 68—almost 20 cents more than at the low.

Old-Timers in Doubt

Old-timers don't like these spurts. They prefer a market that backs and fills with sustained upward trend. They've seen it soar too many times only to swoop back with clipped wings.

The position of Soviet Russia in the world wheat market is expected to have a great effect upon future developments. The Soviet embassy at Berlin has flatly denied a published report that Russia would export no more wheat this year nor next.

Behind the advance in prices lies a cognizance of the world trend toward reduced acreage, semifailure of the American and Canadian spring wheat crops, reduced export stocks in Argentina and Australia, unsatisfactory crops in continental Europe and a reduction of 16,000,000 bushels in the world's visible supply.

Farm Board Rumors.

Much comment was heard that the Farm Board may have reduced its holdings more rapidly than generally believed. Recent pick-up in North American exports and simultaneous declines in shipments from Russia and the Danubian countries were emphasized over and over.

The Berlin denial of the Russian report said that while the quality and quantity of the Russian crop was under average the supply is sufficient for internal demand and some export.

Russia exported almost 100,000,000 bushels last crop year and so far in this one has shipped more than half that amount. A decrease in yield there does not necessarily mean Russia hasn't a lot of wheat.

Rain Cuts Grain Supply.

Berlin, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Rainy weather throughout the major portion of Europe's wheat-producing sections is gradually but surely reducing the wheat glut that played havoc with the market during the spring and summer.

In German grain circles it is said millions of bushels of wheat in France and Germany are unfit for the mill. The same commentators said that Russian export organizations were endeavoring to obtain cancellations from England of some of their future commitments, and that last week Russian exports dropped 2,000,000 bushels, or 50 per cent, from the preceding week.

"Russian wheat is sufficient for internal demand with some for export," an official at the Soviet embassy asserted.

From 30,000,000 to 50,000,000 bushels of French and German wheat, it is estimated, will need replacement because of rain. It has been sprouting in shocks and great quantities must be diverted from mills to be used as fodder.

The United States consulate confirmed reports that there were "considerable" decreases in Russian wheat exports. The consulate is said to have been privately advised that a considerable portion of the Soviet spring campaign is unmatured. Officials said the present world crop was not far in excess of world needs.

Dakotan to Press Merger Of War and Navy Bureaus

(Associated Press.)

Representative Williamson told yesterday why he thought Congress should favor a little governmental merging.

If the War and Navy Departments were consolidated into a Department of Defense, the South Dakota Republican said, "very substantial economies could be effected."

Mr. Williamson piloted through the last Congress President Hoover's proposal for consolidation of veterans' activities. The creation of the defense department also was suggested by the administration in 1929.

Under the bill Mr. Williamson said he would introduce, the Secretary of Defense would be a Cabinet member, while there would be undersecretaries for war, navy and aviation. When the measure is referred to the House expenditures committee, of which the South Dakotan was chairman last session, he said the affected Cabinet members, ranking Army and Navy officers, experts and chairmen of the House naval and military committees will be asked to testify.

"Should such a bill be reported for House action, it is probable that it would provide for ample time within which reorganization could be effected," Representative Williamson said.

He explained no action was contemplated that would aggravate the unemployment situation, since consolidation could be deferred until conditions improved.

LAVAL DENIES PLAN FOR DEBTS SESSION

Premier Back in Paris to See Reich Envoy Today to Open Discusison.

Paris, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Premier Pierre Laval came back home today and started immediately on the task of preparing France for a reshuffling of war debts and reparations.

Stopping only long enough at the Gare St. Lazare to acknowledge a great crowd's welcome, he hurried to his office for a few minutes and then called at the Elysee Palace, where he presented to President Doumer his report on his conversations with President Hoover. Later he conferred with the finance minister, P. E. Flandin.

Tomorrow he will make a similar report to the cabinet, and immediately afterward he will receive Leopold von Hoesch, the German Ambassador, for a conference that is expected to start the ball rolling.

Denies Biarritz Plans.

Exactly what the premier will suggest to the ambassador remained undisclosed today. He refused to talks debts or reparations publicly prior to his meeting with the German. Herr von Hoesch has just returned from Berlin, where he received fresh instructions from Chancellor Bruening, and it is taken for granted that the method of reopening the finacial problems left by the war will be the subject of his conference with the premier.

M. Laval made only one public comment on the events for which the stage is being set. He issued a denial of reports that he planned to call a conference of Germany's creditors at Biarritz next month.

The premier's home-coming after 17 days of travel and conference was everything he could have wished.

Crowd Overflows Station.

He was up early this morning eager to get his first glimpse of the French coast from the deck of the Ile de France. Asked if he were homesick, he said: "What do you expect? I've never been away from home so long in my life."

At Havre he got a foretaste of what Paris was to offer him. And Paris was generous

When the train pulled in the station was crammed and the throngs flowed over into the streets Mlle Josette Laval, his daughter, had just gone through training in facing crowds in America, but she was bewildered by the demonstration. The premier grabbed her by a wrist and, shouldering his way along with the help of gendarmes, got to the waiting room.

There he was greeted by Andre Tardieu, minister of agriculture; Gen. Gouraud, military governor of Paris, and Williamson J. Howell, American charge d'affaires.

"Being in New York," said Mlle. Josette, "was like living in a modern novel. For me this trip always will be a great and beautiful memory. The Americans have an extreme sense of hospitality and the midshipmen at the Annapolis Naval Academy feted me in charming fashion."

Hoover Is Invited By Pohick Builders

President Is Asked to Lay Vestry Corner Stone of Famous Church.

(Associated Press.)

A northern Virginia delegation, headed by Representative Smith, asked President Hoover yesterday to take part in the cornerstone laying at Pohick Church vestry house, a building planned 150 years ago by George Washington, but never built. The cornerstone will be laid November 20, which is the 164th anniversary of the purchase of land in Fairfax County for the church and vestry house.

President Hoover was not asked to make an address, but to assist with the Masonic ceremony of placing the corner stone. The vestry house is expected to be completed in time for the bicentennial ceremonies next year of Truro Parish, in which Pohick Church is located. The building, specifications for which were set down in minutes of Truro Vestry, signed by Washington and George Mason, will be of brick.

Gov. Pollard of Virginia and Bishops H. St. George Tucker and F. D. Goodwin, of the Episcopal Church in Virginia, have been invited to the ceremonies.

Maj. R. S. Geiger Marine Air Head

Officer Now at Quantico Is Named to Succeed Col. Turner.

(Associated Press.)

Maj. Roy S. Geiger yesterday was selected as chief of Marine Corps Aviation, succeeding Col. Thomas C. Turner, who died last week in Haiti from an airplane propeller injury. Maj. Geiger, now commanding aircraft squadrons at Quantico, Va., will report here November 6.

The new aviation chief holds the navy cross for flying in France, was in command of the legation guard at Peking from 1914 to 1916 and has occupied important posts in most of the marine stations.

He headed a relief flight to Santo Domingo after the 1930 hurricane and this year carried medical supplies to Managua, Nicaragua, after the earthquake destroyed that city. His home is Green Cove Springs, Fla.

$5,000 Damage Suit Based on Falling Sign

Harry L. Ticer, of 4130 New Hampshire avenue northwest, yesterday sued Peter N. Metrakos, proprietor of Bernard's Cafe, 3207 Fourteenth street northwest, for $5,000 damages.

The suit is based on an injury sustained by Mildred Ticer, 12-year-old daughter of the plaintiff, who allegedly was struck by a falling metal sign when she walked by the store. Attorney F. B. Potter, for Mr. Spicer, claimed the girl had sustained serious injuries.

GOVERNMENT WINS $10,000,000 APPEAL

Supreme Court Says Corporation Must Pay Tax on Stock Deal Profit.

(Associated Press.)

The Government yesterday won in the Supreme Court its contention that the Kirby Lumber Co., of Houston, Tex., should pay income taxes on profits made by repurchasing its securities at lower price than they were issued.

Government counsel said the suit was regarded as a test case and that $10,000,000 in taxes would be lost if the court decided in favor of the lumber concern.

The company, in resisting the Government's claim for an additional $17,000 for 1923, asserted that profits made by repurchasing company securities at a discount should be credited to capital.

Holmes Wrote Opinion.

The American Tobacco company was allowed to file a brief in support of the lumber company's view.

The opinion was delivered by Justice Holmes, oldest member of the bench, who had been absent a week because of illness. The decision was characteristically brief.

A gangster's plea for mercy went unheard yesterday by the Supreme Court. Although 60 other cases were acted on by the tribunal before it recessed until November 23, they were minor by comparison with its refusal to review the conviction of Ralph Capone for making false statements in an effort to compromise his income tax cases.

Of the 60 others, the court refused to consider 38. It decided to review 16 more. Six were decided, two with and four without written opinions.

Painters Union Loses.

It affirmed the conviction of the Painters District Council No. 14, of Chicago, and certain local unions of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of violating the Sherman antitrust law in their efforts to require kitchen cabinets and similar house fittings to be installed unpainted and unglazed.

Among the questions it agreed to pass upon were:

Whether one liquor sale by James Dunn, at Eureka, Calif., constituted maintaining a nuisance.

The validity of a section of the New York workmen's compensation law.

Virginia's license tax on distributing houses, claimed by chain stores to be aimed at them.

The denials included:

The conviction of Dan Hogan and eight others who brought liquor into Gueydan, La.

The contention of John W. Keogh, of Chicago, that he could not be compelled to pay Federal income taxes because the Illinois Legislature had failed to redistrict the State under the censuses of 1910 and 1920.

The suit of Arthur J. Klein, held at New York City for extradition to London at the request of the British consul at New York.

Blow to "Jake the Barber."

Chicago, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—In refusing a review to Arthur J. Klein, the United States Supreme Court dealt a blow also to the hopes of his alleged associate, John ("Jake the Barber") Factor, whose attorneys for months have fought to prevent his removal to England on a stock-fraud charge.

Klein was ordered extradited months ago, but carried his appeals to the highest court. Meanwhile Factor's case has been heard in protracted sessions by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker here. The arguments of Klein's counsel in New York and the ruling of District and Circuit Court of Appeals favorable to the British government, and now upheld by the Supreme Court, were cited by crown counsel here in advocating Factor's removal.

As operators of the Broad Street Press, Ltd., Factor, Klein, and their associates are alleged to have duped the British public of $7,000,000 through manipulation and sale of Rhodesian mine stocks.

Taylor Says Veterans Are Being Discharged While Others Are Kept.

By J. B. M'DONNELL.

An echo of an old note in the fight over Government jobs was heard yesterday when John Thomas Taylor, American Legion official, announced he will ask President Hoover to investigate discrimination against World War veterans in the Government service.

War veterans, who are given a preferential status in law in getting and holding Government jobs, are being dismissed while other employes are being kept at work, although in many instances they have other members of their families on the Government pay roll, Mr. Taylor charged. He made a direct criticism of the Census Bureau, complaining that four veterans were dismissed last Saturday, although others were kept at work despite the fact that the law forbade more than two members of a family on the Government rolls.

Miss Emily I. Farnum, personnel officer of the Census Bureau, replied that the veterans were dismissed because their efficiency rating was lower than other employes of the bureau.

900 Employes Nominally.

The bureau was greatly expanded to take the last census, but the law prescribes that the personnel must get back to normal by the end of 1932. The normal is about 900 employes. The bureau is discharging employes constantly. The law, Miss Farnum said, requires that in such a situation the responsible officers be guided by the efficiency of the workers.

But, if Mr. Taylor is successful in having the President order an investigation of the numbers of persons of a family on the Government rolls he will develop figures which have never before been compiled and put an end to speculation based on a few isolated instances, with which complainants against conditions are familiar.

Mr. Taylor complained that the law against employment of more than two persons of a family in the Government service is being widely violated. In the manufacturers division of the Census Bureau, from which the four veterans were dismissed, Mr. Taylor said, there is a woman receiving a salary of $1,680; her son, receiving a salary of $1,500; the wife of the son, receiving $1,560. The husband is employed in the Veterans' Administration at a salary of $2,800, he said.

Recent Sharp Criticism.

How far an investigation might go is problematical. There has been sharp criticism recently that various members of Congress are padding their pay rolls with names of members of their family and thus drawing from the Treasury much larger sums than the salaries prescribed for them. Proposals to investigate this phase of the question, however, never have progressed very far because of congressional courtesy; which means, in other words, that one member of Congress will not interfere in the more or less private activities of another for fear that there will be retaliation, which would not be desirable and would not be in harmony with the club spirit.

Another factor is the interpretation that the two-to-a-family law means a family about one hearthstone.

This much is certain, that the business depression and unemployment give added weight to every complaint against existing conditions and how far the battle inaugurated by Representative Will R. Wood (Republican), of Indiana, will go remains to be seen.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

It will be a source of intense gratification to the many members of that far-flung Old Guard who revere the traditions of the theater, and are pleased to look upon them as something a little more than merely ephemeral, to know that the most historical playhouse in New York, the Empire Theater, will not be torn down as was threatened recently—at least not in the immediate future.

Though less than 40 years old, the Empire has a tradition no other metropolitan theater possesses. Its disappearance would be a distinct loss to Broadway.

Opened on January 25, 1893, by the performance of "The Girl I Left Behind Me," a melodrama by David Belasco and Franklyn Fyles, whose correspondence long appeared in The Post, the Empire witnessed the Charles Frohman regime, a distinct epoch in American stage history.

It has housed such stars as John Drew, Maude Adams, Henry Miller, Viola Allen, William Faversham, Margaret Anglin, Otis Skinner, William Gillette, Sarah Bernhardt, Ethel and John Barrymore, Billie Burke, Doris Keane, Ina Claire and Katharine Cornell.

Certainly, there is no other theater in New York which holds quite the same place in the hearts of theatergoers and actors.

Temporarily closed because Katharine Cornell is taking a holiday, the Empire will be reopened on November 16, when Miss Cornell returns from Bermuda to resume her New York engagement in "The Barrets of Wimpole Street."

The shade of the tragically departed "C. F." will rest a little easier now!

This is one of the weeks in the local theater when the conscientious reviewer is hard put to it to find a spot now and again where a few moments of sleep may be wedged in between official duties. It would be interesting to know if Master Will Shakespeare ever intended any eight of his works to be performed in a single theater in a single week, excellent and excellently performed, though they be?

Speaking of excellence reminds me that there seems to have been some doubt in the mind of the gentlman who wrote the advance trailer on Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne in "The Guardsman," coming to the Columbia, that the public has sufficient intelligence to discern it.

Here, I think, is as crass a bit of "writing down" to prospective audiences as has come along in many a day. The trailer insists upon stressing the point that "The Guardsman" is not drama but comedy—at times daring; nothing ponderous, but something light, that even you and you and you can understand, topping it all off with the suggestion that since Mr. Lunt and Miss Fontanne so seldom have an opportunity to escape from Broadway, it may be of interest to you out there in the sticks to know that they're pretty good and you won't be fooled by going to see them on the screen!

A bas! Mr. Harriman. A couple of bas and a phooey, as a matter of fact.

The Warner boys are out for more driving practice!

The first step in the November drive for greater attendance at the Warner Brothers theaters throughout the land has been to designate the month the "Month of Superlative Entertainments." Scores of feature film attractions and hundreds of reels of short subjects have been screened, and the country has been combed for outstanding stage talent to lend luster to this eleventh-month attack on the family pocketbook and weekly budget.

The Earle, ace Warner house in Washington, will start the ball rolling on November 7 by presenting James Cagney both on the screen, in "Blonde Crazy," and on the stage, in person. Other attractions that will be presented this month will include Joe E. Brown in "Local Boy Makes Good," and the personal appearance of Louise Groody, star of "Hit the Deck" and "No, No, Nanette," with other distinguished offerings to follow. Or so I am told.

Two high school students, Ann Deskin, of Business, and Edward Hilton Story, jr., of Central, were announced as winners of the Fox Theater-Eastern Air Transport cotton guessing contest from the stage of the theater last night.

Not one contestant of the 20,000 or more who participated in the competitive guessing of the weight, in pounds and ounces, of the bale of cotton on display in the Fox lobby, guessed the actual weight correctly, although the two winners came remarkably close.

Miss Deskin's guess was 554 pounds 7 ounces, and Mr. Story's, 554 pounds and 9 ounces. The actual weight was 554 pounds, 8 ounces. Instead of drawing, to determine which one should be awarded the air trip to Atlanta and back, with two days of especially planned entertainment in the Georgia metropolis, Managing Director Harry W. Crull, of the Fox, and officials of the airline decided to declare each one a first prize winner.

Miss Deskin, who is 17, is a senior at Business High and resides at 4904 Ninth street northwest; Mr. Story, a freshman at Central, is only 13 and lives at 1773 Lanier place northwest. Both winners declare it was just horseshoe, or maybe rabbit's foot, luck.

Whatever it was, in a week or so they will sail away to the South in one of those eighteen-passenger Condors and, presumably, get the thrill of their lives.

The lads are pretty secretive this year, but if it will make you any happier to know it, that long-standing controversy between the managers and the stage hands was finally adjusted the latter part of last week. The curtains now will probably go up and down, or open and close, about as usual.

Old Col. Francis Philippe Morse, former incumbent of this desk and now a bloated blonde—pardon, BOND is the word—holder, still-bon vivanting despite the depression, has recently completed an unassisted double play, from the Altamont to the Metropolitan Club to the Baronet. To reach him by phone, the best way is to call him through the New York office of his company. And then you won't get him!

By NELSON B. BELL

The love story of an introvert and an extrovert, revealed through a rainbowed fountain of brilliant dialogue, clumsily and ineffectually describes this somewhat abstruse comedy, so clearly written by Mr. Behrman and so handsomely produced by Mr. McClintic.

Unless this commentator is as stupid as he thinks he is, the precise psychological point, if any, which the author wished to drive home is left just a little nebulous at the fall of the final curtain. This is by way of being a bit baffling, since the play is so frankly and, at times, so startlingly expressive of its characters' moods, viewpoints and emotional conflicts that it seems strange that any point at issue should be left in doubt.

The interpretation must be of language rather than action, because "Brief Moment" is less a drama of situation than of conversation. But what conversation! Mr. Behrman gives the impression of having paid little heed to the usual processes of dramaturgy in shaping a succession of scintillant speeches, sparkling with wit, cynicism and some very elegant profanity, that place him almost in that select group of the stage's most facile writers that includes Maugham, Lonsdale and precious few others. To some ears there may be a few too many polite blasphemies, but they are spoken, for the most part, by such literate and obvious social aristocrats that their offensiveness is minimized even to the most delicate sensibilities.

There is the merest suggestion of Shaw's "Pygmalion" in the first act. Roderick Dean, the introspective young man endowed with a fabulous fortune, living in utter luxury and a dilettante in music, painting, songwriting, sculpturing and what not, counts himself a failure and seeks to supply from other personalities those qualities in which he himself is deficient, thinking thus to complement his own character. As the play opens his dream of conquest is to marry Abby Fane, a blues singer in the Hotsy-Totsy night club, owned by the city's biggest racketeer and bootlegger. Abby accepts, confesses to an earlier love, which overshadows her every emotion toward Rod, and then percieves that she must adapt herself phonetically to her new surroundings.

After eighteen months it is apparent that she has succeeded in mimicing polite conversation until her own humble origin as a Pittsburgh waitress and night club nightingale might never be suspected. With this new background she exerts a revitalized and irresistible fascination over those most intimately concerned in her earlier promiscuities. Her parties are conclaves of the moment's celebrities; her attachments numerous and diverse. It is a hideous predicament in which the young husband, not a good mixer, jealous, as all introverts are, and completely unable to capture his wife's point of view, finds himself. The final break is at hand. And then. * * *

The piece, it seems to me, is extremely well cast and played. Francine Larrimore, vivid in absence of usual make-up, breathes a tremendous amount of vitality into the role of the girl who discovers an enormous zest in life, a delicious contact in people and an utter bewilderment that her husband, least of all, understands her. She spans the social chasm between the underworld and smart drawing rooms perfectly and gives an altogether charming and effective performance.

Robert Douglas, in the role of Rod, accomplishes the difficult task of being as morose, as ineffectual and as completely the victim of psychological hypochondria as the part demands. It is a thankless character that might be improved by a less sibilant diction, more easily understandable back of the fourth row of the orchestra.

The most delightful performance of the evening, next, of course, to Miss Larrimore's, is Alexander Woolcott's, as the play's fountain-head of wisdom and all of the disagreeable things that can be said in the given circumstances. Mr. Woolcott forever refutes the charge that critics of the theater can not create believable stage portraits, but has no especial place in the play beyond being a sort of perpetual geyser of amusing bon mots and pungent asides. Mr. Behrman, by the way, has done extremely well by this roly-poly writing man gone Thespic.

Paul Harvey, as the racketeer, in love with Abby in a fatherly way, and Louis Calhern, in love with her in anything but that, contribute stalwart portrayals of robust roles, and Frances Rich is colorful and vibrant in the only feminine role of consequence other than the star's.

The largest audience of the Belasco's season expressed its enthusiasm by five curtain calls at the end of the last act, a verdict it would not surprise me to see New York sustain.

That pleasaunt and most excellent conceited comedie of Syr John Falstaff and the Merrie Wyves of Windsor was right royally performed last night. And though you can not see that play, you must see this company which came from Shakespeare's home to show us how Shakespeare should be played.

The merry, mad, mocking tale of Mistress Ford and Mistress Page and the villain Falstaff, whose greed made him sue for both the ladies' favors, and repaid him so richly in other coin, moved last night with beautiful surety through a performance without a single hitch to an unbelievably early Shakespearean curtain a few minutes after 11. And it was that late only because a not too large but, oh, so enthusiastic, audience just wouldn't go home. Ovation after ovation kept old Falstaff and his cohorts capering before the curtain for a good ten minutes after the delicious final scene with its fairies and fireflies and fun.

Excellent performances are the usual, not the unusual, in this English company, which is, above everything, a company—not just a group of individuals. The entire performance was a splendid whole and the jester last night may be the king tonight. And here are men and women who have learned to speak the King's or Master Will's English.

In the nature of things, and of Shakespeare, individuals must, of course, have their moments, and last night Roy Byford, as the imperishable, incorrigible Falstaff, was favored with the greatest plaudits. And right well he earned them, for his Falstaff, perhaps less blustery than many, was that much more human, and with his traditional red face, pachyderm-like bulk, his grimaces, chuckles and trials, he chalked up a merry hit. We await his Sir Toby Belch with eagerness.

No whit behind, however, came two lovely ladies, graceful and mirthful, delicate and devilish, Fabia Drake, as Mistress Ford, and Dorothy Massingham, as Mistress Page. There's Miss Drake's Viola and Rosalind to anticipate and Miss Massingham's Katherine, the Shrew.

The performance of Randle Ayrton, as Master Ford, the jealous husband, whose outraged entrances brought forth the two gorgeous and uproarious Falstaff baiting scenes in Mistress Ford's home, stepped up to rank with, and perhaps a little ahead of, the three leading lights. Superbly read, played and paced, he made his Ford memorable. Tonight he should be a brilliant Lear.

Ethel Harper as the go-between Mrs. Quickly was very, very good, as were Kenneth Wicksteed, Francis Drake, Ernest Hare and everybody else. Adjectives in this case should grace each name. Hilda Coxhead, a sweet Ann Page, will have her chance tonight as Cornelia.

Simple back-drop sets prevailed, hurrying the action of the piece, while the woodland scenes are most attractive. Costumes throughout were colorful and brightened the unpretentious dressing of a well-nigh flawless production of the fable of two wives, who so delightfully fulfill their little verse:

"We leave proof by what we do,
That wives may be merry, yet honest, too."

You really must, I repeat, see this company!

"SUGAR BABIES." Columbia burlesque attraction, headlining Harry "Hello Jake" Fields, "Rags" Ragland, Joan Collette and Patrician Kelley. Nadgi, celebrated Russian player, presented as guest star. Reviewed Monday night by W. L. Wright.

Jimmy Lake, genial manager of the Gayety, is buttonholing every one to tell them this is the hit show of the season. Your reviewer can back up that statement to the limit. "Sugar Babies" has everything a good burlesque show should have. It is well balanced and sends 'em away pleased and happy.

Joan Collette, a striking brunette, sings a little, dances a little and wins her way to big applause and many encores. She has what it takes to be a favorite at every appearance.

Nadgi, tall and dark, was the surprise of the evening. This is her first time in Washington, and all the boys hope it's not her last. Her graceful and charming manner went over—and how!

Titian-haired "Pat" Kelley, with her fancy high kicking, and golden-voiced Florence Naomi, prima donna of the company, played their prominent roles to perfection.

Harry Fields and "Rags" Ragland, two of Columbia's best known comedians, were in top form, putting over the laughs in one, two, three order. Sid Leonard and Charles Schultz give fine support in the many side-splitting scenes. Sid presented a novelty dance on roller skates to score a big hit.

A chorus of sixteen "Sugar Babies," all easy to look at, showed unusually well in the "Hand Drill."

Trio Using Name Of Borah Convicted

Defendants Charged With $400,000 Fraud; Senator Denied Plan Aid.

New York, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Three men, who reputedly used the name of Senator William E. Borah in canvass of prospective investors, in which they obtained $400,000, were convicted today by a Federal court jury on four mail-fraud counts.

The trio, Benvenuto Daverio, alias Louis B. Pirelli; Biagio Vialle and Joseph Cappa—reputedly represented that Senator Borah had obtained a national bank charter in their behalf, and that they would open a national bank here.

Senator Borah testified for the Government, denying on the witness stand that he ever had business relations of any kind with the trio or their organizations, known as the Franklin Plan Corporation of New York and Franklin Plan Corporation of New Jersey. These corporations, Assistant United States Attorney Jacob Rosenblum said, had no connection with the Franklin Plan Corporation, a Delaware organization with 97 branches, of which George S. Groves is president and which, Rosenblum said, "is engaged in legitimate business."

6 UNBEATEN TEAMS FACE MAJOR TESTS SATURDAY

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

OUT at Catholic University, where the school buildings are pitched atop the undulations of Brookland's rolling terrain and the campus is iridescent in its mantle of russet and gold that is autumn's picturization of the sylvan setting, football, too, is daubed with a roseate hue.

In one short year, Arthur J. Bergman, athletic director and football coach, has transplanted at Catholic University the niceties and precision of the Notre Dame system that he learned at South Bend in company with Knute Rockne when the two played on the same team. The effective kind of football that Rockne taught, which is lifting Catholic University from the doormat class to a position of high estate in the football sphere.

True, the Cardinals were licked in the opening game of the season by Boston College, 26 to 7, but every succeeding battle has been a triumph. City College of New York and Gallaudet fell before Bergman's lads by landslide scores and then Catholic recorded the greatest victory in its football history, a 12-to-7 triumph over North Carolina State. Great was the joy at Brookland when returns of the night game at Raleigh filtered in, but glee knew no bounds a week later when the mighty Duquesne team which had held Georgetown and Western Maryland to scoreless ties capitulated before the play of the Cardinals last Friday night by a 20-to-12 score.

Bergman, like Rockne, places a premium on team spirit that subordinates even the fundamentals of football. No player is 100 per cent efficient until aroused to the proper pitch is the Notre Dame creed. How effective it is may be gleaned from the unparalleled success of Rockne's teams.

Against Carolina State and against Duquesne, Bergman's team went into the frays the distinct under dog, but Bergman was able to infuse a spirit into his charges that brooked no thought of defeat. The primary assets of the Notre Dame system is the mental system. It is patent that in both its biggest tests the Cardinals reached their greatest heights. Rockne used to play the temperamental make-up of his pupils for a fare-thee-well, and Bergman has by no means overlooked it.

Leaks from the locker room tell how Bergman told his pupils they could not be beaten if they played the football of which they were capable. His psychology was correct. This was not the time to warn of overconfidence. It was the spot to gear the squad to a pitch where they believed that they could win when the consensus of opinion was against them. A bit of praise served well where an unbridled tongue-lashing might have shaken the confidence that was so necessary.

A poignant example of the team spirit at Catholic University is found in the person of Tom Campbell, half back, fated to play an obscure role this season.

Campbell, a sophomore, was stalked by an injury jinx that obliterated his chances of making the team from the start of the season. First a badly jammed thumb, then a strained leg and a hurt shoulder set him far back in his ambition to make a regular position.

When the Cardinals entrained for Raleigh last week, Campbell was among the missing, left at home with his injuries. Previously he was omitted from the list of players who made the trip to Boston for the Boston College game. When the squad went to Duquesne last Friday, Campbell was left behind.

Ten minutes before game time at Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, a big fellow, completely out of breath, bustled into the locker room with his uniform under his arm. It was Campbell. With 30 cents in his pocket he had hitch-hiked from Washington to play if needed.

Hustling into his uniform he joined the squad on the field for practice and warmed the bench throughtout the game without a whimper. There ought to be a moral about team spirit somewhere in this story.

Mud Batter on Ball Innovation in Drill

Berkeley, Calif., Nov. 2 (A.P.).—When reports from Portland indicated that the Washington State-California game probably would be played on a muddy field, Coach Ingram, of the Bears, started to prepare his men for slippery going.

He made a batter of mud, dipped footballs into it and then tossed the pigskins out during team practice. The Bears had trouble holding on to the balls for a time. Later the first team made fine progress.

Johnston Denies Report Of Schmeling Match

New York, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Reports from Berlin that Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion, has signed for a bout with Jack Dempsey in this country were vigorously denied today by Jimmy Johnston, vice president of Madison Square Garden.

"Schmeling has a contract with us to fight an opponent of our choosing the next time he enters the ring in this country," he said. "We are not going to discuss it with him until he returns to this side. Then we will have an announcement to make, but until that time any reports that the champion has been signed to fight any one are strictly the bunk."

BLUE WINS TOURNEY.

Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 2. (A.P.).—Halbert J. Blue, of Aberdeen, defending champion, won the qualifying medal of the 27th annual autumn golf tournament here today, carding a 75. Edwin L. Schofield, of New York, was second with 85.

Pairings in the championship division follow: Blue and Lawrence Barr of Pittsburgh; Winthrop Williams, New York, and C. S. Strout, Biddeford, Maine; Schofield and W. H. B. Ward Hartville, Ohio; F. T. Keetin of New York, and H. C. Buckminster of Boston.

G.U. Prepares Battle for Bucknell

Hilltop Is Determined to Belie Rating of Underdog.

Mills Expects Team to Improve With Game Here.

"WE'VE taken some mighty tough bumps the last month, but we've still got plenty of fight left, and you may be sure we'll give Bucknell a hard game Saturday." Thus Tommy Mills, Georgetown football chieftain, stated the gridiron situation regarding his battered Hilltop eleven as practice was begun yesterday for the eighth meeting between Georgetown and Bucknell in Griffith Stadium.

Mills believes the fact that the Hilltoppers will be playing at home will favorably affect their chances of winning from the powerful Bisons, who tied Villanova last week, 0 to 0. "Our boys will have added confidence playing before a sympathetic crowd," said Mills.

"I am hoping," continued the mentor, "that this team will show as good football as it did against Michigan State week before last. A repetition of that sort of a game will put us over, and I have a deep respect for the ability of Bucknell."

Hinkle Respected At Hilltop.

"I expect Clark Hinkle, Bucknell's leading scorer of 1929, will give us some trouble. He carried the ball two out of three times Bucknell rushed against Villanova last week and he seldom failed to gain ground despite the wet, slippery footing. They say Hinkle this season is not doing as much ball carrying as in past seasons, but I do not think there is much truth in the report if what he did against Villanova is a sample of his usual performance."

Nothing in the way of facts favors Georgetown to win from the Bisons. In the first place, the Hilltoppers are badly handicapped by loss of star players through injuries. Then, too, nearly every man on the squad who saw service against Boston College is nursing a physical ailment, though it is not severe enough to keep him from playing.

Past performances favor Bucknell. The Bisons held Villanova scoreless and Villanova defeated Boston College, 12 to 6. Against Boston College, Georgetown could score only 2 points, while the Eagles were making 20.

Schmeling Aids Poor Children in Berlin

Berlin, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Max Schmeling, German heavyweight champion of the world, kayoed hunger here as far as 150 children are concerned.

Upon completion of his eye treatments, Schmeling called on the chief of police and gave him a check instructing the chief that 150 tots in all sections of Berlin were to be fed for the next six months.

The police head agreed to supervise the fund, distributing it through several Berlin charity organizations.

Lewis Throws Zbyszko To Gain Mat "Title"

Chicago, Nov. 2 (A.P.). — Ed (Strangler) Lewis won recognition, as far as the Illinois State Athletic Commission is concerned, as world heavyweight wrestling champion by winning two falls out of three from Wladek Zbyszko at the Chicago Stadium tonight.

The match drew a paid attendance of 7,244, with receipts of around $15,000, of which between $6,000 and $7,000 will go to charity. Lewis donated his services. Lewis won the first fall in 23:52 with a headlock, and the Pole took the second with a flying mare in 4:15. Lewis won the deciding fall in 7:54 with a cross bodylock. Lewis weighed 252 pounds, to 227 for Zbyszko.

ROSENBLOOM WINS.

Kansas City, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Maxie Rosenbloom, New York, light heavyweight champion, won a twelve-round decision here tonight in a listless, nontitle fight with Battling Bozo, Birmingham, Ala. No damaging blows were struck in the entire contest. Bozo weighed 177 pounds, 2 over the limit, and the title, therefore, was not at stake.

PAUL JONES WINS.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Paul Jones, 204, of Houston, Tex., easily pinned Babe Caddock, 186, New York, with a body scissors in 24 minutes 12 seconds in the feature of tonight's wrestling card.

Long Shot Leading Before Finish of $10,000 Pimlico Chase

Beelzebub, a 12-to-1 shot, is seen in the lead as the field swept past the mile-and-half mark in the Manly Memorial Steeplechase yesterday at Pimlico. Green Cheese, which eventually won the two-and-one-half-mile race, is running third, with Dark Magne, which finished third, seen in second position. Madiola, which later fell, is the fourth horse in the picture. Below, J. W. Healy, trainer of the winner, and Mrs. John Hay Whitney, owner, pictured with the Manly Memorial Trophy after the race.

G. W. SHIFTS CONTEST TO SATURDAY

Colonials Hold Light Drill; Subs May See Action.

BECAUSE Salem College is a Seven Day Adventist school, its game with George Washington this week will be played on Saturday night instead of Friday night in Griffith Stadium. The Sabbath for Adventists begins at sundown Friday and ends at sundown Saturday, so it would be impossible for Salem to play here Friday night.

Although the game was originally planned for Friday night, the local athletic officials readily granted the postponement upon learning of the situation with regard to its West Virginia visitors.

Light Workout Held Yesterday.

Back home again for its final three games of the year, George Washington gridders yesterday went through only a light drill as they began preparations for the game with Salem College.

In view of the splendid showing made by the Colonials against the Hawkeyes, of Iowa, Saturday, Coach Pixlee ordered only a light workout for his regulars. The reserves, though, were sent through a brisk drill.

Unless Salem is a lot stronger than expected, Coach Pixlee probably will call upon many of his reserves for service Saturday. At least he hopes to do this, for several of his regulars, while not seriously hurt, were completely used up after the gruelling battle against the heavy Hawkeyes.

Five of the Colonial regulars played the entire game against Iowa and four others were in for all but a few minutes. The quintet who played the entire game were Fenlon and Parrish, backs, and Dike, Slaird and Chambers, linemen. Stewart, Blackistone, Nielsen and Mulvey played almost all of it.

Mulvey and Chambers, particularly Mulvey, who played brilliantly, were badly bruised and battered. Several of the others are limping around slightly with bruised and sore muscles.

In all likelihood, however, all of the players should be returned to good shape by the end of the week.

Londos At It Again; Airplane Spin Oiled

New York, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Jim Londos, claimant of the world's heavyweight wrestling championship, tossed Matroe Kirilenko, of Russia, in 39:31 of a "title" match at Madison Square Garden tonight. An airplane spin and body slam ended the milling. Londos weighed 200 pounds, Kirilenko 212.

Other results:

Hans Steinke, 240, Germany, defeated Willie Davis, 230, Virginia, in 2:04 with a crotch and body slam.

Sam Stein, 200, Newark, N. J., defeated Steve Znoskey, 212, Poland, in 13:56 with a flying tackle.

George Calza, 218, Italy, defeated Joe "Toots" Mondt, 227, Colorado, in 13:52 of a finish match with a crotch hold.

Sandor Szabo, 205, Hungary, drew with Rudy Dusek, 215, Nebraska, in a 30-minute time limit match.

Herbie Freeman, 221, New York, defeated Gene La Due, 215, France, in 9.06, with a headlock.

Ray Steele, 215, California, drew with Early McCready, 226, Oklahoma, in a 30-minute time limit match.

Buckeye Varsity Rests For Game With Indiana

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Ohio State University's first string football men were given another day of rest when only the players who did not see much service in the Indiana encounter and the reserves reported for practice.

The varsity men are a badly bruised and battered lot and the extra day will give them time to recover from their injuries before hard practice starts tomorrow in preparation for the home-coming game with Navy here Saturday.

Football's History Reveals Glittering Array of Names Led by 3 U. S. Presidents

By BOB CONSIDINE.

IN the rousing hubbub of a monster football game, the unnumbered thousands cheering lustily in the stadii of the United States, from Bates College to Southern California, from Washington State to the University of Florida, are prone to forget the glorious past of the game—a past which is studded with the names of the most brilliant men of our times.

Presidents, Supreme Court justices, Cabinet members, congressmen, diplomats, renowned clergymen, authors, journalists, business men, lawyers, painters, capitalists, bankers and militarists, all number among their hallowed ranks men who once knew the thrill of the flying wedge, saw the game blossom under their very fingers into the spectacle of science and brawn it is today—names so high in public esteem that those stanch defenders of football who hold the game to be the greatest character builder can well point to it with justifiable pride. The facts hereunder described have been correlated by Parke Davis, the game's indefatigable recorder.

Hoover Was Manager At Stanford.

Heading the list of distinguished "names" is Herbert Hoover, one of the three Chief Executives whose major college interests included football. President Hoover was financial manager of Stanford in 1894. He toured the country with the team, which won the Western championship, defeating California and Chicago. Late this month the President will give a dinner at the White House in honor of the members of his old team, whose coach was the immortal Walter Camp.

No diminution can be placed on Woodrow Wilson's place in football. "Tom" Wilson, as he was known, coached in 1878 the first Princeton team that defeated Harvard and Yale. During his days at Princeton, and then at Wesleyan, he introduced the double pass into American football and originated modern eligibility rules.

Calvin Coolidge was a keen student of the game and a part of Amherst's football board of strategy. He roomed with Jack Deering, crack old-time half back.

Edwin Denby Played Guard at Michigan.

Edwin Denby, Secretary of the Navy under Harding and Coolidge, played guard at Michigan, the same position which was held down by Curtis Wilbur, his successor, who played with Navy. Harlan Fiske Stone, Attorney General under Coolidge, later a member of the Supreme Court, played guard at Amherst, while John P. Sargent, his giant successor as Attorney General, was center and guard at Tufts.

The Capitol's stately dome could almost be a football helmet. Senators Frederick Lippett, Rhode Island; George Wharton Pepper, Pennsylvania, and Lynn J. Frazier, North Dakota, played for, respectively, Brown, Pennsylvania and North Dakota. In the House there are, or were, Hamilton Fish, tackle and captain, Harvard; Nicholas Sinnott, Notre Dame; Hubert Fisher, center at Princeton; Peter A. Porter, Yale lineman; John Simpkins and Lucius N. Littauer, Harvard linemen; Ben Rosenbloom, half back at West Virginia, and others.

If the United States ambassadors ever form a team, they may have Robert Bacon and Cameron Forbes to place in the mythical line-up. Bacon, former envoy to France, played at Harvard, while Forbes, present Ambassador to Japan, was first a lineman and later head coach at the same institution. Maj. Gens. Peyton C. March and Leonard Wood, former chiefs of staff, were backfield men, the former at Lafayette and the latter at Georgia Tech, while Gifford Pinchot, Governor of Pennsylvania, was a Yale lineman, one of the fourteen State governors who shone on the gridiron.

Justice and Football Go Hand in Hand.

Justice and football go hand in hand. Headed by Harlan Fiske Stone, the apostles of the blind goddess are strongly represented in the game. Thirty State justices were regulars on their college teams. The church, too, is represented. Bishops John P. Peters, F. S. Spalding, Colin Denby, and Robert Elliott Speer all played at Princeton, while the Rev. Joseph A. McCaffrey, chaplain of the New York Police Department, was a noted end at Fordham.

Ten college presidents, including Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, of George Washington University, were gridmen, as were such names in big business as H. L. Pratt, J. L. McCrea, Sir Henry Thornton, F. P. Crutellus, Rush Harry, E. K. Hall, W. M. Brember, J. E. Reynolds, J. B. Buttler, Arch Johnson and Rodman Wanamaker.

Among the authors and artists are J. J. Walsh, Richard Harding Davis, Frederic Remington, Hugo Bezdek, directorship of athletics at Penn State overshadows his work in the realm of painting; George Ade, one of the founders of the game at Purdue, and Arthur Scribner, publisher, whose undergraduate strength loomed formidable in a Princeton tackle's berth.

Al Foreman Requires 1½ Seconds for K. O.

An Associated Press dispatch from England last night stated that Al Foreman, former star lightweight of Fort Myer, knocked-out Ruby Levine, an English boxer, in 11½ seconds, including the count.

Foreman's quick knockout in England recalls his quick triumph over Goldie Ahearn, former featherweight champion of the A. E. F., at Kenilworth in 1926. Ahearn took the count halfway through the first round.

Weiss Defeats Weiner In Baltimore Match

Baltimore, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Sam Weiss, 179½, of Nazareth, Pa., tonight pounded out a 10-round decision over Herman Weiner, 193, of Baltimore, in the feature bout of this week's boxing card. The attendance was 1,000. Weiss was knocked down for a count of nine in the fourth round, but Weiner failed to follow up his advantage.

VANDERBILT CHOICE OVER OLD LINE

Commodores, Twice Beaten, May Kill Hopes of Md.

By DILLON GRAHAM.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Col. Dan McGugin's Vanderbilt Commodores may turn out to be the champion wrecking crew of the Southern Conference. Vanderbilt, one of the strongest football teams in the South despite its defeats by Tulane and Georgia, displayed great driving power in smothering Georgia Tech, 49-7, Saturday. Many observers say the Commodores have it in their power to knock Maryland's hopes skyhigh and then outpoint Tennessee.

Last year Vanderbilt beat Maryland, 22-7, and with an even better team this year the Commodores have an excellent chance to win, even though Curley Byrd's Old Liners are unbeaten and are rated the best of the member teams in the Northern sector.

If Capt. Leonard, Thomas and Close, held out of the major games because of injuries, are ready to go against Tennessee on November 14, the Nashville eleven may be powerful enough to turn back the surging Volunteers.

May Wreck Hopes of Tennessee.

Tennessee was at its best against Alabama, but the Vols were not impressive against North Carolina. Tennessee's line may face its equal in Vanderbilt's forward wall, and, if all the Vanderbilt regulars are in shape, there is little to choose between the back fields.

A victory for Vanderbilt would almost clinch the conference title for the winner of the Tulane-Georgia contest, played on the same day in Athens, Ga.

Following this game, Georgia has to meet Georgia Tech and Tulane encounters Louisiana State, but neither appears strong enough to stop favorites.

Tennessee's schedule is so arranged as to afford it an advantage over Vanderbilt. Coach Bob Neyland, of Tennessee, can take several of his star players and slip over to scout Vanderbilt in its hard tussle with Maryland, while the Volunteer reserves are romping with Carson-Newman Saturday at Knoxville.

Sing Sing Gridmen Are Coached by Pros

New York, Nov. 2. (A.P.)—Warden Lawes of Sing Sing whose plans for an intra mural program of football games at Sing Sing have progressed to the point where he has obtained suits for the players, sent out a call today for coaches.

The New York Giants of the National Professional Football League, immediately responded. They announced that six players, Ray Flaherty, Clem Campbell, Bull Owens, Butch Gibson, Dale Burnett and Ted Bucklin, would be "incarcerated" long enough tomorrow to allow them to give the Sing Sing boys a few pointers.

Kid Chocolate Beats Lew Feldman Easily

New York, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Kid Chocolate, Cuban Negro lightweight, easily outpointed Lew Feldman, of New York, tonight in a ten-round tune-up bout for his title match with Tony Canzoneri later this month.

A crowd of 4,000, although booing the decision, saw the Negro battler batter Feldman almost at will through the last five rounds after settling in his stride and getting back his judgment of distance, sadly lacking in the early rounds.

Chocolate failed to floor the New Yorker, but he cut his nose in the seventh round and had Feldman bleeding badly through the last four rounds.

Chocolate scaled 130½ pounds, Feldman, 132.

Little Drives Columbia For Virginia Contest

New York, N. Y., Nov. 2 (U.P.).—Still feeling the hi players lost to Cornell through their own carelessness, Coach Lou Little, of Columbia, had a regular workout today starting preparations for Virginia.

Three casualties followed the Cornell game. Cho Schkartz, full back, is out for the season with a broken bone in his foot. Joe Linehan, half back, has a torn cartilage in his rib which will keep him out of the Virginia game, and Ed. Edling, regular end, has a lip infection.

Penn Invades Notre Dame.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (U.P.).—Six of the country's undefeated major football elevens—Georgia, Tulane, Northwestern, St. Mary's, Harvard and S. M. U.—will ride into battle Saturday against teams who have more than an outside chance of winning.

The undefeated teams will be favored to keep their records intact, but the 1931 season has been one of continual upsets, each Saturday producing a dozen or more surprising results.

Georgia, headed by Catfish Smith, takes on an N. Y. U. team that undoubtedly will be stronger for the licking it took at the hands of Oregon. Tulane shouldn't have much trouble with Auburn, but then David was considered at set-up for Goliath.

Harvard Meets Test In Dartmouth.

St. Mary's is liable to have its hands full with the veteran Olympic Clubbers, while Harvard may be forced to the limit by a revived Dartmouth eleven. The Northwestern-Minnesota tilt will just about settle the 1931 Western Conference championship. Neither team has lost to a Big Ten foe. S. M. U., riding high, wide and handsome in the Southwest, may run into a tartar in the Texas Aggies.

These are but six of the games booked for Saturday. Out on the coast Southern California's mighty machine tangles with Stanford, Oregon State takes on Montana, Washington takes on California, and Washington State engages Idaho.

Down South, besides the Tulane-Auburn game, the schedule offers such attractive afternoons as Alabama vs. Florida, Duke vs. Kentucky, Georgia Tech vs. North Carolina, Maryland vs. Vanderbilt, and Tennessee vs. Carson Newman.

Unbeaten Penn Team To Test Ramblers.

In the Midwest Pennsylvania's undefeated outfit will engage Notre Dame in an intersectional game of interest. Other Midwestern features include Chicago vs. Arkansas, Navy vs. Ohio State, Illinois vs. Wisconsin, and Indiana vs. Michigan.

While Georgia's tiff with N. Y. U. and Harvard's battle with Dartmouth will occupy major attention, there is plenty of interest in such games as Colgate vs. Penn State, Columbia vs. Virginia, Carnegie Tech vs. Pittsburgh, and Princeton vs. Lehigh.

In the Southwest Texas takes on Baylor, Texas Christian engages Rice and Oklahoma meets Kansas.

Wilkin, Dartmouth, Injured.

Hanover, N. H.—Fracture of a small bone in his foot will keep Bob Wilkin, Dartmouth full back, out of the Harvard game. Roald Morton, brother of Quarter Back Bill, probably will take Wilkin's place. All players who saw action in the 33-33 tie with Yale exercised only their brains today. After a blackboard talk, Jack Cannell dismissed them for the day.

Harvard Regulars At Work.

Cambridge, Mass.—After a week of comparative idleness, Harvard's regulars settled down to intensive work for the Dartmouth battle. Special attention was devoted to development of a defense against the flock of passes the Indians are expected to heave. Easterly, Moushegian and Peter, all on the injured list, apparently are out of this week's game.

Notre Dame Varsity Rested.

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Notre Dame's first and second football elevens were given the customary Monday vacation today, but will get down to the business of preparing for Pennsylvania tomorrow. The whole squad with the exception of Norm Greeney, guard, came out of the Carnegie Tech game in excellent condition.

Russell Returns to Wildcat Line-up.

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Reb Russell, Northwestern's crashing full back, returned to active duty today as Coach Dick Hanley gave his Wildcats an unusually busy Monday practice. Russell has recovered from an injury and will be available for duty in Saturday's all-important contest with Minnesota. He probably will not start, however, as Ollie Olson has an edge for the job by reason of his great punting.

Raffel, Penn End, On Injured List.

Philadelphia.—Penn will have to meet Notre Dame without the services of a veteran end, Bill Raffel, who suffered a broken bone in his left hand against Lafayette. Len Tanseer, basket ball captain, is to take his place.

Madiola Destroyed After Pimlico Fall

Baltimore, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Madiola, 4-year-old chestnut filly by Mad Hatter-Gladiola, owned by Mrs. P. Ambrose Clark, of New York, was destroyed at Pimlico Race Track tonight after suffering a broken pelvis in the $10,000 Manly Memorial Steplechase today.

The horse, ridden by W. Hunt, fell at the water jump in front of the grandstand the second time around in the 2½-mile event. It was running in fourth place in a field of nine at the time.

CHICAGO HOME FOR LOTT.

Chicago, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—George M. Lott, jr., again will make his home in Chicago, where he first gained fame as a tennis star. The youthful member of the Davis Cup Team said he had given up his position with a Philadelphia firm and would enter the insurance business here.

Schmeling's Manager Aims For Bout With Dempsey

By DIXON STEWART.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (U.P.).—Boxing's applesauce factory, which produces more of the commodity than all Oregon's orchards, worked overtime today to furnish fresh sports page copy on the possibility of Jack Dempsey meeting Max Schmeling for the world heavyweight championship.

Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, set cable wires humming with the announcement from Berlin that he had contracted for a fight between Schmeling and Dempsey for 1932, "in either June or September, at New York or Chicago."

Dempsey, interviewed by the United Press in Salt Lake City, promptly denied he had signed a contract or otherwise agreed to fight the champion.

"My position is the same today as it has been since I started my comeback," he said. "I will not sign any agreement to fight a major heavyweight until I feel capable of going in there and doing something worth while. I don't believe I'll know until I get through with my exhibition tour in the East. One thing certain, I won't fool the fans on my condition just to make a chunk of money."

Dempsey's manager, Leonard Sachs, reiterated the denial from Kansas City, and added that several promoters have approached Dempsey re-

Harvard to Take Collections For Charity at Three Games

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 2 (U. P.).—Harvard, under the leadership of W. Barry Wood, jr., football captain and president of the Harvard student council, tonight massed forces to aid the unemployed through collections at football games with Dartmouth, Holy Cross and Yale.

Previously Harvard had refused to donate receipts of any football games to the unemployed because of a fear that such a step would tend to "commercialize the sport."

An appeal from Wood, as student council president, to Harvard men throughout the country was made public tonight. It informed them that Harvard undergraduates had received permission to take up collections for the unemployed at the three games. Half the proceeds of the collections, Wood said, would be turned over to President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard for distribution, and the remaining 50 per cent to the presidents of Dartmouth, Holy Cross and Yale.

President Lowell said he "heartily approved" the proposal. The presidents of the Harvard Alumni Association, Associated Harvard Clubs and Harvard Alumni Bulletin, in a joint statement, said they were in "hearty agreement with the proposition."

GREEN CHEESE CAPTURES $10,000 MANLY STEEPLECHASE

Whitney Colt Wins Over Jumps

Prowler Runs Second in Hurdle Feature as Pimlico Opens.

Balko Gets Up Near End to Beat Con Amore by Nose.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Nov. 2.—Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Green Cheese, far out of it in the early part of Manly Memorial Steeplechase, which featured the opening of the Pimlico fall meeting today, won the $10,000 added cross-country classic. Two lengths back of the winner, J. E. Widener's Prowler finished second, and the same distance farther away Stephen Sanford's Dark Magne was third and Beelzebub fourth.

Mrs. Whitney went to the stewards' stand after the official report on the race, where the gold cup, a trophy of the fifteenth renewal, was presented to her by W. Keyser Manly, son of the man whose name the steeplechase perpetuates.

Large Opening Day Crowd.

There was a large crowd out for the return of racing to the "Hilltop" course, hundreds arriving before the steeplechase who missed the first race.

The distance of the Manly is 2½ miles. The value of the stake to the winner was $9,375.

Beelzebub took the lead from a good start and kept in front for almost 2 miles. Green Cheese, ridden by Rigan McKinney, was restrained off the early pace, but saved much ground in the last half and went to the front. Prowler charged in the stretch and seemed to have a chance, but was outrun after the last fence by the winner. Madiola fell and was injured. Hunt, the jockey, escaped.

Balko Wears Down Con Amore.

The Calvert, fifth race, was a battle of king sprinters. The Sagamore Stable's Balko won by a nose from Con Amore, Black Majesty being third. Mr. Sponge finished fourth after a dull performance. Con Amore broke in front, but Black Majesty took the lead, and Balko moved up third.

At the stretch turn Con Amore regained the lead, but Balko, under urging, came on the outside and wore the filly down to get a slight decision at the wire. Bejshak put up a strong finish on Balko, the favorite, which paid $4.90. The time for 6 furlongs was 1:11 1-5. This duplicated the races of Balko and Mr. Sponge at Laurel, but the record at Pimlico is 1:10 4-5. Eight horses started. Pennate was off poorly, as was Mr. Sponge.

Happy Warrior Wins Opening Event.

Pimlico racing got under way today in impressive fashion, but the weather was uncomfortably cool. There was a large crowd at the track at the early post time of 1:15, when twelve 2-year-olds started in the first event at 6 furlongs.

Happy Warrior, a Glen Riddle colt by Man O' War, led all the way, but was ridden out by A. Robertson in the stretch as J. R. Buchanan's Chatmoss challenged, and held the place. Catalan's Idol was third. Happy Warrior, favorite, paid $5.60 and was timed in 1:13. The start was good. Novalong, which finished fourth, was close up as far as the first turn.

Busted Never Headed Third Race.

E. R. Bradley's 2-year-old son of Bubbling Over—Broken Veil, Busted, won the third race after leading all the way by three lengths under an energetic ride by L. Fator. Blue Damsel was second, moving up in the stretch, following a slow beginning. Night Vintage was third and Brandon Prince fourth, the time for the mile and 70 yards being 1:44 4-5. Fator left the gate in a hurry, with Brandon Prince in close pursuit. Night Vintage rushed up to challenge the leader, but made no headway in the stretch. The winner paid $7.70.

Linton Farm's Flagstone, repeating his good race at Laurel, won the fourth race for 3-year-olds and upward in a whipping finish with LeMar Stock Farm's Morsel a neck separating the two and R. A. Fairbairn's Glastonbury finished third in front of Halcyon, early pacemaker. The time of the race was fast, 1:43 2-5, a mile and 70 yards. Quattlebaum, who rode the winner, and H. Callahan, who had the mount on Morsel, were called to the stand and questioned by the stewards, but the placing was undisturbed. There was some crowding in the stretch. The winner paid $7.

Tote, owned by the Wheatley Stable, won the sixth race by two open lengths, defeating the favorite, The Heathen, and Trice. The veteran Delay rode the winner and the price paid was $14.90. The Heathen was a heavily backed favorite and flattered his backers by leading to the stretch. Trice was always close up until Tote made his move, and, racing the Heathen into submission, drew away. The time was 1:46, a mile and a sixteenth.

Fifth Straight for Bubola.

Bubola, the consistent 3-year-old filly of C. O. Ferguson, bred to run a distance, scored her fifth straight victory on Maryland tracks this season by winning the final race on the opening day's program this afternoon. Bubola, paying $6.30 in the $2 mutuels, allowed Chicsu to set the pace for the most of 1 1-16-mile journey; but under the guidance of Prain, who has had the mount in all of her victories, took command in the stretch run and responded gamely in the final drive to get the decision by a neck. Chicsu beat out Chatty, the favorite, two lengths for place money. These three offered all the contention from the start.

NORTHERN PREPS DRILL.

Manager Ted Otte wants all members of the Northern Preps to report in full uniform tonight at 7:15 o'clock at Piney Branch road and Georgia avenue. The team will go through a hard scrimmage in preparation for Sunday's all-important game with the Palace team in the 150-pound division of The Post's Capital City League.

HAPPY WARRIOR, away promptly and having good speed, took command at once, was steadied along in front, resisted a stout effort from CHATMOSS, responded to punishment and outstayed the latter under strong pressure. CHATMOSS, prominent from the start, made a tenacious bid entering the home stretch and fought it out with good energy. CATALAN'S IDOL, a slow beginner, reached contention with a rush and outfinished MOVE ALONG. Latter offered good contention for five furlongs and weakened. JUSTA PEAK was making up ground steadily in the final drive. He came wide into the home stretch. HEROVILLE could never reach the leaders. DONELLA was never a factor.

GREEN CHEESE, allowed to trail his field for the first mile, reached contention when ready, was steadied at all of his fences, saved a great deal of ground through the final half mile and, closing with splendid courage, took command at the final fence to win under pressure. PROWLER, reserved for the first mile, was sent to the leaders at the fourteenth fence and finished with good courage. DARK MANGE, in the thick of contention for the entire trip, came gamely in the closing stages. BEELZEBUB displayed good speed while setting the pace and, fencing cleverly, weakened in the final half mile. POKEY JOE made a determined effort going to the twelfth fence, but tired when the real test came. INDIGO was held safe. P. Miller was unable to do justice to ARGONAUT when his stirrup irons broke. MADIOLA fell at the eleventh fence, while ROYAL FALCON ran out of the course after taking the sixth jump.

THIRD RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,300; claiming. The Druid Hill. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:25. Off at 2:25. Winner, E. R. BUSTED outran his field to the first turn, assumed command under steadying restraint, saved ground the entire trip and finished with speed in reserve. BLUE DAMSEL improved her position when taken to the outside midway of the back stretch and closed with good courage. NIGHT VINTAGE, going forwardly from the start, held on well to the final test. BRANDON PRINCE held on stoutly when put to a drive. SLAMBANG was gaining steadily after being outrun early. HIGHEST POINT could not menace the leaders. FIFE showed a dull test. TRIPLE THREAT was crowded back going to the first turn.

FLAGSTONE followed in closest pursuit of HALCYON, responded stoutly to assume command nearing the final furlong pole, continued stoutly under punishment and just lasted long enough. Quattlebaum struck GLASTONBURY over the nose in a whipping finish in the final fifty yards. MORSEL, kept close up from the beginning, responded courageously and was wearing the winner down gradually. GLASTONBURY, challenged stoutly in the final half mile, was in between the first two nearing the finish and was bothered when hit over the nose approaching the finish. HALCYON displayed good early speed, saved ground and held on gamely when the real test came. INCEPTION had no excuses.

BALKO reached the leaders gradually after being outpaced for the first half mile, swung to the outside for the final drive, closed willingly under punishment and was up in the concluding strides. CON AMORE forced a rapid early pace, disposed of BLACK MAJESTY when midway of the home stretch and continued with rare courage until the finish. BLACK MAJESTY, a rapid early leader, displayed good speed while setting the pace and, saving ground, weakened fast in the final furlong. MR. SPONGE, away very slowly, settled into his stride and finished strong. HELIANTHUS was unable to menace the leaders. PENNATE was away slowly.

TOTE saved ground on the inside rounding the first turn, was rated along after reaching a forward position, wore THE HEATHEN down when straightened into the home stretch and was drawing clear under pressure. THE HEATHEN, reserved while setting the pace, saved ground, but could not resist the winner's effort. TRICE, urged hard from the beginning, held on well to outstay POLYDOROUS. Latter, placed well up in the early stages, hung in the final drive. FERVID could not threaten the leaders.

BUBOLA, kept in near attendance of the leaders, responded when put to a drive, wore CHICSU down and was under strong urging at the end. CHICSU, taken in hand in the early stages, shook off SAPPHIRE SKY, was placed to punishment, but could not meet with the winner's rush. CHATTY, well up and racing on the outside, finished gamely. STAR CREST raced well under weak handling. BORIS was never a factor. SAPPHIRE SKY stopped to a walk.

—Pimlico Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Md., Nov. 2.—High-class 2-year-olds start in the Helpful, which features the program here tomorrow. The short route of 6 furlongs probably will suit HYGRO, evidently a good colt withal his bad luck in Maryland, and he is selected to win—with two drawbacks he will have to overcome, the outside post position and top weight of 128 pounds.

HYGRO won several races in the West and was hailed as a champion when he came East, but Burning Blaze proved his Nemesis, beating him a nose in the Eastern Shore and by a wide margin when they next met. With Burning Blaze out of it, HYGRO should annex the $2,500 added stake of the Helpful. GALLANT SIR, with 118 pounds up, and HEY THERE, with the same weight, probably will be the contenders. HEY THERE, a C. V. Whitney juvenile, raced well in New York, and GALLANT SIR ran impressively in his only start at Laurel. On his entire record HYGRO should win.

FIRST RACE—THE GEN defeated Eager Play so easily in his last start that it is improbable that he will be beaten in the first race at the same distance. JOHN F., which has been running well in New York, winning two races in a row, then to be beaten by Smear, is rated the contender. He will have DANCING MACK, Laurel winner, as contender for place money.

SECOND RACE—The LeMar entry of REPLEVIN and MOUTHPIECE seems best. Both won at Laurel. It is in REPLEVIN'S favor that he takes off 7 pounds since he beat Negopoli. KHORASAN is probably best of the others, especially if he runs back to the race in which he defeated Surfboard. IMPISH, winner in New York over Moine, should beat QUARTERDECK for the small end of the purse.

THIRD RACE—SEA FOX, from the Glen Riddle Stable, is best in the third race, at 6 furlongs. GERARD, which was sold and bought back by the original owner at Laurel, has been running against better horses and, while not up to his old-time form, may be the contender. MAID OF HONOR, recent Hawthorne winner, has a chance among these. SEA FOX has much early pace, but is inclined to stop. At 6 furlongs, he should last to win.

FIFTH RACE—MISSTEP, a horse which has won almost $200,000 in his best days, seems to be back in good form and is selected to win over REPENTANCE and TRED AVON in the fifth race, the Arlington, at a mile and 70 yards, a distance suited to the son of Upset. REPENTANCE ran two fast races at Laurel, and may beat the Labrot filly, TRED AVON, which beat Rip Van Winkle in her last start. MISSTEP has the best of the weights.

SIXTH RACE—Greentree Stable's ESPINACA is selected. He was second to Ladino last out. MAD FRUMP, from the C. V. Whitney Stable, will be the contender, and a very dangerous one. He has not shown to best advantage in his last few starts. PENCADER should beat the others.

SEVENTH RACE—NEALON KAY has been rounding into form, likes this track, and is selected over ROYAL PANOPLY. Throwing out his last race and reverting to his previous start, when third to Fair Bill, he looks like the winner. ROYAL PANOPLY was beaten a length by Putter, and should be the contender. VIMONT should be third.

DEVITT PREP WILL PLAY IN IOWA

Local Eleven Battles Sioux City Eleven for Charity

DEVITT PREP'S FOOTBALL TEAM will play a charity game against the Trinity Boys School, of Sioux City, Iowa, on Thanksgiving Day, it was announced yesterday by the school's authorities. It will be the only game in Sioux City on that date and it is expected to draw in the neighborhood of 10,000 fans. The game is being sponsored by the Sioux City Tribune.

Serious work to tune up its 1931 grid machine will begin today at Devitt, under Harry Ribinitzki and "Count" Cornwell. The lightweights of the team will scrimmage with Friends today and St. John's Thursday. Naylor and Flick, Devitt's two best back field men, are both out with injuries. It was their removal from the team which caused the school to give up football in a serious way this year. Both will be in shape for the Sioux City trip.

21 Players to Make Trip.

A squad of 21 will make the trip, thought to be the longest ever attempted by a high school team. Gene Kelly, guard and tackle for Devitt, is a Sioux Indian.

While the game will be played primarily for the relief of the needy in and about the region of Sioux City, a Devitt spokesman stated last night that efforts would be made to secure a portion of the gate receipts for the District of Columbia committee on employment.

Parke, American U. Star, Again on Injured List

Ed Parke, injury-jinxed American University star, will be unable to take the field Friday night in Baltimore when the Eagles meet the strong Johns Hopkins eleven. Parke, who has participated in a little over two full games in the five the Eagles have staged thus far, is suffering torn ligaments in his side, the result of a pile-up in the Shepherd College contest last Saturday.

In addition to placing Fred Johnson in Parke's full back position, Coach Walter Young will make three other changes, which will find Chates and Bowers at the ends and Kessler at one of the half backs.

Knights of Columbus Courtmen List Confab

The first meeting of the Knights of Columbus basket ball team will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the clubhouse. The following members and any new candidates are urged to attend: Harrington, Buscher, Hickey, Gubisch, Caspar, Nealon, J. Dugan, and Ahern. The team will get down to hard work the latter part of this week.

The Washington Council one-man bowling league will commence activities on the home drives tonight with ten members participating. The loop is not expected to produce any world records, as most of the members are new to the game. Athletic Director Charley Reynolds, who is handling the affair, believes it will be helpful in developing talent for the big "Casey" League which operates at Convention Hall.

ALCOVA BOOKING.

The Alcova Motors team will drill tonight and again Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock on the Arlington Fire Department field. All players are requested to attend. The team dropped a 6-0 decision to the Winchester Pros on the latter's field Sunday. Jerry Augustine sustained a broken collar bone in the fray and will be out for the season. Manager Charley Deutermann would like to book a game for this coming Sunday. He can be reached at Clarendon 1078-J-1 after 7 p. m.

GAINS SCORES KNOCKOUT.

Leicester, England, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Larry Gains, Canadian Negro, who holds the British Empire heavyweight championship, knocked out Soren Peterson, of Denmark, in the fifth round of their bout here tonight.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

THE "Vocal Memnon" is the name given to one of the huge statues of Amenhotep III, set up at Thebes by one of the Pharaohs. For years and years mysterious musical, harplike sounds came from the colossal figure, and natives and wise men alike, were astounded. The sounds were believed to be Memnon's greeting to his mother.

There are two theories as to the cause of the sounds which were believed by the natives to have been actually uttered by the statue. The first is that ancient Egyptian priests were responsible. The second, and the one usually accepted, is that the musical notes were produced by the rays of the rising sun striking the immence stones, for it was at sunrise that the sounds were most often heard.

BOLSTERED WESTERN TEAM CHOICE

Star Players Regained by Ahern

Draper and Payne to Start in Series Game Today.

Eastern High Eleven Given Little Chance in Contest.

WESTERN HIGH is due to take a new lease on its football life this afternon at Central Stadium at 2:30 o'clock when the finest squad to represent the school in half a decade steps on the field against Eastern, whose team this year is well below the standards set by machines drilled under the eye of its coach, Mike Kelley.

Buttressed by Jim Draper, a big quarter back; Slim Payne, an end, whose work during a previous stay at Western earned all-high honors, and Eddie Teehan, a formidable enough full back, Western looms as not only a favorite to beat Eastern today but also as a favorite to go on and upset Central later this month.

Played Scoreless Tie Last Year.

Eastern held Western to 0 to 0 last year, while on its way to a runner-up berth to Tech in the series, but mainly through the work of its well-trained and sturdy line. This year the Eastern frontal wall is weak in all but two spots, its right tackle, Charlie Mades, and its center, the rapidly improving Bernie Lieb, who had never played football until this year. If their spots are picked with any discrimination, Western's tough, charging line and her high-stepping backs should ride over Eastern with little difficulty.

Bus Boyd, Eastern's hustling little bow-legged quarter back, may cause a little trouble with his kicking, passing and good ball hawking, as might Tony Palmer, fleet back, but otherwise Eastern is thrustless.

THE LINE-UP.

| Western. | Position. | Eastern. |
|---|---|---|
| E. Buscher | L. E. | Beuchler |
| L. Buscher | L. T. | Wolf |
| Francis | L. G. | Weirschen |

| Nye | R. T. | Mades |
| Payne | R. E. | Courtney |
| Draper | Q. B. | Boyd |

Chimes Record Wins Of Mich. State Teams

East Lansing, Mich., Nov. 2 (A.P.).—Michigan State's swimming coach, Russell Daubert, is an expert with chimes.

Daubert plays the chimes once a day in the new Memorial Tower on the campus. He also gives a concert after each Michigan State athletic victory.

Daubert has some 120 tunes in his repertoire. He learned both swimming and chiming at Iowa State College.

Boxing Listed Thursday At Congressional Club

A program of amateur bouts between Washington and Baltimore boxers will be staged at the Congressional Country Club on Thursday, starting at 8:30 p. m., it was announced yesterday.

The pick of the Washington and Baltimore amateurs will be matched in the bouts. Baltimore talent will be provided from three clubs of that city. Six bouts will comprise the card. The names of the fighters are expected to be announced today.

DEMPSEY MATCH IS AIM OF JACOBS

garding a bout with an opponent as yet unnamed. "When the time comes, I don't think there will be any difficulty in concluding arrangements for Dempsey to meet any opponent the public would want him to meet," said Sachs. "However, we have made no agreements as yet."

Broadway boxing circles were at a loss to understand Jacobs' obviously ridiculous announcement, but most boxing men believed that the champion's manager merely was attempting to keep his fighter's name before the public by capitalizing Dempsey's appeal.

Jacobs Puts Max Into the News.

Jacobs realizes that Dempsey, who has not fought in four years, still is the best newspaper "copy" in sports. Now that he is preparing to return to the United States, to be followed in a few weeks by Schmeling, Jacobs apparently decided to get his almost forgotten champion back in the news. Then, too, there is the possibility that Jacobs wants Dempsey for Max's next opponent and is taking this means of building up a demand for the match.

After all, Max must fight to make money and a bout with Dempsey would bring him more than he could secure against any other opponent, and Jacobs, who needs no guide along the fistic pathway, believes that Dempsey is the least dangerous available rival who would draw a profitable gate.

Out of the ring four years, his legs long since weakened and with a string of knockouts over palooka opponents as his only activity since his defeat by Tunney, Dempsey could not be rated as a dangerous foe for a strong young fighter able to keep away from the Dempsey left hook and old "iron mike" for a few rounds. Not that Dempsey might not win. He would be dangerous just as long as he could swing punches, but rated strictly off the books he could not be regarded as presenting the danger of defeat which Schmeling would run against Jack Sharkey, Tommy Loughran, Mickey Walker or Ernie Schaaf.

SENIOR LOOP NOW FACES TRIPLE TIE

TEAM STANDINGS.

| | W. | L. | T. | Pts. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Centennials | 0 | 1 | 7 | |
| Palace | 3 | 0 | 0 | 6 |
| Brookland | 2 | 0 | 2 | 6 |
| Brentwood Hawks | 1 | 1 | 2 | 4 |
| Meridians | 1 | 1 | 1 | 3 |
| Stantons | 1 | 2 | 1 | 3 |
| Northern Preps | 1 | 2 | 0 | 2 |
| Columbia | 0 | 3 | 0 | 0 |
| Petworth Pennants | 0 | 3 | 0 | 0 |

A TRIPLE tie looms in the 150-pound division of The Post's Capital City League following the Brookland Boy's Club' eleven's victory over the strong Northern Preps by a 19-0 score Sunday. The victory placed the team in a tie for second place with Palace, which kept its slate clean with a victory over the Columbias.

The third team to figure in the deadlock, the Centennials, champions of the loop last season, also won, whipping the Meridians after a fierce struggle by a 13-0 count.

Brookland's rise to the heights is without precedence in league history. Composed of smaller than the average players, and ranked at the bottom of the list of potential champions, the team progressed rapidly under the tutelage of Jimmy Howe, and is now regarded as a strong contender for the honors.

Brookland Tied Twice.

The Centennials were held to a tie in the league inaugural, which was followed by another tie with the Brentwood Hawks. Then came victories over the Columbias and Northerns to boost the team's stock.

The Palace eleven has the best record of the three, but tie games are figured in the point scoring system used in the league, and it is this slim margin of one tie game that gives the Centennials the top berth. Palace would be figured as an easy winner of the title were it not for the fact that it must play its two nearest rivals, the Meridians and one of its bitterest foes, the Northern Preps, in four of its six remaining games.

Hawks and Irvington In Clash Here Sunday

Life is just one hard battle after another for the Mohawks. Following on the heels of their struggle with the Aapches, the Big Indians have already started work for the clash at Griffith Stadium Sunday with the Irvington club, of Baltimore. In the first league clash of these rivals, neither was able to score. The Baltimoreans followed a week later by holding the Apaches scoreless.

The Mohawks suffered several casualties last Sunday but with the possible exception of Clarence De Roo, center, all hands are expected to be ready.

Emerson Plays Tonight; Baylor Game Canceled

Emerson Institute will not play Baylor Military Academy of Chattanooga Saturday, it was learned yesterday, but instead will take on the Charlottesville High School eleven tonight in Charlottesville, Va. The team will leave this afternoon for the contest.

Scheduled a year ago, the Baylor game had to be postponed until next year because Emerson realized that it could not hope to draw enough attendance Saturday, in competition to Georgetown, C. U. and G. W., to cover the guarantee the Baylor team asked.

Baylor has asked Coach Harley P. Sanborn to interview local high school teams with a view to securing a game in Washington. It was understood that Sanborn will communicate with Western High, which is seeking a Thanksgiving Day game to celebrate the opening of its new stadium.

Hitting —The— Head Pin

KAPNECK ELECTRIC went into the lead in the Merchants' League by whitewashing W. B. Moses, while Southern Dairies was dropping all three to National Glass, at Convention Hall last night. The Dairymen's defeat came as a distinct surprise to league followers, as the team had made an impressive showing in its previous matches. The Electricians blasted the Furniture Dealers' hopes with a 1,667 set.

The Lucky Strike Alleys resembled a veritable beehive last night as the Typothetae and Eastern Star Ladies' Leagues were in action. Earl McPhilomey, of Standard Engravers, spilled wood all over the place with a set of 397 as his team gained a 2-to-1 decision over National Capital Press. Franch Mischou saved his team from a shut-out with a 154 game and 373 set. Rolling without the services of Noak, their anchor man, the Columbia Printers were forced to accept a trimming at the hands of Caslon Press.

Lucy Owen registered high game in the Eastern Star loop, 139, and high set, 338, as Unity took the odd one from Washington Centennial No. 1, in a hard fought match.

Chestnut Farms increased its lead in the King Pin Business Men's League with a clean sweep over King Pin on the home alleys last night. Lansburgh No. 2 slipped a little lower by dropping the odd one to National Lithographers, while First American also lost ground, losing to the Maccabees, 2 to 1.

A soft answer turneth away wrath, according to the old proverb, but a tough Answers turned back Appeals in all three games in their General Counsel Ladies' League match rolled at Lucky Strike last night. Butrimawich (Bill Wood's responsible for the spelling) rolled high game, 105, and high set, 286.

CLEAN SLATE FOR SAINT ELEVEN

St. Stephen's Preps Lead in 135-Lb. Division.

TEAM STANDINGS.

| Teams. | W. | L. | T. | P. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| St. Stephen's | 3 | 0 | 0 | 6 |
| Trojans | 3 | 1 | 0 | 6 |
| Federals | 2 | 1 | 0 | 4 |
| Apache Preps | 1 | 1 | 1 | 3 |
| Northeast Motors | 0 | 3 | 0 | 0 |
| Notre Dame Preps | 0 | 3 | 0 | 0 |

WINNING its third league game in as many starts has placed the St. Stephen's Preps in the most favorable position of any club entered in the 135-pound division of The Post's Capital City League to cop the title. The team disposed of the Notre Dame Preps Sunday, but it faces two tough foes in the Federals and Apache Preps, the only teams remaining on its schedule.

The West Enders disposed of one of the leading contenders, and a heavy preseason favorite, the Trojans, in the first game after a thrilling battle featured by long runs.

Faces Two Hard Games.

The team enjoyed easy going in its two following games, but the battles expected from the two remaining teams will more than compensate for the ease of the past two weeks.

The Trojans will be pulling strongly for both the Federals and Apaches to trip the fleet leaders. Charley Rich's crew is the only club left in the running, but it must beat the Federals in its final game, while St. Stephen's is dropping one of its remaining contests to even tie for the crown.

Seaman Gunners to Meet Fraters in League Contest

Game at Alexandria to Decide Class of Sailors; Capital City League Unlimiteds Face Important Game.

TEAM STANDINGS.

| | W. | L. | T. | Pts. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Seaman Gunners | 3 | 0 | 0 | 6 |
| Mercury | 2 | 0 | 1 | 5 |
| Dixie Pigs | 2 | 1 | 1 | 5 |
| Marions | 1 | 1 | 2 | 4 |
| Brookland | 1 | 1 | 1 | 3 |
| Fraters | 1 | 0 | 0 | 2 |
| St. Stephen's | 1 | 2 | 0 | 2 |
| Griff-Blue Coals | 0 | 2 | 1 | 1 |

THE dark horse of the unlimited division of The Post's Capital City League, the Seaman Gunners eleven, will be put to the acid test Sunday when it meets the Fraters at 2:30 p. m. in Alexandria. It will be only the second league contest for the Fraters, while the Gobs will be gunning for their fourth consecutive win.

The Gunners trounced one of their dearest rivals Sunday, when they gained a 13-0 decision over the Marions in a game decided in the last five minutes of play. The victory enabled the Sailors to go into first place in the league. Both teams did all their scoring in this short space of time, and the three touchdowns were the direct result of forward passes. It will be a long time before the sandlot fans witness another such thriller.

While the Tars were retaining their titular hopes, Fraters were experiencing their first defeat of the season at Richmond, where they dropped a decision to the Richmond Arrows. Sunday's game will be only the second league contest for the Alexandria aggregation.

The same team that produced a win for the Gunners last Sunday will probably take the field to oppose the Fraters.

Seamen Have Clever Backs.

In Herr, Angel, Pierce and Roberts the Southeast team has a quartet of fast, clever backs that will cause no end of trouble for the Virginians. The Fraters will also have a strong team on the field. The loss of Lester McMenamin, who was regarded as the Fraters' big threat, has apparently not weakened the team. McMenamin is performing with the St. Mary's Celtics.

A large crowd is expected to be on hand for the fray, with the Fraters battling to keep their league record clean and the Gunners striving to retain their grip on the leadership of the loop.

C. U. LINE-UP CHANGES ON PROGRAM

Guarnieri to Do Passing Against Manhattan Team.

BECAUSE of his superior long-distance passing, Fred Guarnieri, broad-shouldered junior, is to succeed Johnny Oliver, who is injured, in Catholic University's starting backfield when Manhattan College's eleven is entertained at Brookland bowl Saturday.

This decision was tentatively reached by Head Football Coach "Dutch" Bergman yesterday.

"We need a tosser of Guarnieri's type to get us away to a good start," Bergman explained yesterday. "Charley McVean is a heady team director and undoubtedly will see much action. But when the overhead game is deemed advisable Fred appears to be the logical choice."

Sheary May Call Signals.

When Guarnieri appears at quarter back, "Bus" Sheary, hard-driving veteran, is expected to call signals from full back. Sheary's experience and general leadership capabilities should equip him admirably for that assignment.

In Manhattan, Johnny Law, former Notre Dame celebrity, is bringing to Washington one of the rising elevens of the East. A veritable rout of Baltimore University and a subsequent triumph over Oglethorpe as against a reversal administered by powerful Colgate forms the Jaspars' record to date.

Today Manhattan opposes New York City College in a game that may mean much. Easily returned victorious over the Gothamites earlier in the season, Catholic will be watching with interest Manhattan's showing against John Law's pupils.

In an effort to conceal his team's real power, Law, if the occasion justifies it, intends keeping his choicest plays under cover. Free use of shock troops also is being planned by the wily former Rambler.

Jim Lyons Nursing Injury.

Though several near-casuals were excused, C. U. yesterday launched preparatory work for Saturday's contest with a scrimmage. The only injury causing any concern today is suffered by Jim Lyons, crack guard, who pulled a leg tendon in the Duquesne game.

Everett Johnson Hurt Playing Sandlot Game

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 2.—Everett Johnson, former Tech High basket ball star, who played football for the Congress Heights team, of Washington, here yesterday, is a patient in the Emergency Hospital here, recovering from an opeartion performed following an injury suffered in a game with the Annapolis Cardinals yesterday.

The ligaments of Johnson's neck were badly torn, according to the attending physician, Dr. George C. Basil. The Congress Heights team lost the game, 6 to 0.

Navy Starts Workouts For Ohio State Game

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 2.—Head Coach Rip Miller took his Navy football pupils to task for their generally poor showing against West Virginia Wesleyan Saturday, and at the same time impressed them with the big job they will have on their hands with Ohio State at Columbus the coming Saturday, in course of an extensive lecture this afternoon.

As a result of the lecture, it was late before the regular squad took to the field for a practice session. In fact, the floodlights had been turned on, and the players worked until well beyond the usual period. This session, however, consisted entirely of signals and formation and a little dummy scrimmaging to stress certain plays. Meanwhile, the squad B shock troops were put to work rehearsing Ohio State plays to be used in scrimmage against the varsity during the next few days. The Buckeyes have been well scouted by Navy outposts in their games this season.

Celtics Drill Tonight; Seeking Sunday Clash

The Northern Celtics, of the South Atlantic League, will continue there preparation for their second clash with the Apaches tonight with a drill at 17th and B streets, northwest, starting at 7:30 o'clock. The Apaches are booked for a week from Sunday.

Manager Buck Grier is seeking an out-of-town for this Sunday. He may be addressed at 4205 Illinois avenue.

MERIDIANS MEET.

The Meridian 150-pound football team will meet tonight at Fourteenth and Belmont streets northwest before proceeding to the Monument Grounds for a lengthy practice. The team's weak forward passing defense was responsible for its defeat at the hands of the Centennials in the Capital City League. This department will be particularly stressed tonight.

"SAINTS" IN WORKOUT.

St. Stephen's unlimited team will drill tonight, Thursday and Friday nights at 7:30 o'clock at Seventeenth street and Constitution avenue northwest in preparation for Sunday's Capital City League game with the Brookland eleven. All players are urged to report promptly.

STOCK PRICES CLOSE IRREGULARLY LOWER

Profit Taking Is Noticeable on Eve of Holiday; Early Rally Fails.

New York, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—The stock market was unable to hold early gains today, slipping back during most of the afternoon to close irregularly lower.

Gains in United States Government obligations and in investment bonds of other descriptions suggested that important buyers were not looking for firmer money.

Because of the virtual cessation of gold exports and the decrease in circulation another increase in the Federal Reserve discount rate is hardly looked for in the immediate future. Furthermore, the demands for speculative credit probably will be light over the balance of the year, bankers believe.

Profit-Taking Is Evident.

Since tomorrow is a market holiday, traders took profits in the later dealings. The rail group looked heavy at the close, with New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Union Pacific and Delaware & Hudson down 1 to 2½. U. S. Steel turned a gain of 1⅛ into a net loss of ⅞. American Can, Westinghouse, Coca Cola and Woolworth were off about a point. Radio - Keith - Orpheum was sold in anticipation of the new financing announcement, and radio accompanied it downward. American Telephone, after rising 3 points, closed with a small loss.

The chief group interest was in the oils, which took courage from higher crude prices and the regular 25-cent extra dividend by Standard of New Jersey, ignoring the reduced basis for Socony-Vacuum. However, much of the gain was lost. In specialties, Ingersoll Rand, American Sugar and General Cigar firmed; so did the baking issues, led by National Biscuit.

Foreign exchanges were unable to hold up in the face of sterling's weakness. The pound had to contend against a market holiday in London and was notably soft, dropping 11 cents, to $3.72. Last week's sharp reduction in the Bank of England's gold holdings through repayment of 40 per cent of the Franco-American Central Bank credit undoubtedly had an adverse effect of sentiment, although it has been obvious since the election that sterling had no official support.

No Gold Exports.

There were no gold export withdrawals at the reserve bank, and earmarked stocks decreased $1,100,000, including moderate importations and making allowance for increased earmarkings not previously reported. The day's gain in gold amounted to slightly more than $3,000,000. Continued heaviness of the franc precluded the immediate possibility of losses to France.

Several oil companies have now lifted their crude petroleum prices 15 cents a barrel in East Texas and Oklahoma fields, and there has recently been a strengthening of quotations in the gasoline market. Steel reviews are now able to see evidence that sentiment is being supported by actual orders, "steel" reporting improvement in buying of automotive, structural and railroad materials.

Trading in stocks was slow, especially during the forenoon rally. Transactions totaled 1,458,188 shares.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—An amazing new record breaking advance in wheat prices today followed reports Russia openly admitted she had somersaulted out of the world wheat market. Russia's withdrawal as an export wheat competitor was asserted to be both for this year and next.

In a series of steam roller rushes to buy, wheat advanced almost 3 cents a bushel, despite immense selling to realize profits, with the market showing a rise of more than 20 cents since the season's low point, October 5, a gain of about 40 per cent in values during less than one month.

Wheat closed uncontrolled, swinging wildly, 1½@2 cents above Saturday's finish, corn ½@⅞ up, oats ⅜@⅝ advanced and provisions showing a rise of 2 to 30 cents.

Most professional traders were dumbfounded by the overwhelming forward movement of the wheat market. They had failed to gauge beforehand the extraordinary buying which came into action. Such traders had been correct only in anticipating that the volume of profit-taking sales would exceed anything witnessed since the market recently began to climb. It had been seemingly impossible, however, for veterans of the pit to divine even an approach to the stunning new development that actually confronted speculators, apparently authentic advices that the Russian Ambassador in Paris said his country had decided to quit dumping of wheat abroad.

Transient incredulity as to the truth of the Russian reports proved costly to numerous bear traders in wheat, who soon found themselves pinched by the execution of stop-loss orders as the market rose higher and higher, with the day's top not reached until the final hour. The major portion of new buying was generally ascribed to outside sources that seldom take a hand in the grain trade. The assumed incentive for this buying was widely expressed belief that European importers had no place at present to turn to for good quality wheat except this country and Canada.

Contributing to the upward momentum of the wheat market were authoritative unofficial estimates that domestic winter crop acreage had been reduced 15 to 20 per cent, and that the crop was in decidedly low average condition. Under these circumstances, the companion breadstuff, rye, emulated wheat, and outdid the season's high price record.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat strength and were also influenced upward by unsatisfactory husking returns.

Provisions reflected the upward course of cereals.

Closing indemnities: WHEAT — December, 60¾@60½; 64⅝@64¾; May, 65⅛@65⅜@69⅜; July, 66@66⅛, 70⅛. CORN—December, 40¾, 42¾; May, 45⅛@45¼, 47⅜; July, 46⅛, 49⅜.

REINVESTMENT AIDS BOND-PRICE UPTURN

Rail and Utility Loans Lead Market Advance; Federal Issues Active.

New York, Nov. 2 (A.P.).—A reinvestment demand arising from the distribution of more than $1,000,000,000 in dividend and interest payments stimulated the bond market today.

Higher prices were the rule throughout the list. The average price of 60 bonds, consisting of 20 issues each of the rail, public utility and industrial groups closed 3-10 of a point higher at 91.7. On the whole the market was rather narrow as the total sales of $10,405,000 on the stock exchange indicate.

Railroad and public utility loans experienced the best gains among domestic issues and they were more active than the industrials. The advance in the foreign obligations was somewhat irregular. Many bonds in all groups reached new recent high levels.

Liberty fourth 4¼s and Treasury 4s of 1944-54 were active throughout the day. Moderately large sales appeared in a few other bonds of this group after noon. The upward trend developed early in the day and these bonds closed generally higher.

Atchison general 4s closed a new recent high at 91, but the total turnover of this standard issue amounted to just $4,000. No sales of any sort were reported in a large number of issues.

American Telephone debenture 5s of 1960 were one of the most active corporate loans and closed 1½ points higher. Duquesne Light 4½s, Dodge Bros. convertible 6s of 1940, International Telephone debenture 4½s, American & Foreign Power 5s, Central Pacific first 4s, Missouri Pacific series A 5½s, Pennsylvania Gold 6½s and Public Service Electric & Gas 4s were active and higher.

The foregoing group illustrates the breadth of the movements and to some extent the narrowness of the market as they and a few other issues constituted virtually all of the active corporate bonds.

Oil Companies Reduce Crude Prices 10 Cents

Oil City, Pa., Nov 2. (A.P.).—The Pennsylvania Pennzoil Co. today reduced the price of Pennsylvania grade crude oil in national transit lines 10 cents. The price is now $1.90 to $1.95 a barrel, depending upon the pipe line haul.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 2. (A.P.).—The South Penn Oil Co. today announced a reduction of 10 and 15 cents a barrel in Pennsylvania grade crude oil.

The new prices: Pennsylvania grade in southwest Pennsylvania lines $1.70; Eureka lines, $1.60; in Buckeye lines, $1.50; in New York transit lines $2.00; Corning grade in Buckeye lines $1.80; Bradford district, $2.00. The 15 cent cut applied to New York transit and Buckeye district oil.

SPRINKLE BARN FLOORS.

PROF. WORTHEN, of Cornell, advocates the use of superphosphate on barn floors and in barn gutters, according to the New York Health News. Many health departments advise dairymen to use some powder on the barn floor to keep down odors, and also, indirectly, to reduce the dirt and bacteria in the milk as it leaves the barn.

In some places sand is used. It has the advantage of saving the fertilizer value of absorbing odors, and of preventing the cows' flanks from becoming soiled. If a farmer has a plentiful supply of good sand not far from the barn, and if he has some clay farmland that is a little too stiff, the use of sand on his barn floor and its later use as fertilizer will be advantageous.

More farmers make use of powdered lime rock for this purpose. It has the advantages that sand has and others. It absorbs the fertilizer values very well, and it keeps a barn free from odor and from mud. If a farmer has any crop land that is sour, or that tends that way, or that needs lime for any reason, powdered lime rock makes a better barn floor application than does sand. Some farmers think it kills flies. In that they are mistaken. Fly eggs and fly larvae are not killed, or even harmed, by powdered lime rock. They can even stand unslaked lime unless the lime absorbs enough moisture to raise the temperature to the killing point. Another limitation is the fact that the soil on which milk can be profitably produced is generally pretty well supplied with lime. Unless a farmer has some wet sour spots on his land he is not likely to gain much from fertilizers made out of lime and lime rock.

Prof. Worthen says a ton of manure from a cow barn contains 14 pounds of ammonia, 9 pounds of potash, and only 3 pounds of phosporic acid. To sprinkle the barn floor and gutters with 1 to 2 pounds per cow of 18 per cent superphosphate will add about 50 pounds of this fertilizer to the 3 pounds in each ton, and will thus greatly increase the fertilizer value. Almost any type of land will be benefited by the application of fertilizer that is rich in phosphate. The barn will be free from odors and the cows will be clean. Clean cows means clean milk. Clean milk is wholesome.

INTOXICATION AND INFECTION.

C. E. W. writes: Will you please explain the difference between these terms, especially in regard to whether disease due to one or the other is different in regard to being contagious?

Are intoxication, or internal poisoning, caused, say, by spoiled food, and infection caused by a virus, the same or different things pathologically? I wish I could state the question better, but I am sure you will know what I mean.

REPLY.

Intoxication is caused by certain chemical substances; infection by certain microbes. The toxic chemicals may be the products of microbes, but the creature is not present in person. The difference is about the same as that between the movies and the old theater. Whisky is the product of a microbe and it causes intoxication. The microbe—the yeast plant—is not present. Consumption is an infection. The microbe is present in person. All forms of food poisoning, properly speaking, are intoxications. However, a few food outbreaks are really infections due to live bacteria present in the foods. Those are not food poisonings, in the proper sense. There are certain bacterial diseases that are intoxications in a certain sense. Diphtheria is an illustration. The diphtheria bacillus locates in the throat, causing inflammation there. In those it is an infection. The poisons secreted by the bacillus are absorbed and circulated by the blood, causing most of the systemic symptoms of diphtheria. In this phase diphtheria is an intoxication. To be contagious, the live bacteria must be present.

STORE SALES DROP DURING SEPTEMBER

Stocks Increase Over August But Are Less for Year; Bankers to Meet.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Sales in local department stores for September were 1.3 per cent off from those of the month last year, statistics made public yesterday by Chairman William W. Hoxton of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond revealed. Sales for the nine months period are 9 per cent under the corresponding period last year.

Stocks as of September 30, were 7.9 per cent off from those of September 30, 1930, but 14.1 per cent ahead compared with those of August 31, 1931. Local stocks have been turned 2.87 times since January 1, and .324 times in September. The percentage of September 1 receivables collected in September 1931, was 28.

Three special adresses, including a discussion of the National Credit Corporation by a director of the corporation, a discussion of "American Railroads and Their Securities," by the general counsel of an important railroad and a discussion of real estate securities, by a nationally-known authority on real estate law, have been added to the program of the annual convention of the Investment Bankers Association of America November 7 to 11, it was announced at the association's office yesterday.

John Miller to Speak

John M. Miller, jr., a director of the National Credit Corporation and president of the First & Merchants National Bank of Richmond, Va., will address the convention on "The New National Credit Corporation" Tuesday, November 10. John J. Cornwell, general counsel of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad and former Governor of West Virginia, will speak on railroad securities at the afternoon session of the convention November 9. At the close of the Monday afternoon convention session delegates will assemble in a special forum on real estate securities. Frederick C. Hack, of the Chicago law firm of Winston, Strawn & Shaw, will address this meeting on the legal difficulties in the present depression, the extent to which the law may be responsible for these difficulties, and the remedies that may be applied.

Louis K. Boysen, vice president of the First Union Trust & Savings Bank, Chicago, and chairman of the association's real estate securities committee, will preside at this forum. Previous to the first session of the convention, on November 9, there will be, on November 7 and 8, 31 specialized meetings, including four sessions of the board of governors and 21 meetings of committees. The entire procedure of the association's twentieth annual convention at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., will include 37 general and special meetings.

Prospects of the following industries in relation to current and near-term earnings are listed as most promising and good by the Standard Statistics Co., of New York:

Most promising—Chain stores, dairy products, package foods, refrigeration, specialty bakeries, cigarettes, electric and gas utilities, telephones.

Good—Automobile parts, passenger automobiles, beverages, flour and feed, medicines and drugs, metal containers, shoes, sulphur, and welding supplies.

Most Promising Group.

The "most promising" group comprises those industries which to date have been most successful in maintaining a relatively satisfactory level of income and which may be expected to demonstrate equal ability during the remainder of 1931. While those trades rated "good" probably cannot be expected to show material improvement in earnings from current low levels during the final half of this year, they are in a position to register substantial gains during the early stages of general business recovery.

Offices of officers of Riggs National Bank have been equipped with handsome new desks and attractive furniture.

The American Duchess of Marlborough and her husband are reported to have come to a parting of ways according to recent dispatches from London. Winston Churchill, a kin of the duke's and Kind Edward, are both endeavoring to effect a reconciliation.

The balloon Centaur, with Capt. Hedge, F. M. Butler, of the Aero Club of New York, and Leo Stevens, the aeronaut, raced 25 automobiles yesterday from Pittsfield, Mass., to New Haven, and set a record when the 126 miles was covered in two and one-half hours.

C. W. Barnett, of Tulsa, Ind., was almost lynched yesterday when he tore the American flag from a mast in Tulsa and trampled on it. Mayor Brown, of Bedford, averted a killing when he arrested Barnett, charged him with disturbing the peace and said he would be tried for treason.

A special dispatch from New York reports that E. H. Harriman made a clever financial move yesterday in his fight to depose Stuyvesant Fish from the presidency of the Illinois Central Railroad.

Ute Indians who have been engaged in open hostilities with American cavalry troops near Sheridan, Wyo., have agreed to call a truce while Chief Black Whiskers and Chief Red Cap go to Washington to talk over the difficulties with President Roosevelt.

SPOUSE OF BEDELL IS GRILLED 3 HOURS IN ATTACK ON LEIVA

Says Letters From Husband Were Confined Solely to Forgery Charge.

POLICE SHOWN MISSIVES TO BACK UP STATEMENT

Accused Man Will Be Given Hearing in New York Within Two Weeks.

Mrs. "Billie" Bedell, alias Ruth Lee, 27 years old, said by police to be the wife of William E. Bedell, who is being held in New York in connection with the assault upon Dr. Don Carlos Leiva, Minister of El Salvador, was taken into custody last night and held for investigation at the House of Detention.

Information unearthed by police revealed that Mrs. Bedell had been in communication with the suspect since he was arrested in New York two weeks ago on a charge of forgery of fraudulent stock certificates.

For three hours last night the woman was questioned by Capt. Edward J. Kelly and Detective Sergts. Floyd A. Truscott and Dennis Murphy, but claimed ignorance of Bedell's alleged connection with the attempted liquor theft at the Legation of El Salvador.

His correspondence with her, she said, was confined solely to the forgery charge against him in New York, and she exhibited the letters from him as proof of her statement.

Bedell will be given a hearing in two weeks before a United States commissioner in New York on a fugitive warrant filed against him last week by Detective Sergt. Larry O'Dea. The warrant is based on the alleged assault of Dr. Leiva. The woman is being held for further questioning. She gave her address as 497 Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

Ship Firm Worker Wins Garnishment Immunity

The United States Shipping Board Merchant Fleet Corporation is an agency of the United States and its employes are not subject to writs of attachment and garnishment, the District Court of Appeals said yesterday in dismissing an appeal brought by Margaret M. McCarthy to enforce a judgment for $10,415 which she held against William J. McCarthy, an employe of the corporation.

The court said that governmental agencies could not be made subject to garnishment of employes, and that the Shipping Board, as a Government agency, came under this restriction.

Three Persons Injured When Auto Overturns

Three persons out of seven passengers in a sedan were slightly injured last night when the machine overturned on New Hampshire avenue just north of Farragut street northwest. Mrs. Lorraine Elkins, 19 years old, of 3145 Mount Pleasant street northwest, who told police she was driving the car, said the steering gear broke.

The injured, all of whom were treated at Garfield Hospital, were Miss Rose Solomon, 19 years old, of 3116 Ninth street northwest; Miss Virginia Robert, 20 years old, of 40 B street southwest, and Miss Sadie Bargani, 19 years old. A man and two other persons in the car were unhurt.

Marine War Hero Becomes Colonel

Lieut. Col. Meade Gets Step in Rank While Posted at Quantico.

Lieut. Col. James J. Meade, U. S. M. C., 2900 Cathedral avenue northwest, chief of the general staff at Quantico, Va., yesterday was promoted to the rank of colonel. Eagles, symbolic of his rank were pinned on his shoulders by his commanding officer, Brig. Gen. Randolph C. Berkely, at quarters.

Col. Meade was the first official Marine Corps observer in France in the World War. The company he commanded was the first to land at Vera Cruz, Mex., in the last hostilities there and as captain he was in charge of Army and Marine communications after the Mexican situation was under control.

In 1917 he organized a signal battalion which trained men for the Fourth and Fifth Marines in France. He was with the forces that defeated those of Charlemagne Peralte, chief of the Caco bandits in Haiti, in 1919. He holds the Navy Cross and the Nicaraguan Medal of Merit for services with the First Marine Expeditionary Force in Nicaragua.

Engineer Denies Cutting New E Street Paving

Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, chief engineer of the Highway Department, yesterday denied the charge made by "A Taxpayer" in a letter to the editor of The Post that E street, between Thirteen and a Half street and Pennsylvania avenue, had been torn up by the Water Department just after it had been newly paved.

The section of the street cut into, he said, was the old portion which had not been repaved when E street was widened. The work was not done at that time, he added, because opening of E street was more urgent. No new street pavement has been cut into for such work, save in emergency cases, in three years, he declared.

Photographers Elect DeTitta as President

Members of the White House Photographers Association last night elected Arthur DeTitta president of the organization at a meeting held at the National Press Club. A program of entertainment included the exhibition of several reels of motion pictures made by members of the group.

Other officers chosen are H. Greenberg, vice president, and Harry Van Tine, secretary and treasurer.

Sky Views of Washington—No. 3

Fairchild Aerial Surveys, Inc.

THE old Patterson tract, now partially occupied by the new Union Market Terminal, wartime site of Camp Meigs, is shown in the above picture, which embraces an area now undergoing rapid development.

To the left are the several buildings devoted to the new market enterprise, sponsored by one of the first groups of business men to break away from the old Louisiana avenue commission stands when Center Market was doomed.

The long, low shed below the patch of woodland in the upper left hand corner is the farmers' market, provided by the terminal merchants. The little dots distributed over the area are, of course, automobiles, for there are ample parking facilities on the grounds.

In the upper right hand corner is Kendall Green, and Gallaudet College, the only institution of its kind for the deaf and mute in this country.

The new building in the lower central section of the picture, where N street intersects Florida avenue, is occupied by the National Capital Press, Inc. The thoroughfare running horizontally above this building is Fourth street, intersecting O street a block to the right. The New York avenue extension, which opens today, provides a new outlet through this territory. It cuts through just to the left of this picture.

Tomorrow—United States Pension Office, Courthouse grounds and vicinity.)

TIP MAY PROVE LEAD IN MARY BAKER CASE DESPITE COLD TRAIL

Detective Speeds to Town in Pennsylvania on Basis of Information.

LANCASTER MAN HELD TO HAVE VITAL FACTS

Anonymous Letter Conveys New Data to Police But Has Proved Vague.

An anonymous "tip" yesterday sent Washington police out again in an attempt to pick up the cold trail of the slayer of Mary Baker, Navy Department clerk, whose murder April 11, 1929, has remained one of the most mysterious cases they have ever been called to handle.

This time the trail led to Lancaster, Pa., and Sergt. John C. Dalglish is in the Pennsylvania town attempting to run down a report that a man employed here knows something about the murder. The tip was received in an anonymous letter, in which the man was referred to only as "Mr. Thornton."

Lancaster police, it is understood, thus far have not been able to aid Sergt. Dalglish in locating Thornton. Washington police said yesterday they believed the letter was received from a woman the new figure in the case had "jilted." He is said to have boasted he knew something about Mary Baker's death.

The Police Department, during its long months of work on the case, has arrested many suspects. Herbert M. Campbell, Virginia real estate man, was the only person brought to trial in the case and he was promptly acquitted.

Thief Flees With $272 At Junior League Office

The Washington Junior League and one of its members were victimized in a 727 theft at its headquarters, 1529 Connecticut avenue northwest yesterday. Police were asked to search for a colored boy who was seen about the headquarters and said he was "waiting for some one."

Miss Mary Bradley, of 1601 Twenty-eighth street northwest, secretary told police that $12 in bills was missing from the league's cash drawer, and that Mrs. Winifred Waterbury, of the Wardman Park Hotel, had lost a pocketbook she valued at $25, a railroad mileage book worth $75, two American Express Co. checks, both of $50 denmoniation, and $60 in cash.

Sherman Brothers Sued by Woman

Express Company Named Also in Action Over Travel Tickets.

Jessie Holt, an officer of the Children's Hospital, Thirteenth and W streets northwest, yesterday brought suit against Frederick P. Small, as president of the American Express Company, and James W. and Alpheus Sherman, brothers, who formerly traded as the Sherman Travel Service.

Miss Holt claims in her suit that on August 3, 1928, she paid a small deposit to purchase a ticket for a round the world cruise. She had all together $1,260 and when she offered to pay the balance of slightly over $700, no one would accept the money.

The Shermans were at one time indicted for taking the money, but the indictment was found to be faulty because of an illegal grand juror. The express company is brought into the suit because the Shermans are alleged to have been acting as their agents in the sale of the tickets. Attorney P. H. Marshall represented Miss Holt.

Highland Citizens Rename Dr. Battle

Resolution Requests More Frequent Mail Deliveries in Neighborhood.

Dr. Lewis J. Battle was elected president for the eighth time by the Sixteenth Street Highlands Citizens Association, which met last night at the Sixth Presbyterian Church.

The entire slate of officers was renamed. They are Harry A. Wood and Dr. J. P. Turner, vice presidents; J. W. Hollingsworth, secretary; David H. Lum, treasurer, and George B. Bishop and Harry I. Quinn, delegates to the Federation of Citizens Associations.

In a resolution which was offered by J. F. Guilfoyle the District Postoffice was asked that mail deliveries in the section be more frequent and earlier. It was adopted. A second resolution in which the association was asked to publish a monthly bulletin outlining its work was referred to the executive committee for consideration. E. C. Snyder was appointed chairman of the executive committee.

Youth Injured in Plunge.

A possible fracture of the spine was suffered yesterday by Charles E. Burgess, 16, of 5037 Conduit road northwest, when he fell through an open stairway into the basement of a building job on which he was working at Hurst terrace northwest. He was taken to Georgetown Hospital for treatment.

Police Rush to Store; Find Forgetful Owner

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel D. Zlotnick, operators of a fur store at 1120 G street northwest, had a number of uninvited guests at the light repast they were enjoying in the rear of the store about 10:15 o'clock last night, but only because Mr. Zlotnick is forgetful.

They entered the store to partake of some sandwiches and a bottle of ginger ale, and a short time later were startled to find police pouring through the front door. With sirens shrieking, a cruiser car and a radio scout, not to mention men from a burglar alarm agency, had hastened to the store.

Mr. Zlotnick had forgotten to inform the protective agency he was going to enter his store that late at night.

HALLOWEEN LIQUOR LANDS 104 IN COURT

Judges Turn Deaf Ears and Give Stiff Terms to Some at Bar.

Washingtonians who celebrated their Halloween not wisely but too well from the well-known jug, bent a penitent knee in Police Court yesterday when called upon to answer for their folly.

The number was large—104—and not one escaped. The old stories of just a wee nip too much and its kindred tales fell upon the deaf ears of judges, and in some cases, where repeaters were before the court, stiff sentences were handed down.

The Halloween crowd, on the whole, was orderly, according to the police. Few arrests for disorderly conduct were made.

Inspector E. W. Brown, acting superintendent of police, gave credit for this good behavior to the people themselves, and also pointed out that the organized celebration had greatly reduced vandalism throughout the city. He described the crowd as "one of the largest and most orderly" he had ever seen, and expressed the thanks of the police for the cooperation given them by the merrymakers.

William A. Roberts, general chairman of the celebration, yesterday, in a statement, expressed his thanks to the police and fire departments and to all the public utilities and other companies which helped to make the affair a success. He also thanked the donors of the various prizes.

Police located the injured man after a colored woman observed him fall into the pit and called the Fourth Precinct. The officers placed a charge of intoxication against him.

Blackmer Signs Fine Assignment

Marshal Holding $60,000 Bonds for Action of Court.

In the event that the fines of $60,000 assessed against Harry M. Blackmer, oil inquiry witness who refused to return from Paris to testify, are set aside by the United States Supreme Court, the money will be paid over to George Gordon Battle, New York attorney, according to an assignment signed by Blackmer and transmitted to United States Marshal Snyder yesterday.

Marshal Snyder is holding the bonds for court action, and if the court orders them returned, Snyder is directed in the asignment to return them to Battle.

Blackmer was fined $60,000 for failing to respond to a subpena. A special act of Congress was passed to take care of the case, and its constitutionality has never before been tested. The late Justice Frederick L. Siddons assessed the fines, and the United States marshal levied upon Blackmer funds in a local bank.

Conviction of Violator Of Liquor Law Upheld

Conviction of Sam Hurwitz on charges of sale, transportation and possession of liquor, was upheld by the District Court of Appeals yesterday.

The case went to appeal because of an act of Congress that substantially changed some provisions of the Jones act, providing a maximum fine of $10,000 and five years in jail for commercial violators of the law. The attorneys for Hurwitz contended that while their client was arrested before the change, he should be tried on the amended act. This the Court of Appeals ruled against in affirming the decision.

Heart Attack Kills Woman In Cab.

NEW HEATING PLANT DESIGN IS APPROVED BY FINE ARTS GROUP

SPAN OVER ROCK CREEK ON P STREET IS PASSED

Decision in Columbia Island Columns Controversy Expected Today.

Plans for the new central heating plant for Government buildings in the Triangle area, submitted by Secretary Mellon yesterday at a conference between the Secretary and the Fine Arts Commission, were approved.

The building, designed by the United Engineers and Constructors, with Paul T. Cret, consulting architect, will be located between C and D streets and Twelfth and Thirteenth streets southwest.

Revised plans for an annex to the Library of Congress, to be placed on the square to the east of the present building, were also submitted.

Street Bridge Approved.

Approval of a design for a new P street bridge over Rock Creek Valley was given by the commission as it opened a two-day session. The span was designed by Albert L. Harris, municipal architect, and C. R. Whyte, bridge engineer.

The commission approved a revised plan for memorial gates at the Naval Academy. Yesterday morning members of the arts body visited Columbia Island.

Some decision on proposed columns on Columbia Island is expected today as result of a controversy stirred up by civic groups who contend that the shafts would constitute a hazard to aviation because of proximity of the Washington-Hoover Airport.

Plans for a proposed extension of the National Museum 200 feet on each end, submitted by Dr. Alexander R. Wetmore, assistant secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, and the Allied Architects, were examined by the commission.

Swanson Talks War-Navy Site.

Plans for a rest house to be constructed at Wakefield Manor, the birthplace of George Washington, were submitted by Edward W. Donn, Washington architect.

The commission arranged to confer with Secretary Mellon regarding designs for the George Washington Bicentennial 25-cent coin, submitted by the director of the mint.

Senator Swanson (Democrat), Virginia, yesterday discussed with President Hoover the location of the new War and Navy Building. Although three sites have been proposed, the Virginia senator said he favors one near the Lincoln Memorial end of the Mall parkway.

Man and Woman Held After Razor Attack

A man and a woman were held by police for investigation last night, pending outcome of injuries to a second man who is at Emergency Hospital with serious cuts inflicted by a razor.

The two held are Miss Lenora Jennevine, 23 years old, and Charles Boling, 48 years old, both of 812 Twelfth street northwest. Police accuse Boling of a razor attack on Andrew Norman Franklin, also of 812 Twelfth street northwest. They said Boling had been going with the woman and returned home last night to find her in company with Franklin.

BETTER TAXI RULES SOUGHT BY CHAMBER

Citizens' Federation Joins in Movement for More Adequate Cab Control.

Two leading organizations in Washington—the Chamber of Commerce and the Federation of Citizens Associations—yesterday went on record as urging more adequate control of taxicabs in the District.

Periodic tests of taxicab drivers and their machines, and compulsory indemnity insurance covering all taxicabs or establishment of adequate sinking funds, are among the recommendations of the transportation committee of the chamber proposed yesterday at a meeting in the Hamilton Hotel.

The committee also recommended restriction of cruising by taxicabs on major business streets; adoption of some method of measuring service so that charges will be more nearly proportionate to the service; a cost-of-service investigation as a basis for determination of a fair and proper rate adjustment; equipment of all taxicabs with nonshatterable glass; authorization of the Public Utilities Commission to issue at its discretion certificates of convenience and necessity covering taxicab operation.

William McK. Clayton, chairman of the public utilities committee of the federation informed the Public Utilities Commission by letter that the committee had placed itself on record as favoring compulsory liability insurance for all taxicab operators.

The committee also asked an opportunity to be heard before the commission makes any changes in the present 3-zone system. The letter explained that the action of the committee is subject to approval by the federation.

The recommendations of the chamber were made by a subcommittee consisting of Allen V. De Ford, chairman; J. Roger Yates and C. Phillips Hill, and were the result of conferences with the affected transportation groups and a study of data from Boston, New York, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and other cities. In presenting the recommendations, the subcommittee suggested that Congress enact the necessary legislation to put the recommendations into effect if the utilities commission lacks power to do so.

Street Work to Halt During Yuletide Season

To keep Washington streets open for holiday season traffic, Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, chief engineer of the Highway Department, yesterday announced that no tearing up of streets or pavement will be permitted, except in an emergency, from December 10 to January 2.

No permits for such work are to be issued after December 1, and all subsurface jobs must be completed by December 10. Notices were sent to utility companies and District underground divisions.

Dry Laws, Sabatini Opines, Mean End of Good Cooking

One Needs Wines to Flavor Some of Best Dishes, Says Noted Author; Criminals Are Doing World No Good, He Declares, With Laugh.

A romantic writer emerged for half an hour last night from the imaginative past, in which he spends most of his time, to discuss gangsters, prohibition and other peculiarities of the present day. He is Rafael Sabatini, whose historical novels are read and loved throughout the world.

Mr. Sabatini, who is in Washington to deliver a lecture tonight at Central Community Institute, believes the present period of history will appear as romantic to writers of future generations as the gay past of cavaliers and queens of which he writes. He explained we are too close to contemporary life to see its romance, but predicted that the roar of the machine age will echo in the imaginations of writers hundreds of years hence.

The author of "Scaramouche," "The Sea Hawk" and "Captain Blood," and other books, sat in his suite at the Mayflower Hotel and toyed with a monocle while he discussed the prosaic present. "Prohibition," he said, "will mean the end of good cooking. One needs wines to flavor some of the best dishes," he added with a laugh.

Mr. Sabatini almost scowled when asked if he saw any romance in the gangster. "Criminals, doing the world no good," he dismissed Al Capone and the other racketeers. He believes World Peace is possible and that there will never be another war as long as the memory of the last conflict is in the memory of man. He laughed at the idea that the present civilization faces the same fate as Rome.

When he is not writing, Mr. Sabatini studies books of the past. He writes in trains, on boats, in hotels, anywhere he may be. He wrote a play which failed in New York last year, and vows he will never write another. "If a play fails," he said, "the critics blame the author. If it succeeds, the cast gets all the praise."

Mr. Sabatini will lecture on "Fiction in History." He said that he would like also to discuss "History in Fiction," but the time allotted for a lecture does not permit it. The visiting author will be the guest of the Women's National Press Club at luncheon today, and after the lecture tonight he will be given a reception by the Lido Civic Club at the Mayflower.

Forest Hills Group Backs Capper Bill

Votes Also to Ask District Heads to Buy Tract for Park and School.

Cooperation with the joint committee of citizens associations working for passage of the Capper bill for election of members of the Board of Education was voted by the Forest Hills Citizens Association last night in Ben Murch School.

The organization voted also to send a letter to the District Commissioners urging that the District acquire all of the tract bounded by Fortieth street, Thirty-eighth street, Brandywine street and Fessenden street northwest for the purpose of establishing a park and erecting a senior high school.

On this tract, it was pointed out, are located the Reno Reservoir and the Alice Deal Junior High School, but the land surrounding these properties is in a serious state of neglect and much in need of beautification, and parents object to sending their children to school in such surroundings. Commander F. L. Sandos was designated by the association to be its representative at the forthcoming dedication ceremonies at Alice Deal Junior High School. Col. John O. Johnson presided.

Third Citizen Group Fights Orphan Park Road Bus Line

The proverbial fat-man-whom-nobody-loves has nothing on the Park road bus line of the Washington Railway & Electric Co.

After apparently settling the neighborhood problem to everyone's satisfaction, the Public Utilities Commission was startled yesterday by a bombardment of complaints from residents of Lamont street, between Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets, which had been included in the proposed new route.

Trouble was started by residents of Kenyon street, between Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets, where the bus line now runs. Grinding of gears as the buses pulled a 6 per cent grade, it seems, disturbed them. They proposed shifting the route to Irving street.

But Irving street residents forthwith protested. A public hearing was held by the commission in an effort to effect a reconciliation and District authorities suggested that the two parties settle the matter among themselves.

They did. They suggested that the bus be rerouted to Lamont street, which has a 4 per cent grade. But they failed to inquire whether Lamont street residents had any objection.

As the joint traffic board of the Utilities Commission and the District Commissioners has not yet approved the new route, it has not gone into effect. Yesterday the commission appealed to patrons of the bus line to come to an agreement with all interested parties present. Meanwhile, decision will be held in abeyance.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

AUTUMN SONG FOR A CYNICAL SUBURBANITE

I.

The countryside is like a gypsy's gown,
All color is the wayside and the field;
In scarves of yellow, russet, red and brown
The maple trees a merry presence yield;
The hills are like some painting rich and grand—
How gorgeous are the mountains at the dawn!
Baloney! That's my answer, understand,
As I rake tons of leaves from off the lawn.

II.

The nuts are getting browner all the day,
The berry's cheek gets plumper all the time;
How golden is the field of corn and hay!
How laden are the squirrels as they climb!
The land is steeped in peace of silent dreams,
The nodding trees their rich apparel shake—
Aw, apple sauce! To me it simply seems
A lotta work with shovel, broom and rake!

III.

The smell of cider fills the languid air,
The gobble of the turkey cock is heard;
November weaves a garland in her hair
And sighs to hear the swift departing bird;
The stubble-plains are touched with rosy hue
As float the painted autumn leaves, alas!
The heck with it! It's more than I can do
To rake the litter off the walk and grass.

IV.

Oh days of beauty standing veiled apart
With dreamy skies and gorgeous tints to spare,
In this rich Indian summer of the heart
Well may the earth her jeweled halo wear;
The long brown fields for many countless miles
Blaze brightly 'neath the Great Magician's touch;
Sez you, well help me rake the leaves in piles—
It will not change your autumn song—not much!

V.

The pearly vapors lie along the skies
As autumn tries to linger on a spell;
The duck to warmer havens swiftly flies
And nature paints the hillside and the dell;
There is no season of the year so bright
With color splashed against the tawny sward—
Okay, but why should all those dead leaves light
Exclusively, I ask, in my front yard?

This department went into a news reel theater recently for the first time since last May. The May program included Mussolini addressing the Boy Scouts, George Bernard Shaw lecturing the world at large, Col. Londbergh, an army blimp being berthed in its hangar, President Hoover making a speech and some turkeys being driven to market. The news real picture editors are still refusing to take any chances on the public taste. The more recent visit showed President Hoover making a speech, Col. Lindbergh, some turkeys being driven to market, Mussolini addressing Boy Scouts, and an army blimp being berthed in its hangar.

"We're very old friends," one actor in the new Eugene O'Neill play, "Mourning Becomes Electra," was saying of another. "I met him years ago, back, in fact, in the very first act of this show!"

FOOTBALL TRAFFIC OBSERVATION.

And know the long delay
In getting to the big bowls, James,
In time to see them play.

I know how Boston's rules will read,
I know New Haven's, too;
I know how Princeton will proceed
To knock the routes askew.

And this I hereby do proclaim—
That if the cops would scram
And scrap those signs "This Way to Game"—
There'd be NO TRAFFIC JAM.

Several of America's most famous industrial leaders say that the corner has been turned and that prosperity is just ahead of us. Nothing has frightened the public so much in months.

It is reported that Capone remarked to his lawyer yesterday, "Hey, it begins to look as if they're goin' through with this."

Would-Be Suicide Foiled By Suspicions of Druggist

A sharp-witted druggist last night foiled what Fred Martinez, 22 years old, of 305 Fourth street northeast, had decided would be his last act on earth. As a result, Martinez, although he passed a bad half hour or two, will be none the worse for his attempt to end his own life.

Martinez, according to his roommate, Cummings Johns, has been despondent for several days. Last night he went to a drug store and tried to buy a poison.

The druggist engaged the young man in conversation and divined that he intended to take his own life. He refused to sell him the poison but gave him "something just as good." But instead of poison he sold Martinez an emetic.

Johns told police he came home and found his roommate ill and called for the Casualty Hospital ambulance. An ambulance physician said he would suffer no ill effects.
